Olympia Stepping Up Security

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

DETROIT — An expanded security system will be tested this weekend at Olympia Stadium following the slaying last Sunday of a former Fairplain man in a nearby city parking lot. Stadium general manager Lincoln Cavallieri said Olympia would double the number of unarmed private guards in its own parking lot. A special security van will also patrol the stadium lot, nearby city lots and adjacent streets.

David Jones, 31, vice president of a Southfield, Mich., mortgage company, was robbed and fatally shot while walking to his car alone after a late reception at the stadium. His wife, Catherine, daughter of a Stevensville woman, waited in the stadium.

Cavallieri announced the beefed-up precautions Thursday after meeting with city police officials. An additional security vehicle will provide rides or escorts for people leaving the stadium at night to walk to their cars, he said. Cavallieri also said the Detroit Red Wings hockey team is considering switching some of its scheduled night games to afternoons.

Jones, a 1963 graduate of Benton Harbor high school, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jones, formerly of 1843 Commonwealth road, Fairplain. The parents now live in Holiday, Fla. Mrs. Jones is the daughter of Mrs. Helen Beat of Stevensville and Frederick Beat.

Plane Misses US-31; 2 Dead

GRAND HAVEN, Mich. (AP) — A twin-engine plane apparently was trying to make an emergency landing on a freeway in heavy snow Thursday when it nosedived onto a hillside, killing two people and injuring seven others, State Police reported.

The plane, on a charter to Century Builders of Grand Rapids, a real estate development firm, lost power and came down within 15 feet of an access ramp to U.S. 31 in Ottawa County. The dead and injured were members of three western Michigan families.

The plane crashed a few feet from a house and one of the occupants ran to the scene.

"I was watching TV in the living room when I heard a dull roar," said Roger Tate, a senior at Grand Haven High School. "I ran like hell outside ... The plane was a mangled mess and there was blood all over the front."

"Then I heard somebody yelling from inside. 'Get me out, get me out,' and I found a little boy and got him out. All he could say is 'Where's my nia, where's my nia?'"

The dead were identified as the pilot, Gerald Battjest, 52, of Hudsonville, and a passenger, Henry Velzen Jr., 48, of Grand Rapids.

The pilot's wife, Evelyn, 54, was listed in critical condition at Grand Rapids Butterworth Hospital.

The other passengers were hospitalized with various injuries at North Ottawa Community Hospital in Grand Haven and Hackley Hospital in Muskegon. They were Velzen's wife, Jane, 43, and their two sons, Steve, 11, and Dan, 7. Others injured were Howard Reenders, 45, his wife, Barbara, 43, and their daughter, Lisa, 9.

Ferrysburg Police Chief Robert Gesiakowski said he was told that moments before the crash the plane's pilot had radioed that the craft had lost power in one engine.

DEAD LOONS: Biologists are investigating cause of current die-off of common loons on Lake Michigan shoreline from New Buffalo to South Haven. Several of dead birds are seen on beach off Glenford road in Lincoln township. It's believed a minimum of 1,000 dead loons have turned up along shoreline from New Buffalo to South Haven. First reports of die-off came several weeks ago. This is third time in past 13 years large number of loons have turned up dead on shore. Biologists suspect botulism is cause for die-off again. Botulism, one of most deadly poisons known to man, is a natural part of environment developing from bacteria on decaying flesh. Biologists speculate loons, which migrate along shoreline each fall, died after eating some dead fish. (Walter Booth photo)

Employees Want Welfare Probe

DETROIT (AP) — An official of the union representing about 1,000 welfare department employees has called for a criminal investigation of the Wayne County welfare system.

The vice president of Local 1880 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) said Thursday there is evidence in the Wayne County system of a "criminal conspiracy" to funnel money out of the Michigan Department of Social Services.

"John Dempsey (state welfare director) and Gov. Milliken are responsible for not only allowing this mess to develop, but also for trying to cover it up," AFSCME official Richard Gibson charged.

Gibson asked that state Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley take over the welfare investigation, and asked Auditor General Albert Lee to assume all further audits of Department of Social Services programs.

Gibson also called Dempsey's disciplinary action against four Wayne County welfare agency employees "indecisive and spineless."

Dempsey on Monday announced the disciplinary action against Kenneth Jackson, Laurence Hempton, Fred Bayles and R.B. Shelton.

Jackson, former head of the county's fiscal audit division, was suspended without pay for two weeks after an internal audit report found discrepancies in accounting procedures in his department.

Hempton, Jackson's assistant, was removed from the fiscal bureau for several weeks and received a written reprimand. Bayles, a county welfare administrator, was transferred to another office and received a written reprimand.

Shelton, director of the county's welfare office, received

Ross Field Runs Deficit Despite Rise In Revenue

The Twin Cities airport increased its operating income during fiscal 1976, but still showed a loss for the year, according to an audit presented to the airport board yesterday.

The audit reported income from operations at $225,245 and operating expenses of $177,112 for a net of $48,133 — $27,392 more than last year.

However, when depreciation was figured, Ross field showed a net loss of $25,802 compared to a loss of $37,034 for fiscal '75, according to the audit prepared by Herkner, Snits, Miskill and Merrillfield, certified public accountants, Benton Harbor.

Airport Manager Ronald Momany said the audit "reflected an acceptable operating year."

He added, "The deficit can be attributed to the airport's inability to totally fund its depreciation on assets."

The airport's operating revenue comes from gasoline sales, hangar and other rentals, landing fees and parking fees.

Momany said the increase in revenue for fiscal '76 came mainly from gasoline sales, parking lot fees, and an agreement under which North Central Airlines partially pays for security guards.

The audit noted the airport received "unrestricted contributions" of $48,000 compared to $43,000 in fiscal '75. These funds are apart from operating revenue and in fiscal '76 came from Berrien county, $25,000; City of St. Joseph, $7,500; City of Benton Harbor, $7,500; Benton township, $5,000; and St. Joseph township, $3,000.

A new member was seated on the airport board yesterday. Carroll W. Gerbel, 38, is new St. Joseph township representative, replacing E.A. (Larry) Larson. Gerbel is a township trustee and was selected by the township board to replace Larson, who was formerly township treasurer.

Wednesday of this week, members of the board and Momany went to Lansing to discuss financing of the master plan for the airport with Federal Aviation administration (FAA) and Michigan Aeronautics commission officials.

According to Momany, federal money is supposed to fund 90 per cent of the study, but the FAA believes the estimated $103,000 price tag on the study is too high. The FAA would like to see the study done for about $77,000 with the state and the airport picking up the remaining 10 per cent.

The result of the meeting was that the planning firm of Landrum and Brown, Cincinnati, is to meet with FAA officials to see if the price of the master plan can't be whittled down.

Phone 'Con Artist' Dialing SJ Women

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

St. Joseph Police Chief Tom Gillespie today warned city residents to beware of a crank telephone caller posing as a social worker who has "skillfully" elicited much personal information from four women during the past week.

Gillespie said the man is a "real con artist" who generally opens the conversation saying he is looking for a young girl, then talks at great length, gradually turning the conversation to sex. Gillespie said women who have reported incidents say they have talked for as long as an hour with the man before realizing the personal information they are giving out.

He advised people who get calls, all women thus far, to hang up. He stressed they should not try to reason with the man. Crank calls should be reported to the police, he said. Gillespie said the caller has not yet attempted to make contact with anyone he has talked with.

Gillespie said the four women reporting to his department all live in St. Joseph. No other police agencies in the Twin Cities have reported such calls.

SJ Planners Oppose City's Best Interests

If St. Joseph were a city without rental housing, last week's approval by the city planning commission of 48 new apartments would be understandable. But in view of the actual facts, the 6 to 1 recommendation sent by the planners to the city commission is incredible.

At last official count, St. Joseph—a city of only 11,000 residents—had 2,007 rental units in 809 separate buildings. Conservatively, this means that at least half—and probably more—of the residents of St. Joseph are living in rental housing.

It's a truism of local government that a high proportion of home ownership leads to good living conditions. Time was, and not too many years back, when St. Joseph had 85 per cent of its residences owner-occupied. It was this fact that gave St. Joseph its deserved reputation as a good residential community. People take care of their own property.

After World War II, scores of older homes in St. Joseph were converted to two, three, four and even five-unit apartment buildings. A former grade school had been converted to apartments even earlier.

Many of the apartments so created lie in older sections of the city. They have caused a big share of such police problems as St. Joseph has. Only unusually effective surveillance has kept them from turning some neighborhoods into outright slums.

Meanwhile, the city has not been lacking for new apartments. Three big complexes have been erected. An addition to one of them is being erected right at this moment.

Despite this plethora of apartments, only John Fetter's on the planning commission had the good judgment to vote against issuing a special use permit to let developers erect 48 apartments on the site of the old Baptist children's home (long since razed) at 1401 Langley avenue.

Six other members not only defied logic but also the wishes of a 1974 referendum in which a substantial majority of St. Joseph citizens told the city commission they don't want any more apartments.

City Manager Gerald Hepler says the Langley avenue site, about five acres, is now zoned for two-family duplexes. But, he adds, the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning Commission is recommending that this be changed to single family. Action on the proposal is only weeks away, Hepler said. Why not wait? The prospective developer has only an option on the land; he isn't the outright owner. He won't be greatly discommodated, therefore, if his project is rejected.

The Langley property offers the city a chance to expand its proportion of owner-occupied, single-family dwellings. The opportunity should not be ignored.

Moreover, until some of the older apartments that are creating police problems have been eliminated, St. Joseph should not permit any new apartment construction whatsoever.

One argument being used for permitting apartments on the Langley avenue site is that, since the property is zoned for two-family dwellings, the developer can crowd it with duplexes with or without city commission approval.

Whose fault is that? Why has the city's planning commission not done anything in years past to change a crazy-quilt zoning code?

The code inexplicably requires 10,000 square feet of property for a single-family dwelling. But a duplex for two families can be crowded onto only 5,000 square feet of property—even less under certain special cases.

It's high time St. Joseph's planning commission does some long-range planning instead of reacting in panic to the plan of every developer who comes along.

Fortunately, Planner Fetter's good sense in resisting the special use permit for the Langley apartments, has found echoes on the city commission.

City Commissioner Warren Gast predicted flat out weeks ago the commission would not approve a special permit. And while Mayor Frank Smith has not publicly commented, he and other members of the commission in the last two years have demonstrated increasing awareness of the rental housing problems within the city. One result has been an inspection program to force all housing to meet building and health codes.

Hopefully, the commission will reject the special use permit and continue as rapidly as possible with the effort already started to revise the city's antiquated zoning code.

Admittedly, some recent court decisions may make the fight for revision difficult if private owners choose to do battle. But the potential benefit to the city is well worth the effort!

Put The Tax Earners Ahead Of Tax Spenders

Once again the issue of a possible federal income tax cut has been raised — not in the context of permitting the producer to retain more of his earnings, but as a pump-priming mechanism of government.

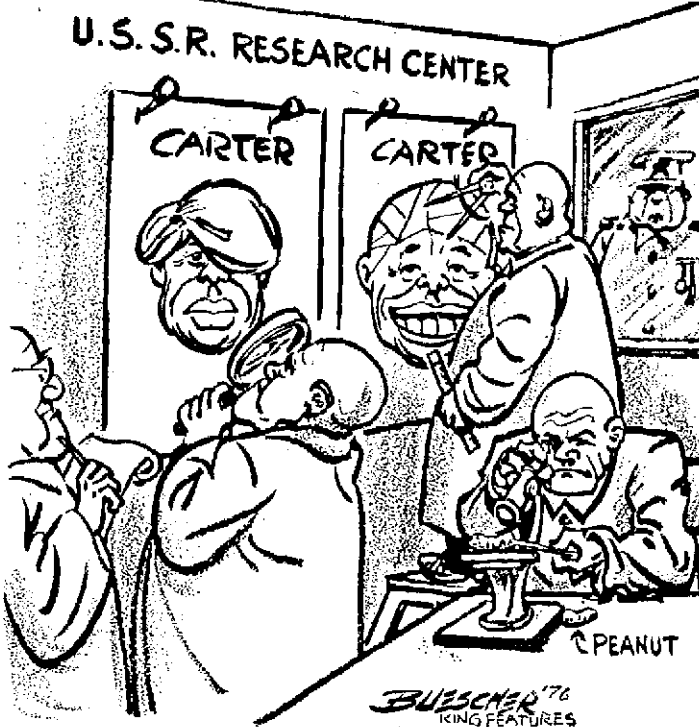

A possible tax cut in 1977 was one of the major points made by President-elect Jimmy Carter in his first post-election press conference. But it was made on an iffy basis, the big if being the state of the economy in January.

If, said the next chief executive, the economy is still sluggish at the time of his inauguration there is a good chance he will recommend a tax cut aimed at the lower income levels. The Carter tax view, in this instance at least, follows the classic pattern of the New Deal and Keynesian economists dating back at least 40 years, that juggling government fiscal policies can bring a bout needed changes in the economy.

Increasing or decreasing federal income tax rates is a favorite weapon of the fiscal theorists. Focusing tax cuts at the lowest income levels is supposed to stimulate the economy fastest because these are the people who spend most and save less of their incomes.

It is a policy which may be sound politically, but it ignores two factors: the great need for capital accumulation in the years ahead to expand the economy's potential and the growing sentiment among taxpayers in general that the tax burden they carry is becoming oppressive.

Even a President who appreciates the taxpayers' right to a greater share of his earnings would have to move slowly because of heavy federal budget deficits. But greater recognition to tax earners, as opposed to tax spenders, would be welcomed.

New Degree At LMC Is Tailored For Older Adults

A special mid-career college degree for older adults?

It's available now but unheard of a few years ago, according to a Lake Michigan College dean, Dr. Charlie K. Field, whose division of continuing education has put together just such a degree program for "adult adults and even for senior citizens."

Senior citizens in the LMC district can acquire their college degree practically free of charge, according to Field, since the college offers senior citizen tuition grants.

Up to a few years ago, the mature adult employed full-time was forced to try to fit into a regular bachelor's or associate degree program, meet all the requirements, and try to do the whole job at night school, Field indicated.

"This was possible, but it often took from 6 to 10 years to complete. The older adult isn't interested in that kind of extended effort, nor is he often interested in the typical degree in science, business, education, or engineering traditionally offered to the younger undergraduate," Field said.

To meet this need of a special degree for older adults, whether working full-time or retired, the LMC trustees last year approved a new program leading to the associate in general studies degree. This program is now in full operation at LMC and calls for as few as 30 credit hours of LMC courses.

The remaining 30 hours can be gained from work experience, correspondence courses, short-courses, and credits earned at other colleges or universities. LMC credit for work experience and correspondence courses is determined by tests developed and administered by LMC faculty members related to the subjects involved.

"This is no easy short cut. No gimmick. Just a realistic and practical method for working people and retirees to acquire a bonafide college degree who have some education, some work experience, and enough desire to put it all together in a meaningful way at LMC. The associate in general studies degree can enrich the lives of individuals tremendously and can open new cultural horizons for them. It also can help in obtaining employment and in winning promotions," Field said.

The LMC general studies degree program is not designed for those who plan to transfer to four-year institutions. Nor is it limited only to older persons. It is just as available to those young adults who already have satisfying jobs and careers and who have no desire to attend four-year colleges or universities.

The specific requirements for the LMC general studies degree are few in number: 30 semester hours of LMC classes, an overall C average, a course in political science required by state law, and two courses in English composition. The bulk of the program is developed to meet individual interests.

Up to six hours of LMC's preparatory courses and up to six hours of LMC short courses can be applied to the 30-hour program requirements, Dean Field indicated.

The general studies degree program with its minimum requirements and maximum flexibility and use of prior experience is an accepted educational phenomenon, Field said, pointing to the fact that a number of community colleges in Michigan and elsewhere have instituted similar degree programs.

LMC courses applicable to the general studies degree can be taken day or night on the college's main campus or at night at any one of LMC's 10 extension centers located at Buchanan, Covert, Gallien, Niles, River Valley, South Haven, Fennville, Cassopolis, Allegan, and St. Joseph high schools.

With LMC second semester registration running up in January, Dean Field said those interested in the general studies degree should contact the college's continuing education office as early as possible to make arrangements for counseling and advising and to obtain specific information regarding cost, classes, and registration procedures.

Jeffrey Hart GOP Squandered New Conservatives

Many of those who hoped for a Ford victory nevertheless resented to his defeat with feelings of relief as well as of sadness. Sadness — because this does mark the end of an era. The opportunities that have been squandered will now have to be sought in new ways.

The immensely promising phase of American politics that began in 1968 has come to an end, ruined by Watergate, but also by failures of imagination on the part of both Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford.

Relief too, however — because in the words of the poet Dryden, "his well an old age is out, and time to begin a new."

In 1976, with Ford in the White House, the sense of possibility that inspired many Republicans and conservatives in 1968 had become just about played out.

Ford waged an uphill, close, and even gallant fight against Jimmy Carter, but he waged it essentially with the Nixon "B" and "C" teams, nor did he give any sign of understanding the need to make the GOP a national majority party, much less of how that could be done.

Difficult as it may be to believe now, the 1968 Nixon campaign possessed a sense of genuine possibility. The young people who rode with Nixon on his campaign plane the "Tricia" or worked at Nixon headquarters at 450 Park Ave. in Manhattan reflected many of the ways in which the country and the party were changing. Frequently these young Nixon staffers were what my friend Bill Gavin has called "street corner conservatives" — that is, tough, intelligent, upwardly mobile, practical, and representing the "unfashionable minorities" (Italians, Greeks, Irish, Jews).

No one had ever thought of establishing quotas for them to ease their way into law or medical school, but they had made their way nevertheless. They were willing to work with the older and mostly WASP Republican establishment, but they were not riding in the back of the Republican bus, and they would be at the heart of any emerging conservative majority consensus.

Nixon himself understood little of all this, and Ford even less.

Nixon had the reputation of being an astute politician, but this was true only in the sense that he had completely mastered the minutiae of campaigning. He had no grasp whatever of the larger electoral and cultural patterns. At bottom, what he really wanted was acceptance and praise from the old social and political establishment that had always rejected him.

As presidents, both Nixon and Ford were hopelessly unadventurous in seeking new domestic alignments.

Nixon a master politician? Why did he not appoint an Italian to the Supreme Court, or a Greek, or a woman? Or, why did Ford run with Bob Dole instead of Anne Armstrong? This form of Republicanism is hopelessly constricted.

About half way through the first Nixon term, I recall asking John Ehrlichman, then domestic policy czar, just what the administration had done for Middle America. After looking vacant for a moment, Ehrlichman offered: Post Office reform.

Not until 1972 did it slowly and incompletely dawn on Nixon that there really did exist out in the country a large majority fed up with orthodox liberalism, but by then the idiosyncrasy of Watergate made such tardy recognition irrelevant.

As Scott Fitzgerald once said, there are no second acts in American life. Ford's role was merely to tidy up the wreckage.

The future, however lies elsewhere. The Republican label may survive, but the narrow Republicanism of the last eight years is finished.

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — A computer at the Key City Bank and Trust Co. sent out checks this week to 25 Christmas club members that were a million dollars bigger than they should have been. "I still have my check — but I haven't tried to cash it," said a surprised Mary Sweeney, whose husband is a cement mason. "I'm having a lot of fun showing it around." Key City vice-president Jack Roach said the million-dollar errors were made at the checkprinting machine. Bank employees called club members as soon as they discovered the error to advise them the checks would be cashed for the proper amount if they were brought in. "They didn't say what the error was," said Mrs. Sweeney. "You can imagine my shock when my check when my check was for $1,000,256.25." Roach said the bank wasn't worried the checks would be cashed because "any bank would call us before cashing a check for more than a million dollars." So many people wanted to keep the checks, he said, that after they are cashed they will be framed and given to the customers.

Ohio School Districts Broke; Doors Close To 10,000 Students

By TOM DIEMER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

The schoolhouse doors have been closed to nearly 10,000 Ohio children because three school districts have run out of money.

And three other districts, including Toledo, are slated to close by the end of next month, which would bring the number of affected children to 70,000.

The unscheduled vacations were made necessary when voters in the six districts last week rejected higher property tax levies necessary to keep the schools solvent.

Unless an emergency plan is worked out in the interim, officials said the schools will remain closed until the new year, when fresh state aid funds become available.

The shutdowns have prompted introduction of emergency legislation in the General Assembly, but it would provide only limited help for one district.

The Ohio situation is similar to that in Oregon, where one district with 2,600 pupils has been closed since Oct. 15 and two others with more than 6,000 pupils are preparing to close because voters refused to approve higher tax levies. The districts are forbidden by state law from accumulating a deficit by spending money they don't have.

The Ohio districts which have closed are North Union Local in rural Union County, with 1,741 students; Jackson-Milton, near Youngstown, with 1,630 enrolled; and suburban Columbus Groveport-Madison district, with 6,900 students.

The Toledo school system plans to turn out 55,600 pupils on Dec. 3. On Nov. 24, the Burton-Carol-Salem district in Ottawa County is scheduled to close to 2,230 pupils, and on Dec. 1, the Col. Crawford district in Crawford County is slated to halt classes for its 1,500 youngsters.

John Hall, chief lobbyist for the 80,000-member state Education Association, said the problem stemmed from the districts' failure to provide enough funding for education.

"They are broke because they haven't matched state money," he said.

A bill pending in the legislature would allow Columbus Groveport to reopen if voters approve a higher tax rate in a special election set for early December. The bill permits immediate borrowing, waiving a 30-day waiting period.

Rep. George Tablack, D-Youngstown, who opposes the measure, said, "We're going to bail out one school district; think of the Pandora's Box we're opening up."

A sponsor of the bill, Rep. James Bauman, D-Columbus, said, "He says we're talking about one school district. I say we're talking about 7,000 boys and girls who are not in school."

The other districts set to close do not have special elections planned and consequently would not benefit from the legislation.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Merchant, St. Joseph, will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday. They were married at New Haven, Conn., Nov. 14, 1888. The bride was compositress on the New Haven Palladium; likewise the groom was also employed on the same paper as circulation manager and collector. In 1888 the couple with their infant son went west, looking for a location. In the fall of 1888 they came to Benton Harbor, where Mr. Merchant launched a weekly newspaper, the Benton Harbor Palladium, named after the paper on which they both were employed. In 1870 they moved to St. Joseph where he was editor and publisher of the St. Joseph Herald, a weekly, from 1870 to 1912. For a time the paper was known as the St. Joseph Herald Traveler, then the word traveler was again dropped and the name St. Joseph Herald resumed. In 1901 the St. Joseph Evening Herald was launched, the weekly continuing. The Evening Herald and Saturday Herald were consolidated with the Press in 1916, changing the name to St. Joseph Herald Press and thus passing from the Merchant family into the hands of the present owners. Merchant has also served as postmaster and was instrumental in the erection of Memorial hall, St. Joseph.

SJ Planners Oppose City's Best Interests

If St. Joseph were a city without rental housing, last week's approval by the city planning commission of 48 new apartments would be understandable. But in view of the actual facts, the 6 to 1 recommendation sent by the planners to the city commission is incredible.

At last official count, St. Joseph—a city of only 11,000 residents—had 2,007 rental units in 809 separate buildings. Conservatively, this means that at least half—and probably more—of the residents of St. Joseph are living in rental housing.

It's a truism of local government that a high proportion of home ownership leads to good living conditions. Time was, and not too many years back, when St. Joseph had 85 per cent of its residences owner-occupied. It was this fact that gave St. Joseph its deserved reputation as a good residential community. People take care of their own property.

After World War II, scores of older homes in St. Joseph were converted to two, three, four and even five-unit apartment buildings. A former grade school had been converted to apartments even earlier.

Many of the apartments so created lie in older sections of the city. They have caused a big share of such police problems as St. Joseph has. Only unusually effective surveillance has kept them from turning some neighborhoods into outright slums.

Meanwhile, the city has not been lacking for new apartments. Three big complexes have been erected. An addition to one of them is being erected right at this moment.

Despite this plethora of apartments, only John Fettes on the planning commission had the good judgment to vote against issuing a special use permit to let developers erect 48 apartments on the site of the old Baptist children's home (long since razed) at 1401 Langley avenue.

Six other members not only defied logic but also the wishes of a 1974 referendum in which a substantial majority of St. Joseph citizens told the city commission they don't want any more apartments.

City Manager Gerald Heppler says the Langley avenue site, about five acres, is now zoned for two-family duplexes. But, he adds, the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning Commission is recommending that this be changed to single family. Action on the proposal is only weeks away, Heppler said.

Why not wait? The prospective developer has only an option on the land; he isn't the outright owner. He won't be greatly discommoded, therefore, if his project is rejected.

The Langley property offers the city a chance to expand its proportion of owner-occupied, single-family dwellings. The opportunity should not be ignored.

Moreover, until some of the older apartments that are creating police problems have been eliminated, St. Joseph should not permit any new apartment construction whatsoever.

One argument being used for permitting apartments on the Langley avenue site is that, since the property is zoned for two-family dwellings, the developer can crowd it with duplexes with or without city commission approval.

Whose fault is that? Why has the city's planning commission not done anything in years past to change a crazy-quilt zoning code?

The code inexplicably requires 10,000 square feet of property for a single-family dwelling. But a duplex for two families can be crowded onto only 5,000 square feet of property—even less under certain special cases.

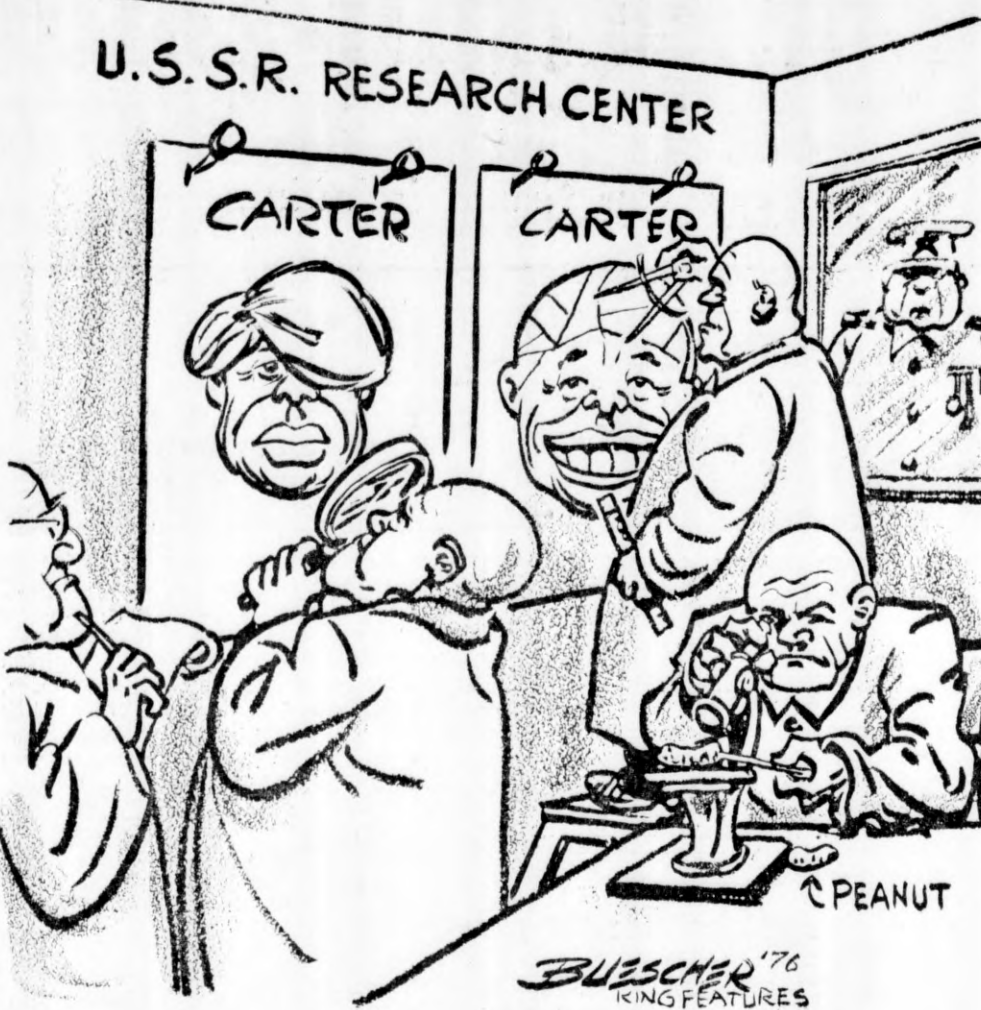

It's high time St. Joseph's planning commission does some long-range planning instead of reacting in panic to the plan of every developer who comes along.

Fortunately, Planner Fettes' good sense in resisting the special use permit for the Langley apartments, has found echoes on the city commission.

City Commissioner Warren Gast predicted flat out weeks ago the commission would not approve a special permit. And while Mayor Frank Smith has not publicly commented, he and other members of the commission in the last two years have demonstrated increasing awareness of the rental housing problems within the city. One result has been an inspection program to force all housing to meet building and health codes.

Hopefully, the commission will reject the special use permit and continue as rapidly as possible with the effort already started to revise the city's antiquated zoning code.

Admittedly, some recent court decisions may make the fight for revision difficult if private owners choose to do battle. But the potential benefit to the city is well worth the effort!

New Degree At LMC Is Tailored For Older Adults

A special mid-career college degree for older adults?

It's available now but unheard of a few years ago, according to a Lake Michigan College dean, Dr. Charlie K. Field, whose division of continuing education has put together just such a degree program for "adult adults and even for senior citizens."

Senior citizens in the LMC district can acquire their college degree practically free of charge, according to Field, since the college offers senior citizen tuition grants.

Up to a few years ago, the mature adult employed full-time was forced to try to fit into a regular bachelor's or associate degree program, meet all the requirements, and try to do the whole job at night school, Field indicated.

"This was possible, but it often took from 6 to 10 years to complete. The older adult isn't interested in that kind of extended effort, nor is he often interested in the typical degree in science, business, education, or engineering traditionally offered to the younger undergraduate," Field said.

To meet this need of a special degree for older adults, whether working full-time or retired, the LMC trustees last year approved a new program leading to the associate in general studies degree. This program is now in full operation at LMC and calls for as few as 30 credit hours of LMC courses.

The remaining 30 hours can be gained from work experience, correspondence courses, short-courses, and credits earned at other colleges or universities. LMC credit for work experience and correspondence courses is determined by tests developed and administered by LMC faculty members related to the subjects involved.

"This is no easy short cut. No gimmick. Just a realistic and practical method for working people and retirees to acquire a bonafide college degree who have some education, some work experience, and enough desire to put it all together in a meaningful way at LMC. The associate in general studies degree can enrich the lives of individuals tremendously and can open new cultural horizons for them. It also can help in obtaining employment and in winning promotions," Field said.

The LMC general studies degree program is not designed for those who plan to transfer to four-year institutions. Nor is it limited only to older persons. It is just as available to those young adults who already have satisfying jobs and careers and who have no desire to attend four-year colleges or universities.

The specific requirements for the LMC general studies degree are few in number: 30 semester hours of LMC classes, an overall C average, a course in political science required by state law, and two courses in English composition. The bulk of the program is developed to meet individual interests.

Up to six hours of LMC's preparatory courses and up to six hours of LMC short courses can be applied to the 30-hour program requirements, Dean Field indicated.

Jeffrey Hart GOP Squandered New Conservatives

Many of those who hoped for a Ford victory nevertheless respond to his defeat with feelings of relief as well as of sadness.

Sadness — because this does mark the end of an era. The opportunities that have been squandered will now have to be sought in new ways.

The immensely promising phase of American politics that began in 1968 has come to an end, ruined by Watergate, but also by failures of imagination on the part of both Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford.

Relief too, however — because in the words of the poet Dryden, 'tis well an old age is out, and time to begin a new.

Ford waged an uphill, close, and even gallant fight against Jimmy Carter, but he waged it essentially with the Nixon "B" and "C" teams, nor did he give any sign of understanding the need to make the GOP a national majority party, much less of how that could be done.

Difficult as it may be to believe now, the 1968 Nixon campaign possessed a sense of genuine possibility. The young people who rode with Nixon on his campaign plane the "Tricia" or worked at Nixon headquarters at 450 Park Ave. in Manhattan reflected many of the ways in which the country and the party were changing. Frequently these young Nixon staffers were what my friend Bill Gavin has called "street corner conservatives" — that is, tough, intelligent, upwardly mobile, practical, and representing the "unfashionable minorities" (Italians, Greeks, Irish, Jews).

No one had ever thought of establishing quotas for them to ease their way into law or medical school, but they had made their way nevertheless. They were willing to work with the older and mostly WASP Republican establishment, but they were not riding in the back of the Republican bus, and they would be at the heart of any emerging conservative majority consensus.

Nixon himself understood little of all this, and Ford even less.

Nixon had the reputation of being an astute politician, but this was true only in the sense that he had completely mastered the minutiae of campaigning. MRS. WILLIE BOGGS
Help is now on the way

Pension Is Slow; She Finds Help

Caught In Financial Bind After Mate Dies

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

More than three months after her husband died, a 73-year-old Benton township woman found herself trapped in a financial bind because of a snag in the processing of her social security payments.

Mrs. Willie Boggs of 1811 Council drive, Berrien Homes apartments, was facing more than $1,000 in hospital and funeral bills for her husband on top of food, rent, utilities and medicine for herself — and she had to pay for it all with $125 a month she is receiving in social security payments.

But the financial outlook brightened for Mrs. Boggs this week when the Berrien county department of social services told her she can receive some financial help from the department.

Mrs. Boggs told the Herald-Palladium her financial plight developed shortly after her husband, Bassett Boggs, died Aug. 28. Before his death, the couple was receiving a total of $380 a month in social security benefits — $253 for her husband and $125 for herself. But the death of her husband ended the $253 in social security payments and left Mrs. Boggs with her $125 a month to live on.

On the death of a spouse, social security payments normally increase for the survivor, and Mrs. Boggs said she is expecting to receive a total of about $250 a month. But the expected increase has gotten tangled during processing by the social security office and three months after her husband's death, Mrs. Boggs found herself still attempting to live on her $125 a month. The social security office in Benton Harbor reported the three month wait is "normal."

"I just can't make it this way," Mrs. Boggs said. "The $125 a month is just not enough to live on. The problem is right now, I need something to tide me over until the social security payments get straightened out."

Mrs. Boggs went to the Berrien county social services department last week and asked for emergency relief to pay her rent, but a social services worker turned down her request.

Social services first turned down Mrs. Boggs' request, then reviewed her case after a call from The Herald-Palladium, and found she was eligible for benefits she had not applied for.

Sam Webb, assistance payments manager, explained Mrs. Boggs' $125 a month income exceeds the maximum $111 a month income limit allowed by the social services department for which emergency relief can be given.

After a call from this newspaper, however, the social services department reviewed Mrs. Boggs' case and found she is eligible for food stamps and Medicaid. That assistance will bring her $125 a month income up to $176 a month, according to Webb. Medicaid will provide prescriptions costing $25-$30 a month which Mrs. Boggs has been paying for.

Although Mrs. Boggs said she wanted only temporary help, and not food stamps or Medicaid, she said she believed the extra help from the two programs will "carry me over" until she receives her anticipated social security increase. "It looks a little better now," she said. "I should be able to make it."

"I've always been careful with money and living," she added. "I wouldn't have made it this far if I wasn't. I'll just go along and pay the best I can."

Mrs. Boggs also is expecting a $250 death benefit for funeral costs from social security. She said other assistance from the Veterans Administration should enable her to pay the funeral bill.

Benton Planners Set Date To Act On Landfill, Motel

The Benton township planning commission last night set dates to make decisions on a request to expand the Northwest Berrien sanitary landfill and a request to build a 32-unit "economy" motel.

The planning commission set Dec. 9 to act on an application by the landfill authority to use another 67 acres of land adjacent to the present nine-year-old site just north of Ross field.

A public hearing on a request by Cortland Dusseau, of T.C. Industries, Minneapolis, Minn., to build a $375,000 "Super 8" motel near the intersection of M-139 and I-94 was set for Jan. 13.

The landfill authority is seeking a special use permit to expand the landfill. The present 65-acre landfill, located at the west end of Smalldge road off Crystal avenue, serves the Cities of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, the townships of Benton and St. Joseph and the village of Shoreham.

A motel development consultant, Dusseau has asked for rezoning from agriculture to commercial of four acres of land west of Ramada Inn, across Somerlayton road. Dusseau said he was representing the owners of the land, James Frego and Robert Nagy, both of Chicago.

In other action, the planning commission tabled a request by Mac Williams to operate an adult foster care home at 1461 Reeder street.

Sent to committee for study was a request by Larry Braathen for a used car license at 1684 Red Arrow highway.

It was the last planning commission meeting for Chester Jollay, who has served on the planning commission eight years. Jollay sat on the planning commission as a representative of the township board of trustees, but he did not seek reelection as a trustee this year and, so, relinquished his seat on the planning commission. The board of trustees is expected to appoint another trustee to the planning commission.

The next meeting of the planning commission will be Dec. 9. The next regularly-scheduled meeting would have fallen on Thanksgiving day.

'Live School' For Parents

"Show and Tell" at the high school level? Indirectly, that's what will be happening Thursday, Nov. 18, at Lakeshore high school, when parents and interested community members may come to see a "real live school day" in action, according to Dorothy Hildebrand, director of student services. "I'm sure students have been telling parents for years, what's been going on at school, now we're going to show the parents what's really happening," Mrs. Hildebrand said. "All they have to do is come in an observe." Guests may visit freely throughout the school between the hours of 8 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. at the high school. Visitors may stay all day or just an hour or two. "It ought to be quite an experience for parents, teachers and students alike," Mrs. Hildebrand said. "I hope parents keep the date free on their calendar."

Lakeshore Report Cards Will Go Out Next Week

Parents of Lakeshore students may receive their children's report cards at mini-conferences slated for next week, according to Dorothy Hildebrand, director of student services.

The mini-conferences will be held Tuesday, Nov. 16 at the high school and Thursday, Nov. 18, at the junior high school.

Ed Reilly, high school principal, said his staff will be available in the high school gymnasium between 6:30 and 8 p.m., where report cards will be distributed. Fines will be assessed for overdue library books and lost materials.

Junior high school report cards will be available from John Woods, junior high principal, and his staff at the junior high gym between 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. It is suggested that parents whose student's last names begin with A through K visit between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. and last names beginning with L through Z from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Parents are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to meet with teachers and receive individual progress reports on their children. Representatives of the board of education and the superintendent's staff will also be present.

BOY, 4, HOSPITALIZED Crackups Hurt 6 Drivers

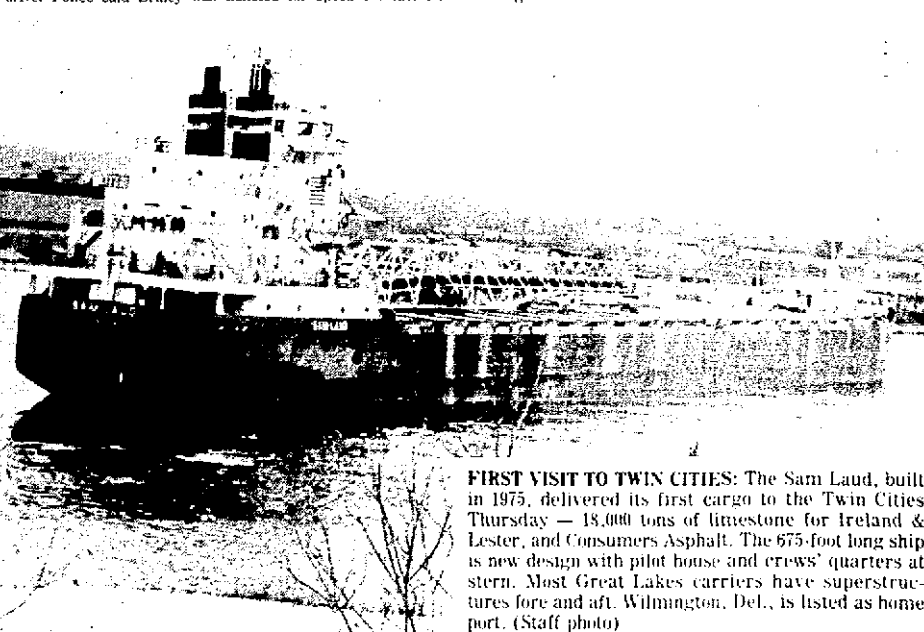

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

Six drivers were injured Thursday in accidents on icy Twin Cities area roads, and a four-year-old boy was hospitalized after he was struck by a car in an accident not attributed to the weather conditions.

St. Joseph township police said Mark Mahoney, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Mahoney, 711 Ansley drive, St. Joseph township, was struck when he apparently ran out in front of the car. He was listed in "good" condition today at St. Joseph's Memorial hospital with a broken arm and bruises. Driver of the car was identified as Mary G. Alexander, 67, of 1181 Ozden avenue, Benton Harbor, who was uninjured. Police said no tickets were issued. Mark was struck on Ansley drive near his home about 3:50 p.m., police reported.

Cars sliding on slick streets were reported as the cause of two collisions in St. Joseph, city police said.

Two drivers were treated and released from Memorial hospital after a car driven by Jeffrey Donald Briney, 18, of 921 Wolcott avenue, St. Joseph, slid into a car in the opposite lane of Lake Shore drive north of Hilltop road at 7:45 a.m., police said. The other driver was Karen Louise Fulkerson, 28, of 3003 Lake Shore drive. Police said Briney was ticketed for speed too fast for conditions.

FIRST VISIT TO TWIN CITIES: The Sam Laud, built in 1975, delivered its first cargo to the Twin Cities Thursday — 18,000 tons of limestone for Ireland & Lester, and Consumers Asphalt. The 675-foot long ship is new design with pilot house and crews' quarters at stern. Most Great Lakes carriers have superstructures fore and aft. Wilmington, Del., is listed as home port. PEAK HOURS EMPHASIZED SJ Twp. Patrols Change

St. Joseph township police have changed patrol shift schedules from eight hours to 10 hours per shift, a move designed to put more patrol cars on the road during peak patrol hours.

Chief Keith Mills said the move, instituted about three months ago, is on a trial basis, pending evaluation on effectiveness.

The change involves running three 10-hour shifts per 24-hour period which means there is an overlap of some six hours per day and during that time there is a double shift to cover the peak hours.

Mills said the busiest hours are those times for which records have shown the most calls from the public for police assistance.

Mills said during those busy hours when there were two patrol cars on duty before, there are now three cars and officers on patrol. There are certain times, during lower activity periods, when there are fewer patrols, but there are no times when no officers are on patrol.

While Mills says it's still too early to make a complete evaluation of the new patrol hours, he believes they are showing a good effect and recently extended the trial period another four months.

The six full-time patrolmen in the department also seem to like the new schedule because they now work four 10-hour days with three days off.

Pension Is Slow; She Finds Help

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

More than three months after her husband died, a 73-year-old Benton township woman found herself trapped in a financial bind because of a snag in the processing of her social security payments.

Mrs. Willie Boggs of 1811 Council drive, Berrien Homes

apartments, was facing more than $1,000 in hospital and funeral bills for her husband on top of food, rent, utilities and medicine for herself — and she had to pay for it all with $125 a month she is receiving in social security payments.

But the financial outlook brightened for Mrs. Boggs this week when the Berrien county department of social services told her she can receive some financial help from the department.

Mrs. Boggs told the Herald-Palladium her financial plight developed shortly after her husband, Bassett Boggs, died Aug. 28. Before his death, the couple was receiving a total of $380 a month in social security benefits — $255 for her husband and $125 for herself. But the death of her husband ended the $255 in social security payments and left Mrs. Boggs with her $125 a month to live on.

On the death of a spouse, social security payments normally increase for the survivor, and Mrs. Boggs said she is expecting to receive a total of about $250 a month. But the expected increase has gotten tangled during processing by the social security office and three months after her husband's death, Mrs. Boggs found herself still attempting to live on her $125 a month. The social security office in Benton Harbor reported the three month wait is "normal."

"I just can't make it this way," Mrs. Boggs said. "The $125 a month is just not enough to live on. The problem is right now. I need something to tide me over until the social security payments get straightened out."

Mrs. Boggs went to the Berrien county social services department last week and asked for emergency relief to pay her rent, but a social services worker turned down her request.

Social services first turned down Mrs. Boggs' request, then reviewed her case after a call from The Herald-Palladium, and found she was eligible for benefits she had not applied for.

Sam Webb, assistance payments manager, explained Mrs. Boggs' $125 a month income exceeds the maximum $111 a month income limit allowed by the social services department for which emergency relief can be given.

After a call from this newspaper, however, the social services department reviewed Mrs. Boggs' case and found she is eligible for food stamps and Medicaid. That assistance will bring her $125 a month income up to $176 a month, according to Webb. Medicaid will provide prescriptions costing $25-$30 a month which Mrs. Boggs has been paying for.

Although Mrs. Boggs said she wanted only temporary help, and not food stamps or Medicaid, she said she believed the extra help from the two programs will "carry me over" until she receives her anticipated social security increase. "It looks a little better now," she said. "I should be able to make it."

"I've always been careful with money and living," she added. "I wouldn't have made it this far if I wasn't. I'll just go along and pay the best I can."

Mrs. Boggs also is expecting a $250 death benefit for funeral costs from social security. She said other assistance from the Veterans Administration should enable her to pay the funeral bill.

Benton Planners Set Date To Act On Landfill, Motel

The Benton township planning commission last night set dates to make decisions on a request to expand the Northwest Berrien sanitary landfill and a request to build a 32-unit "economy" motel.

The planning commission set Dec. 9 to act on an application by the landfill authority to use another 67 acres of land adjacent to the present nine-year-old site just north of Ross field.

A public hearing on a request by Cortland Dusseau, of T.C. Industries, Minneapolis, Minn., to build a $375,000 "Super 8" motel near the intersection of M-139 and I-94 was set for Jan. 13.

The landfill authority is seeking a special use permit to expand the landfill. The present 63-acre landfill, located at the west end of Smallhill road off Crystal avenue, serves the Cities of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, the townships of Benton and St. Joseph and the village of Shoreham.

A motel development consultant, Dusseau has asked for rezoning from agriculture to commercial of four acres of land west of Ramada Inn, across Somerlayton road. Dusseau said he was representing the owners of the land, James Frego and Robert Nagy, both of Chicago.

In other action, the planning commission tabled a request by Mac Williams to operate an adult foster care home at 1461 Reeder street.

Sent to committee for study was a request by Larry Braathen for a used car license at 1684 Red Arrow highway.

It was the last planning commission meeting for Chester Jollay, who has served on the planning commission eight years. Jollay sat on the planning commission as a representative of the township board of trustees, but he did not seek reelection as a trustee this year and, so, relinquished his seat on the planning commission. The board of trustees is expected to appoint another trustee to the planning commission.

The next meeting of the planning commission will be Dec. 9. The next regularly-scheduled meeting would have fallen on Thanksgiving day.

Two drivers were treated and released from Memorial hospital after a car driven by Jeffrey Donald Briney, 19, of 921 Wolcott avenue, St. Joseph, slid into a car in the opposite lane of Lake Shore drive north of Hilltop road at 7:45 a.m., police said. The other driver was Karen Louise Fulkerson, 28, of 3003 Lake Shore drive. Police said Briney was ticketed for speed too fast for conditions. Maida Ollie Bernstein, 71, of 2900 Cleveland avenue, St. Joseph, sought her own treatment for apparently minor injuries after a two-car collision on South State street south of Kingsley avenue shortly after 9 a.m. The other driver, who was unhurt, was identified as Mary Anne Wroblewski, 27, of 203½ South Fourth street, Niles, who police said was ticketed for failure to stop in an assured, clear distance.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said a car driven by Richard L. Lockman, 38, of 2018 Anthony drive, St. Joseph township, slid into a car driven by John K. Detomasi Jr., 31, of 104 Featherbone avenue, Three Oaks. The accident occurred on Red Arrow highway, south of Puetz road, Stevensville, about 6:45 a.m., deputies reported. Both drivers were released after treatment at Memorial hospital and Lockman was ticketed for speed too fast for conditions, deputies said.

Benton township police reported a car went out of control and slammed into a bridge railing on M-139 north of Pipestone road about 8 a.m. Driver of the car, Patricia Sue Wettstein, 36, of 215 College, Berrien Springs, sustained apparently minor injuries and did not require hospitalization, police said. No tickets were issued. Police reported there was no damage to the cement bridge railing.

PEAK HOURS EMPHASIZED SJ Twp. Patrols Change

St. Joseph township police have changed patrol shift schedules from eight hours to 10 hours per shift, a move designed to put more patrol cars on the road during peak patrol hours.

While Mills says it's still too early to make a complete evaluation of the new patrol hours, he believes they are showing a good effect and recently extended the trial period another four months.

The six full-time patrolmen in the department also seem to like the new schedule because they now work four 10-hour days with three days off.

Hadassah President Has Many Goals

NEW YORK (AP) — Back in 1945, Bernice Salpeter Tannenbaum and the handful of women who belonged to the new Hadassah group in New York City's Kew Gardens section canvassed the neighborhoods for new members — ringing doorbells with one hand and pushing strollers with the other. "We had only 12 members in the chapter then," Mrs. Tannenbaum explains. "But I told the others that we could grow to hundreds. And we did. As soon as a new family moved in, we'd wait until the moving van unloaded. When it pulled out of the driveway, we stepped in. "Soon, we had practically every Jewish woman in the neighborhood as a member," she said proudly.

Mrs. Tannenbaum, now president of the 350,000-member Hadassah, the national women's Zionist organization which claims the largest voluntary membership of women in the country, took a few moments recently from her crowded schedule to discuss her work with the group over the past 35 years. She looks ahead to the future and says "there won't be enough hours or years to do everything."

She stepped in as national president at the end of August and since then, appointments, meetings and conferences with visiting celebrities from Israel have been running back to back. "But this is what I thrive on," Mrs. Tannenbaum says. "Work, challenge and the unraveling of problems gives me great satisfaction."

She admits to a great sense of drive, and adds, "I'm always geared to a specific goal, and for the last 30-some years, it's been Hadassah and the benefits it can bring to others."

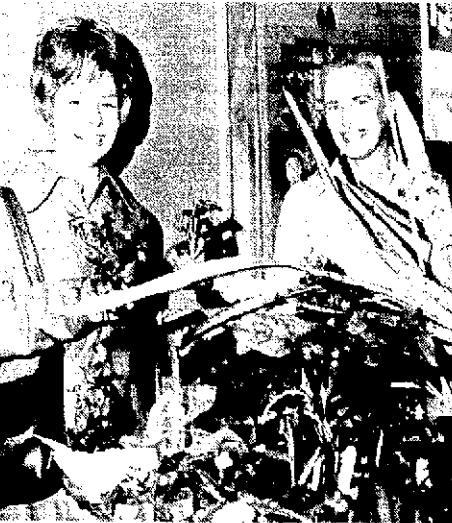

Mrs. Tannenbaum, a native of Brooklyn and a former high school art teachers, says, "My life went in a completely different direction when I left teaching. My commitment to Hadassah deepened immensely. "My first major step was creating the Kew Gardens chapter in 1945. Then, each year, my role grew."

She helped organize the Long Island (N.Y.) Region of Hadassah in 1948 and became regional president in 1984. Mrs. Tannenbaum has been a member of the National Board of Hadassah since 1954 and has served as chairman of several Hadassah conventions and groups.

As president, she says she will take a strong look at the Hadassah Educational Services in Israel, which embrace a high school, community college and vocational guidance institute. "We are now asking whether we should continue the career orientation of the high school or emphasize medical education. This must be reviewed in light of the professional needs in Israel."

Hadassah's American affairs department will be another area of special interest for her: "I hope to bring in more dialogue between the members in the field and the national leadership. This will help us in revising and expanding our activities in the United States."

Another of her priorities is setting up a "think tank" to evaluate the Hadassah youth movement to seek out and prepare new leadership for the Zionist movement in the future. As Mrs. Tannenbaum tackles her new job, she says: "It's an overwhelming workload, but each aspect is fascinating. The Hadassah program is so broad. The work of the organization touches the lives of so many people."

Dress Skirts Up Or Down

Floor-length skirts, in plaids or solids, are adaptable for day or evening wear.

For night, add a black velvet vest or jacket for a dressier look. During the day, try a turtleneck or tailored shirt.

NEW YORK — Satins, velvets and glitter knits make super sparklers out of holiday evenings.

The style can be anything from a bare disco dress to a crisply tailored suit as long as the fabric is a p.m. special, says the November issue of Seventeen magazine.

Satin sets the shiniest scene in neon brights. A blaze of green is trimmed with blue for a blazer suit with cigarette-leg jeans, and a sleeveless scarlet blouse top makes an attention-getting pair-up with shiny gold satin pants. Brilliant blue satin pants with silvery suspenders, a sure show-stopper on their own, take to a cool white peasant blouse.

Black or white is right for short, full-skirted satin disco dresses. White poured like cream makes a rippling A-liner with bare, V-necked bodice, and a dirndl-skirted black satin dress brightens up with stripes of color at waist, hem and bare shoulders. A jumpsuit, too.

glams in satin-striped white with easy shirt styling.

Teal blue velveteen shows a sulkier gleam in a classic vest and pants. A white satin shirt makes the perfect third part.

Newy knits with glitter power may be covered up or bare. Black tops with bright, gleamy stripes take the long-sleeved, covered-up route; their perfect partners are black pants or bright satin jeans. Strapless makes the bare news in a slithery red knit dress with multicolor glims, and in a glitter tube top to tuck into satin drawstring-waist pants.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

'No' Will Be Easier Next Time

Dear Ann Landers: On a recent Saturday night, my husband and I planned a quiet evening at home. At about 6:15 p.m. there was a knock at the door. It was the woman who lives on the bottom floor of this apartment building. She was in a panic. The sitter didn't show up. She and her boyfriend (living together) were due at a wedding reception at 6:30. Would I take the 10-year-old girl?

I asked what time they'd be back. She replied, "For sure by 2:00 a.m." I told her I'd set up a cot in the den and to have a good time. She was so grateful. The girl went to sleep at 10:00. My husband and I stayed up till 1:30, thinking they'd surely be home any minute. At 7:30 a.m. I heard the girl walking around. They never did come to get her. The girl wanted to go home, which was fine with me. I had a terrible night's sleep and needed to rest. Today is Friday and I haven't heard one word from her mother. No thank-you, no money offered. Can you imagine such nerve?

Any suggestions on what I should do? — Been Had In Elvira

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Enjoy yourself today, but don't do anything foolish or risky. You'll have more fun doing quiet things.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're a better finisher today than you are a starter. If your first efforts aren't successful, you'll make it on the second try.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) Things that you do in haste today are likely to be done haphazardly. Tasks you take your time with will be the ones you'll have pride in.

CANCER (June 22-July 22) You have a tendency today to impulsively buy the first thing you see. Compare prices and values before making any purchases.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your temper is on a rather short string today. You could hurt someone without thinking. Make amends promptly if you do anything out of character.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your hunches can't be depended upon today. Your logical evaluations can. Ignore the small inner voice and do what you know is right.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Think carefully before lending anything today. Someone you're fond of, but who doesn't take care of things, might catch you in a weak moment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Your ambitious efforts may be unexpectedly thwarted today. Have an alternate plan so that your progress won't be impeded.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do everything in accordance with your highest standards today. Methods less than these could backfire.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you have any financial dealings with friends, keep them on a very businesslike plane, although you may be tempted to do otherwise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't make important decisions hastily today. You may agree to something that's not advantageous. Look before you leap.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20) Be extra safety-conscious while working today. Insist coworkers do likewise, especially if working with tricky tools.

Burdensome

Dear Ann Landers: Please help those of us who are struggling with a moral obligation to our parents. My mother, who is physically and financially able to maintain her own home, came to live with us when Dad passed away. She simply announced, "I don't want to live by myself."

We have a beautiful shopping center in our city, a lovely senior citizens center, and an excellent library, but Mother is not interested in doing anything on her own. She just assumes that our friends enjoy having her around — which they don't.

Dear N.D.: Doors are useless unless one knows a door when he sees it and has the courage to turn the knob. You missed the "door" when your mother announced she was coming to live with you. You should have suggested at the time that she find a companion or a smaller place.

Some children love to have a parent share their home. You, obviously (and many others), find it burdensome. So — free yourself by refusing to be imposed upon. You can if you have the fortitude. If you haven't — stop complaining.

ANN LANDERS

CONFIDENTIAL. To Wed or Not to Wed. What Are the Statistics? About 32 per cent of all Catholics who married last year chose non-Catholic mates. Almost the same percentage of Jews married out of their faith. Ten years ago it was about 17 per cent. How do I feel about it? Less rigid than I did 20 years ago.

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. For a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (24 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Here is a hand reported by Boris Schapiro in "Bridge Analysis." South was one of Britain's very best players.

Great expert that he was, he managed to go down at six spades. East ruffed dummy's ace of hearts at trick one and led back a diamond which was allowed to run to dummy's jack. The ace of clubs was cashed and South came to his hand with a trump to ruff a club. Back to his hand with a second trump to ruff his last losing club. This left him in dummy. He had to lead a diamond in order to finesse his queen and West trumped to beat the slam.

It was tough luck indeed. East got to ruff with his singleton trump and West could ruff the second diamond, but as Boris points out there was a foolproof line of play.

A trick three he should ruff a heart in his own hand. Back to dummy with the ace of clubs to ruff another heart. A trump lead to dummy followed by a third heart ruff.

Then his last trump to dummy to discard his two low clubs on what would have become dummy's long trumps. Finally a finesse of the diamond queen and the last two tricks to the king of clubs and ace of diamonds.

Ask the Jacobys

A California reader wants to know what a dummy reversal is.

The question is answered in the article above. The winning line of play should use declarer's own trumps to ruff and to leave dummy with long trumps on which to discard his own losers.

Buchanan Meetings

BUCHANAN — Barracks 1093 of Veterans of World War I and Women's Auxiliary will hold a potluck dinner meeting Sunday, Nov. 14, at 12:30 p.m. in the Niles American Legion home.

The dinner will be served by Mrs. Ray Hershberger and Mrs. Ralph Bowman, both of Niles, and Mrs. John Ochenryder of Buchanan.

Separate business meetings will follow the dinner.

BUCHANAN — Joseph Garbert II, former Buchanan mayor, will be guest speaker at a dinner meeting of Buchanan Business and Professional Women's club at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 15, in the social hall of First United Methodist church.

Garbert's topic will be "Community Awareness."

Dr. Lester Coleman

Have you ever heard of migraine in children? I was surprised when our doctor told us that our 4-year-old's headaches were migraine. — Mrs. D.L.V., R.I.

I wish, in your letter, that you had told me whether you, too, suffer with migraine. It is not uncommon for your children whose mothers get migraine to be similarly affected. A smaller percentage of children inherit this from their fathers.

When children complain of one-sided headache, associated with nausea and vomiting, with unexpected emotional reactions, migraine should be suspected.

It is well known that adults have attacks of migraine, precipitated by emotional and physical stress. Children, too, can have these headaches traced to tensions at school or at home.

Treatment is almost identical for both children and adults.

I'm more than 40 pounds overweight. Yet my doctor tells me that I'm anemic. Isn't that unusual for a fatty like me? — Mr. R. McN., Ohio

Dear Mr. McN.: There are dozens of different kinds of anemia. The exact one can be determined only through extensive studies of the blood. Consequently, it is possible that some form of anemia can exist in people who are overweight. There is no relationship between this added weight and the blood picture.

Shocking Dilemma

Sonja Sellars came in breathless at a party the other night and made the most incredible announcement. It seems her husband, Russell, was walking around in the crawl space over their house when he fell through the ceiling.

Naturally, we were shocked. "Was your ceiling damaged?" asked Bob.

She nodded. "Came all the way through it. There's a hole in it big enough to sling a camel. We're just sick about it."

"Don't I know," commiserated Lois. "One of the kids rammed into the wall with a tricycle and it took four weeks to get it fixed. You just can't get people to work anymore. Especially on small jobs."

"Someone get Sonja a drink," said Les. "She looks pretty shaken."

"You'd be shaken too if you were sitting there watching Alistair Cooke and all of a sudden your husband knocked the glass out of your hand with his body."

"I hope you can get the same point," interrupted Lois. "We had a special mixed paint and you know when the lights are on you can see the exact spot we had to patch. That just makes me ill."

"What was he doing up there in the first place?" asked Sally. "Your crawl space doesn't have a floor."

"I know," said Sonja, "but he's always been agile on the rafters before. He was after that cardboard turkey that we always use for a centerpiece for Thanksgiving."

"It takes one to know one," sniffed Sylvia, popping a canape in her mouth.

"So, were the kids upset?" asked Sally.

"They were at first, but then I explained to them that Daddy was just being silly and calling attention to himself. I gave them a cookie and they settled down."

"Hey, something I've always wanted to know," asked Ward. "Is the ceiling a composition? I've always suspected the builder got away with something cute. Another drink?"

"I don't think so," said Sonja. "Oh, I know I'm being hysterical, but do you know what I'm really worried about? It's sleeping in that house tonight and knowing that the mice have a freeway through to my bedroom. Oh well, I've got to go."

"Incidentally," yelled Les, "how's Russell?"

"He's in the car. He thinks he's broken a leg and a couple of ribs. We'll know as soon as I get him to the hospital."

"Tell him we asked about him," they yelled in unison.

'No' Will Be Easier Next Time

Dear Ann Landers: On a recent Saturday night, my husband and I planned a quiet evening at home. At about 6:15 p.m. there was a knock at the door. It was the woman who lives on the bottom floor of this apartment building. She was in a panic. The sitter didn't show up. She and her boyfriend (living together) were due at a wedding reception at 6:30. Would I take the 10-year-old girl?

I asked what time they'd be back. She replied, "For sure by 2:00 a.m." I told her I'd set up a cot in the den and to have a good time. She was so grateful. The girl went to sleep at 10:00. My husband and I stayed up till 1:30, thinking they'd surely be home any minute.

At 7:30 a.m. I heard the girl walking around. They never did come to get her. The girl wanted to go home, which was fine with me. I had a terrible night's sleep and needed to rest.

Today is Friday and I haven't heard one word from her mother. No thank-you, no money offered. Can you imagine such nerve?

Any suggestions on what I should do? — Been Had In Elyria

Dear El: Forget it. If you expected to be paid you should have talked money when the woman asked you to help her out.

Of course, she's a clod. She surely should have thanked you. But the fact that she didn't will make it easier for you to say no next time.

Burdensome

Dear Ann Landers: Please help those of us who are struggling with a moral obligation to our parents. My mother, who is physically and financially able to maintain her own home, came to live with us when Dad passed away. She simply announced, "I don't want to live by myself."

We have a beautiful shopping center in our city, a lovely senior citizens center, and an excellent library, but Mother is not interested in doing anything on her own. She just assumes that our friends enjoy having her around — which they don't.

Dear N.D.: Doors are useless unless one knows a door when he sees it and has the courage to turn the knob. You missed the "door" when your mother announced she was coming to live with you. You should have suggested at the time that she find a companion or a smaller place.

Some children love to have a parent share their home. You, obviously (and many others), find it burdensome. So — free yourself by refusing to be imposed upon. You can if you have the fortitude. If you haven't — stop complaining.

ANN LANDERS

CONFIDENTIAL to To Wed or Not to Wed. What Are the Statistics: About 32 per cent of all Catholics who married last year chose non-Catholic mates. Almost the same percentage of Jews married out of their faith. Ten years ago it was about 17 per cent. How do I feel about it? Less rigid than I did 20 years ago.

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers's completely new "The Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. For a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (24 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Here is a hand reported by Boris Schapiro in "Bridge Analysis." South was one of Britain's very best players.

Great expert that he was, he managed to go down at six spades. East ruffed dummy's ace of hearts at trick one and led back a diamond which was allowed to run to dummy's jack. The ace of clubs was cashed and South came to his hand with a trump to ruff a club. Back to his hand with a second trump to ruff his last losing club. This left him in dummy. He had to lead a diamond in order to finesse his queen and West trumped to beat the slam.

It was tough luck indeed. East got to ruff with his singleton trump and West could ruff the second diamond, but as Boris points out there was a foolproof line of play.

A trick three he should ruff a heart in his own hand. Back to dummy with the ace of clubs to ruff another heart. A trump lead to dummy followed by a third heart ruff.

Then his last trump to dummy to discard his two low clubs on what would have become dummy's long trumps. Finally a finesse of the diamond queen and the last two tricks to the king of clubs and ace of diamonds.

Ask the Jacobys

A California reader wants to know what a dummy reversal is.

The question is answered in the article above. The winning line of play should use declarer's own trumps to ruff and to leave dummy with long trumps on which to discard his own losers.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Have you ever heard of migraine in children? I was surprised when our doctor told us that our 4-year-old's headaches were migraine. — Mrs. D.I.V., R.I.

Dear Mrs. V.: I wish, in your letter, that you had told me whether you, too, suffer with migraine. It is not uncommon for your children whose mothers get migraine to be similarly affected. A smaller percentage of children inherit this from their fathers.

When children complain of one-sided headache, associated with nausea and vomiting, with unexpected emotional reactions, migraine should be suspected.

It is well known that adults have attacks of migraine, precipitated by emotional and physical stress. Children, too, can have these headaches traced to tensions at school or at home.

Treatment is almost identical for both children and adults.

I'm more than 40 pounds overweight. Yet my doctor tells me that I'm anemic. Isn't that unusual for a fatty like me? — Mr. R. McN., Ohio

Dear Mr. McN.: There are dozens of different kinds of anemia. The exact one can be determined only through extensive studies of the blood. Consequently, it is possible that some form of anemia can exist in people who are overweight. There is no relationship between this added weight and the blood picture.

Your anemia can be controlled under your doctor's supervision. The same goes for your overweight.

Our son is planning to marry his second cousin. I don't want to interpose my fears on them. Yet I'd feel better if I knew there is no danger to the children when they arrive. — Mrs. T.M., N.C.

Dear Mrs. M.: A reliable statistical study has shown that 95 per cent of all children born of a first cousin marriage were perfectly normal.

The chances of abnormality occurring in a second cousin marriage are distinctly less. Nevertheless, for your assurance, and especially for theirs, it would be wise to get the opinion of a genetic counselor. This new medical specialty thoroughly investigates, by blood studies and by family histories, the possibility of birth defects in any unusual circumstance.

Old And New Carter Aides Showing Friction

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter says he likes competition among his staff members, but there are signs he may be getting more than he wanted.

The gentle tug-of-war between the old Carter hands and the button-down newcomers that simmered during the campaign is picking up now that the high-stakes game of building an administration has begun.

One sign this week was the thick memo that campaign manager Hamilton Jordan sent to Carter suggesting ways to staff his administration.

This product duplicates to a degree the voluminous recommendations of Carter's transition staff, headed by Atlanta lawyer Jack Watson.

A former campaign Carter aide said Jordan was "moving to head off Watson," though Carter's official spokesman said this did not represent any contest between Jordan and Watson.

One Carter insider, referring to the Watson-Jordan situation, said: "I guess we can expect more of that. I don't think there's any doubt Jimmy's going to receive competing recommendations, and he's not going to say, 'Hey, stop that,' because he likes competition among the corps."

What's going on apparently is an effort by Jordan to re-establish himself in the Carter hierarchy now that his campaign job is over.

"I think perhaps he feels somewhat undercut by Watson," said a friend. "He feels Watson is doing what he has done for Carter over the years."

The pecking order among the Carter cadre turns largely on how long and how well a member has known the chief. The senior member, Charles Kirbo, goes back to 1962, when he won a lawsuit that saved Carter's election to the state Senate from alleged vote fraud by the opposition.

Jordan came in the next group, consisting of those who worked for Carter in his losing bid for the governorship in 1966. Press Secretary Jody Powell joined in 1970 when Carter ran for governor again and won, and he has been one of Carter's closest aides ever since.

Watson also worked in the 1970 campaign, which gives him early credentials. But he turned down a job in the state cabinet and never became part of the inner circle, though his close friendship with Carter has continued.

Last summer, however, Watson proposed to Carter a plan for preparing the White House transition in advance and laying the groundwork for anticipated legislative programs and executive initiatives.

The idea was to enable Carter to hit Washington on the run and make his imprint quickly instead of settling slowly into the job the way most presidents have.

It suited Carter's style, and he bought it.

But the old guard began to stew as Watson and a crew made up largely of outsiders began planning the coming administration without them. The transition team included "Washington establishment" types, by League eggheads and Kennedy-Johnson holdovers, they said.

"There's just no way that people who have been with Carter all the way through and brought him this far are going to let it be taken away from them now," said a former colleague in the Carter camp.

Longtime associates who know all the actors in this drama consider it perfectly normal as long as no one loses his temper. One insider predicted that if it turns nasty, Kirbo, by all accounts the man closest to Carter and a law partner of Watson, would come down on the side of Watson.

In the meantime Carter is showing no signs of disapproval. As Powell put it this week, Carter likes "competition among the staff members" because it "keeps us all on our toes."

"Jimmy likes competition," a friend observed. "But in the end it's going to depend on the product. He'll buy the better product."

Old And New Carter Aides Showing Friction

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter says he likes competition among his staff members, but there are signs he may be getting more than he wanted.

The gentle tug-of-war between the old Carter hands and the button-down newcomers that simmered during the campaign is picking up now that the high-stakes game of building an administration has begun.

One sign this week was the thick memo that campaign manager Hamilton Jordan sent to Carter suggesting ways to staff his administration.

This product duplicates a degree the voluminous recommendations of Carter's transition staff, headed by Atlanta lawyer Jack Watson.

A former campaign Carter aide said Jordan was "moving to head off Watson," though Carter's official spokesman said this did not represent any contest between Jordan and Watson.

One Carter insider, referring to the Watson-Jordan situation, said: "I guess we can expect more of that. I don't think there's any doubt Jimmy's going to receive competing recommendations, and he's not going to say, 'Hey, stop that,' because he likes competition among the corps."

What's going on apparently is an effort by Jordan to re-establish himself in the Carter hierarchy now that his campaign job is over.

"I think perhaps he feels somewhat undercut by Watson," said a friend. "He feels Watson is doing what he has done for Carter over the years."

The pecking order among the Carter cadre turns largely on how long and how well a member has known the chief. The senior member, Charles Kirbo, goes back to 1962, when he won a lawsuit that saved Carter's election to the state Senate from alleged vote fraud by the opposition.

Jordan came in the next group, consisting of those who worked for Carter in his losing bid for the governorship in 1966. Press Secretary Jody Powell joined in 1970 when Carter ran for governor again and won, and he has been one of Carter's closest aides ever since.

Watson also worked in the 1970 campaign, which gives him early credentials. But he turned down a job in the state cabinet and never became part of the inner circle, though his close friendship with Carter has continued.

Last summer, however, Watson proposed to Carter a plan for preparing the White House transition in advance and laying the groundwork for anticipated legislative programs and executive initiatives.

The idea was to enable Carter to hit Washington on the run and make his imprint quickly instead of settling slowly into the job the way most presidents have.

It suited Carter's style, and he bought it.

But the old guard began to stew as Watson and a crew made up largely of outsiders began planning the coming administration without them. The transition team included "Washington establishment" types, Ivy League eggheads and Kennedy-Johnson holdovers, they said.

"There's just no way that people who have been with Carter all the way through and brought him this far are going to let it be taken away from them now," said a former colleague in the Carter camp.

Longtime associates who know all the actors in this drama consider it perfectly normal as long as no one loses his temper. One insider predicted that if it turns nasty,

Kirbo, by all accounts the man closest to Carter and a law partner of Watson, would come down on the side of Watson.

In the meantime Carter is showing no signs of disapproval. As Powell put it this week, Carter likes "competition among the staff members" because it "keeps us all on our toes."

"Jimmy likes competition," a friend observed. "But in the end it's going to depend on the product. He'll buy the better product."

$5,400 Welfare Payback Told

DETROIT (AP) — The daughter of a Detroit judge was allowed to repay nearly $5,400 in welfare payments she allegedly collected while working fulltime as a clerk in her father's court.

The Detroit Free Press identified the woman as Carol Ann Booker, daughter of Recorder's Judge Clarence Laster, Jr.

Patrick Foley, head of the Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force said no charges ever were filed against Mrs. Booker after she repaid the money at a meeting this summer with Asst. Wayne County Prosecutor James Wise.

Foley said it was prosecutor's office policy not to file charges against welfare recipients who repay money they are accused of receiving illegally.

He said Wise did not know Mrs. Booker was Judge Laster's daughter.

Asked if it was proper for a court employee to receive welfare payments illegally, Judge

Laster said: "I can not comment on that, you will have to talk to her attorney. Was there ever a warrant issued? No. The fact the money was paid back is not an admission of guilt."

Wayne County welfare records showed the 30-year-old Mrs. Booker received full assistance for three years while she was a fulltime city employee.

The newspaper said its inquiry began when other employees in the department complained Mrs. Booker had been transferred and promoted out of turn because of her father is a judge. She has been a city employee since 1969.

Jewish 'Droupouts' Labeled Harmful

By LEE LINDER
 Associated Press Writer
 PHILADELPHIA (AP) — American Jewish leaders, including Detroit's Max Fisher, worriedly discussed the emotional problems Thursday created by Soviet Jews who obtain exit visas for Israel but settle elsewhere.

The issue has sparked controversy in Israel because half the Jews who emigrate from Russia today are dropouts, with most seeking to live in the United States or Canada. There is concern the percentage may increase.

Fisher, head of a special American-Israeli committee studying the delicate problem, addressed some 300 delegates at the 45th general assembly of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Fund.

"The basis of the Soviet Jewish exodus, when it was launched seven years ago was 'Let our people go to Israel.' And that's how we enlisted the help of the world," said Fisher. "We have a very important decision to make and we are not taking this lightly." Fisher said. "Continued pressure must be put on the Russians, from President-elect Carter on down. What we want to do is to maximize Soviet Jewish emigration."

"We want to help them go where they want to go, help them to do so on the basis of visas to those countries, if possible, instead of having to depend for the most part on Israeli visas in order to get out," he said.

It was reported that in 1975,

13,049 left Russia with Israeli visas, but 4,860 did not go to Israel. So far this year, 10,353 have emigrated from the Soviet Union with about 5,500 of them dropouts.

"This is most harmful to our movement," Eugene Gold told the delegates. Gold is district attorney of Brooklyn, N.Y., and chairman of the National Conference on Soviet Jewry.

Some citizens in Israel, a state built on immigration, suggest Soviet Jews who prefer another country should be denied financial aid when they reach transfer points in Austria and Italy.

However, others disagree with such retaliation, and so far that's the official position of the Israeli government and the Jewish organizations who guide the immigrants to new homes.

But Where Is The Proof?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Federal Reserve official says the growth of electronic methods of payment may require new banking laws to protect consumers because customers no longer would have canceled checks to prove they paid.

The Fed's vice chairman, Stephen S. Gardner, on Thursday urged the National Commission on Electronic Funds Transfers "to study what new legal safeguards will be necessary."

The commission, which was established to look into the ramifications of the new electronic payment technology, resumes its hearings today.

Experts say that within a few years electronic transactions will replace many of those now carried out by check or cash.

For example, a customer in a store will be able to go to an "electronic cash register" to have the amount of his purchase transferred automatically from his bank account and deposited in the store's account.

This will be done by means of computer terminals linked by telephone lines.

Consumers now have proof of payment in their canceled checks and receipts. But under an electronic system, these will disappear.

LONDON (AP) — The F14 Tomcat that went to the bottom of the stormy North Atlantic carrying a superspeed missile has been raised by a West German salvage ship, ending a two-month effort that cost the U.S. Navy $1.7 million.

The $20-million jet fighter was minus its landing gear and right wing and was "scraped, dented, rusty and wet" when the salvage ship Taurus brought it to the surface Thursday, the Navy said.

The wreckage was being taken to the British naval base at Rosyth, on the east coast of Scotland, to be prepared for shipment to the United States.

New Tax Forms 'More Difficult'

By EDMUND PINTO
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — If you got a pocket calculator for Christmas, it's likely to come in handy when you tote up your federal income tax after the New Year.

Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Donald C. Alexander is warning taxpayers that completing the new tax return "could be more difficult" than in the past. One reason is the amount of math that will be required for the first time for many taxpayers.

Alexander's message is contained in an introduction to the new 1040, the so-called long form, that the IRS released Thursday.

The short form, or form 1040A, had been released several weeks earlier, also with a number of complicated modifications from the previous year.

This year, hundreds of thousands of taxpayers who had become accustomed to just adding up their income and then finding their taxes on a table will now have to take several other steps.

They'll start by adding up their income, as they have in the past. But then they will have to subtract either standard or itemized deductions and then personal exemptions to reach taxable income. Only at that point could new tables be used to find the tax load.

On the other hand, this new system could make it easier for some taxpayers who have been going through this procedure in the past.

Since the new tables will cover all taxable income up to $20,000, these taxpayers will not have to use a formula to compute their taxes. Instead, they will be able to use the tables.

Nevertheless, an IRS spokesman said the service is concerned that this single change required by Congress will result in many more arithmetic errors than in previous years. The congressional tax-writing committees have claimed the change will simplify taxes by requiring only two pages of tax tables instead of the 10 used in the past.

Yet another change on the 1976 form involves the $30 credit for each taxpayer and dependent. It used to be a simple subtraction from taxes.

This year it has been increased to $35, but also has an added complication. A taxpayer will have to decide whether a straight $35 credit is best or whether he should take the optional 2 per cent of taxable income up to a maximum $180 for most returns. This ceiling is $90 for individuals who are married but file separately.

Taxpayers can expect to receive their forms by mid-

January, about two weeks later than usual.

Alexander said the delay is the result of passage late in the 94th Congress of the 1976 tax legislation.

In addition to the changes in computing taxes and the personal exemption credit, taxpayers also will find changes that allow child-care expenses to be subtracted directly from taxes owed, an end to the sickpay income exclusion in favor of a disability income exclusion and a simplified and expanded credit for taxpayers over 65.

"The basis of the Soviet Jewish exodus, when it was launched seven years ago was 'Let our people go to Israel.' And that's how we enlisted the help of the world," said Fisher.

"We have a very important decision to make and we are not taking this lightly," Fisher said. "Continued pressure must be put on the Russians, from President-elect Carter on down. What we want to do is to maximize Soviet Jewish emigration."

"We want to help them go where they want to go, help them to do so on the basis of visas to those countries, if possible, instead of having to depend for the most part on Israeli visas in order to get out," he said.

It was reported that in 1975,

13,040 left Russia with Israeli visas, but 4,860 did not go to Israel. So far this year, 10,353 have emigrated from the Soviet Union with about 5,500 of them dropouts.

"This is most harmful to our movement," Eugene Gold told the delegates. Gold is district attorney of Brooklyn, N.Y., and chairman of the National Conference on Soviet Jewry.

Some citizens in Israel, a state built on immigration, suggest Soviet Jews who prefer another country should be denied financial aid when they reach transfer points in Austria and Italy.

However, others disagree with such retaliation, and so far that's the official position of the Israeli government and the Jewish organizations who guide the immigrants to new homes.

But Where Is The Proof?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Federal Reserve official says the growth of electronic methods of payment may require new banking laws to protect consumers because customers no longer would have canceled checks to prove they paid.

The Fed's vice chairman, Stephen S. Gardner, on Thursday urged the National Commission on Electronic Funds Transfers "to study what new legal safeguards will be necessary."

The commission, which was established to look into the ramifications of the new electronic payment technology, resumes its hearings today.

Experts say that within a few years electronic transactions will replace many of those now carried out by check or cash.

For example, a customer in a store will be able to go to an "electronic cash register" to have the amount of his purchase transferred automatically from his bank account and deposited in the store's account.

This will be done by means of computer terminals linked by telephone lines.

Sunken F-14 Is Raised

LONDON (AP) — The F14 Tomcat that went to the bottom of the stormy North Atlantic carrying a supersecret missile has been raised by a West German salvage ship, ending a two-month effort that cost the U.S. Navy $1.7 million.

The $20-million jet fighter was minus its landing gear and right wing and was "scraped, dented, rusty and wet" when the salvage ship Taurus brought it to the surface Thursday, the Navy said.

The wreckage was being taken to the British naval base at Rosyth, on the east coast of Scotland, to be prepared for shipment to the United States.

ESCORTED TO FUNERAL: Veiled, clad in black, Margo Davies, 20-year-old mother of three young girls who were found dead within four days in the Columbus, Ohio, area, is escorted by Worthington policeman as she leaves Columbus women's workhouse Thursday to attend the funerals in nearby Newark. His Sentence Is Free Dentistry PROSSER, Wash. (AP) — A dentist whose drunken driving caused the deaths of two persons has been sentenced to spend one day a week for a year providing free dental care to the elderly.

"There is no way we can bring back these lives, but perhaps we can put your talents to use and get some goodness out of this tragedy," said Benton County Superior Court Judge Al Yencopal in announcing the unusual sentence for Dr. Edgar Mays.

Yencopal said Mays, who pleaded guilty to negligent homicide, could have been sentenced to 10 years in prison.

But, the judge said, "There are a lot of senior citizens on fixed incomes who need some dental work done and can't afford it. I want those people helped."

Mays, 45, of Kennewick, agreed to set aside one day each week to treat any elderly person who walks through his office door, providing even expensive items like dental plates. He estimated the free dentistry could be worth as much as $35,000 over the course of a year.

Yencopal said Mays must "get the word out" to senior citizens' organizations in the Tri-Cities area of southeastern Washington. He said he wants Mays' office filled on days set aside for the elderly, and will check to see that it is.

He also ordered Mays not to drink during a four-year probationary period.

Mays, 45, pleaded guilty in the deaths of Fred and Dixie Hanes, both 27, who were killed last May after his car struck the motorcycle on which they were riding.

"Nothing can measure his sorrow and the responsibility he feels for the consequences of his act," Mays' attorney told the court Wednesday. "His mistake was not intentional ... he'll carry the tragedy with him until the day he meets his maker."

Mays declined to comment on the unusual sentence.

But Mrs. Rex Vaught, manager of the Kennewick Senior Citizens' Center, said "This is a wonderful thing."

"We all know prices for dental work are out of sight for most of our senior citizens. I thank Judge Yencopal for all of them."

Catholic Bishops Hold To Strict Stand On Morals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite liberal recommendations from Roman Catholics meeting in Detroit last month, the National Council of Catholic Bishops has reaffirmed the Church's traditional, strict stand on sexual conduct and related matters.

The council adopted a "pastoral letter on moral values" Thursday that opposes divorce, abortion and birth control, sexual intercourse outside of marriage, and declares homosexuality is a moral wrong.

Some bishops denounced the document as lacking in understanding and compassion, pedantic and not sufficiently "pastoral." They said it would do more harm than good. But after lengthy debate, their attempt to delay approval was turned back by a 162 to 65 vote. The letter itself was adopted 172 to 25.

On divorce the letter says, "some would even urge the church to acknowledge such a dissolution and allow parties to enter new, more promising unions. We reject this view." The letter also says, "Sexual intercourse is a moral and human good only within marriage; outside marriage it is wrong."

The bishops spent several hours amending the document, which had been two years in preparation, wrestling particularly with the wording of sections on birth control and homosexuality.

On birth control, the bishops kept the original phrasing that "pastoral sensitivity requires that we be understanding toward those who find it hard to accept this teaching, but it does not permit us to change or suppress it."

They added a section saying, "we recognize many couples face increasing pressure in family planning" and urged them to seek pastoral counsel. The section on homosexuality was phrased to express compassion but to say firmly that "homosexual activity ... is morally wrong."

"Euthanasia or killing of the innocent is wrong but it does not follow that there is an obligation to prolong the life of a dying person by extraordinary means," the letter said.

U.S. Trying To Head Off Oil Price Hikes By OPEC

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. diplomats, trying to head off any price increase by the oil exporting countries, are warning that higher oil prices would seriously hurt economies around the world by fanning inflation and stalling growth.

The oil exporting countries, affiliated in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), are scheduled to meet Dec. 15 in Qatar in the Persian Gulf, and oil prices are expected to be on the agenda.

U.S. diplomats say if OPEC boosts prices by 15 per cent, for example, it would mean a $5.5 billion increase in the American oil bill. That in turn would raise the U.S. inflation rate from its current 6 per cent to 7 per cent and cut the economic growth rate of 4 per cent to 3.4 per cent.

Although the OPEC countries have not announced what price decisions will be made next month, there has been speculation price increases could go as high as 20 per cent. The Shah of Iran has suggested a 15 per cent hike.

U.S. officials say they are unwilling to concede there will definitely be a price hike and that the economic impact of such a step up may persuade OPEC countries to desist.

Government economic projections indicate the most serious effects of a big price boost would be felt in England and Italy, which are already suffering inflationary woes.

Meanwhile, the Financial Times of London reported today that the 24-nation Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development is forecasting a world recession for the second half of next year. This forecast by the organization, composed of the major Western industrialized nations and Japan, is aimed at persuading OPEC to moderate future oil price increases.

The newspaper said that the recession forecast is being used by "high-level international officials to back up intense diplomatic activity" directed at the OPEC nations.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Robert Funseth argued against any oil price increases by asserting that it would hurt OPEC countries also.

"They are part of the world economy as well," Funseth said. The OPEC countries have cited international inflation to justify past increases, but Funseth said the four-fold price increase imposed by the oil cartel since 1973 more than compensates for the higher import costs to them.

Funseth declined comment on a report that high administration officials want to threaten Iran with a reduction in U.S. arms sales in retaliation for higher oil prices.

The report said that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has rejected such a step in the past but might reconsider now because of the deteriorating worldwide economic situation.

SHOT FOR DESERTION IN '45 Pardon Sought For Pvt. Slovik

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two Pennsylvania men have hired a lawyer and say they will fight up to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary to win a posthumous pardon for U.S. Army Private Eddie Slovik.

Slovik, the only American soldier to be shot for desertion since the Civil War, was executed by a firing squad in France on Jan. 31, 1945.

A petition being prepared by lawyer Bernard Edelson asks that Slovik's privileges be restored so his widow can collect $10,000 plus 32 years interest on Slovik's military life insurance policy.

The widow, a semi-invalid, now lives under an assumed name in a Detroit nursing home. Robert DeFinis said Thursday. DeFinis would not disclose her identity or exact whereabouts.

DeFinis and retired U.S.

Army Major Edward Woods, both of Lansdale, Pa., retained Edelson after the widow gave the men her power of attorney last month, DeFinis said.

Woods, who is not a lawyer, was appointed to defend Slovik at Slovik's one-day court martial Nov. 11, 1944. Slovik confessed to desertion and no defense of his actions was presented to the military court, records show.

The death penalty was almost a matter of routine, DeFinis said, but no one, including Woods, ever expected it to be carried out.

Woods returned to the United States after World War II before learning Slovik had been shot, DeFinis said.

DeFinis said he and Woods

saw the widow on a television talk show about two years ago and decided to take up the cause.

Edelson said he plans to seek the pardon on moral as well as legal grounds, and will claim Slovik was denied his right to due process because of technical errors in the trial proceeding.

Edelson said his first step will be to petition a civilian board in Washington which reviews requests by persons wishing to change the status of their military discharges.

If that fails, DeFinis said, the case will be argued through the federal court system. DeFinis said he and Woods are paying all legal and research costs for the planned litigation.

Ford Boyhood Home Crumbling Under Attacks By Vandals In GR

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — President Ford's boyhood home is crumbling under vandals' attacks as debate continues on how — and whether — to restore the house to honor the nation's 38th President.

A Ford Commemorative Committee, established by the Grand Rapids mayor, would like to restore the house with replicas of the furnishings it contained when Ford lived there in the 1920s.

But Carl Murgens, the committee's chairman, says he is hesitant to seek any restoration funds until "we can stop the vandals."

The city of Grand Rapids bought the house at 619 Union Ave. SE from the Veterans Administration last year. Some broken windows were replaced then and some minor repairs were made. The house has been vacant since before Ford became President.

But now, nearly all the repaired windows have been smashed again and the city has been forced to board most of them up.

Morgens said he hopes to meet soon with residents of the area to get their suggestions for stopping the vandalism.

Say Boy, 8, Is Pot-Smoker

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Saginaw County authorities have taken custody of an 8-year-old Saginaw boy and his 7-year-old sister after their mother admitted she had encouraged the boy to smoke marijuana, police said.

The 25-year-old mother was arrested Wednesday at her home and jailed along with a companion on charges of selling marijuana, police said.

Investigators said during the undercover purchase of marijuana at the woman's home last month, the mother bragged about having given her son marijuana as a reward for a good report card. Police said she told officers the boy had been smoking marijuana since he was about four years old. Vice squad officers said they would attempt to have the children removed from the mother's custody.

SHOT FOR DESERTION IN '45

Pardon Sought For Pvt. Slovik

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two Pennsylvania men have hired a lawyer and say they will fight up to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary to win a posthumous pardon for U.S. Army Private Eddie Slovik.

Slovik, the only American soldier to be shot for desertion since the Civil War, was executed by a firing squad in France on Jan. 31, 1945.

A petition being prepared by lawyer Bernard Edelson asks that Slovik's privileges be restored so his widow can collect $10,000 plus 32 years interest on Slovik's military life insurance policy.

The widow, a semi-invalid, now lives under an assumed name in a Detroit nursing home, Robert DeFinis said Thursday. DeFinis would not disclose her identity or exact whereabouts.

DeFinis and retired U.S.

Army Major Edward Woods, both of Lansdale, Pa., retained Edelson after the widow gave the men her power of attorney last month, DeFinis said.

Woods, who is not a lawyer, was appointed to defend Slovik at Slovik's one-day court martial Nov. 11, 1944. Slovik confessed to desertion and no defense of his actions was presented to the military court, records show.

The death penalty was almost a matter of routine, DeFinis said, but no one, including Woods, ever expected it to be carried out.

Woods returned to the United States after World War II before learning Slovik had been shot, DeFinis said.

DeFinis said he and Woods

saw the widow on a television talk show about two years ago and decided to take up the cause.

Edelson said he plans to seek the pardon on moral as well as legal grounds, and will claim Slovik was denied his right to due process because of technical errors in the trial proceeding.

Edelson said his first step will be to petition a civilian board in Washington which reviews requests by persons wishing to change the status of their military discharges.

If that fails, DeFinis said, the case will be argued through the federal court system. DeFinis said he and Woods are paying all legal and research costs for the planned litigation.

Ford Boyhood Home Crumbling Under Attacks By Vandals In GR

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — President Ford's boyhood home is crumbling under vandals' attacks as debate continues on how — and whether — to restore the house to honor the nation's 38th President.

A Ford Commemorative Committee, established by the Grand Rapids mayor, would like to restore the house with replicas of the furnishings it contained when Ford lived there in the 1920s.

But Carl Morgenstern, the committee's chairman, says he is hesitant to seek any restoration funds until "we can stop the vandals."

The city of Grand Rapids bought the house at 649 Union Ave. SE from the Veterans Administration last year. Some broken windows were replaced then and some minor repairs were made. The house has been vacant since before Ford became President.

But now, nearly all the repaired windows have been smashed again and the city has been forced to board most of them up.

Morgenstern said he hopes to meet with residents of the area to get their suggestions for stopping the vandalism.

Utah Board May Have To Order Gilmore Execution

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Board of Pardons may have little choice when it meets next Wednesday but to grant killer Gary Mark Gilmore's request to die before a firing squad, the board chairman has indicated.

"If a person comes there and says he doesn't want it (clemency) and no reason is presented to us for it, what can we do?" said George Latimer, chairman of the three-member board to which Gov. Calvin L. Rampton sent the case Thursday after staying an execution scheduled for Monday.

In a letter to Latimer, Rampton, who leaves office in January, said he wanted the board at Wednesday's public hearing to "review the decision of the trial judge" to determine whether capital punishment would be "appropriate."

Utah law does not grant the governor clemency powers, and Rampton, an acknowledged supporter of capital punishment, made no recommendation

Thursday in delaying the execution.

Gilmore, 35, has said repeatedly he wants no delay in carrying out his death sentence for the murder of Provo motel clerk Bonnie Bushnell during a robbery last July. When told of Rampton's action Thursday, Gilmore complained he was being subjected to "cruel, unusual and inhuman punishment."

Latimer said that under state law he and board members Thomas R. Harrison and Harriet L. Marcus have two alternatives: to commute Gilmore's sentence to life in prison or to ask the trial judge to reset the execution date.

Latimer, who opposed the death penalty as civilian defense counsel at Lt. William L. Calley Jr.'s court-martial for the My Lai massacre, said the board does not concern itself with the question of whether Utah's death penalty law is constitutional.

If the sentence is not commuted, Corrections officials said mid-December would probably be the earliest Gilmore could meet his executioners.

Utah requires a 30-day lapse between sentence and execution. But it was unclear whether the 30-day rule would apply to a resentencing.

The governor acted after the Utah Supreme Court first stayed the execution and then, on Wednesday, reversed itself when it heard an unusual personal appeal from Gilmore to end the delays so he could "die like a man." Rampton said he felt the state constitution required him to intercede.

Gilmore would be the first man executed in the United States since 1967, and many of the more than 400 death-row inmates around the country fear the consequences of his rush to death.

In Utah, for example, lawyers for other condemned prisoners said they feared allowing Gilmore to go to his death without an appellate court review would be a de facto ruling upholding the state's death penalty law. The law was re-enacted after the U.S. Supreme Court found most state capital punishment statutes unconstitutional.

The American Civil Liberties Union and the NAACP's Legal, Defense and Educational Fund, Inc., both said they were considering an appeal of Utah's untested law to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Gilmore expressed outrage at all such efforts, saying in a statement read by his lawyer after word reached him of the governor's action:

"To prolong this execution when I do not ask for it to be prolonged puts me through the stress of cruel, unusual and inhuman punishment. This delay also prolongs the agony of waiting for my family and friends."

Prison officials refused to allow Gilmore to hold a news conference Thursday night and said reporters would not be told in advance the location of the execution nor be allowed to witness it.

Warden Samuel Smith of the Utah State Prison and Ernest D. Wright, the state corrections director, said at a news conference the secrecy also would apply to names of five men on the firing squad. Smith has said more than two dozen persons have volunteered for the squad.

In a related development, Craig Snyder, a Gilmore lawyer recently replaced by California lawyer and free-lance writer Dennis Boaz, said he planned to bring a complaint against Boaz before the Utah State Bar Association.

Boaz recently signed a statement in the presence of Warden Smith that he would not write an article about the Gilmore case. But he said later that he planned to ignore that pledge.

Whirlpool 'Stable' After 60 Laid Off

Whirlpool Corp. does not expect any major changes in employment or production schedules for the balance of 1976, according to a spokesman at corporate headquarters.

Sixty hourly workers were laid off at the St. Joseph division Oct. 29 because of what the company called a "softening of the appliance market on 28-inch washers."

The division's hourly employment was 1,200 as of Nov. 8. It totaled 1,650 last May before a 14-week work stoppage caused by a lockout.

The spokesman at corporate headquarters said employment now is generally stable at all Whirlpool operations which have 19,000 salaried and hourly workers, not counting Whirlpool subsidiaries.

Whirlpool's expectation of stability contrasts with the appliance employment picture at General Electric. The Wall Street Journal reported GE will have 8,500 appliance workers on layoffs by the end of the month including 2,000 who have been producing washers.

Summer Hedging Could Help Cherry Growers

Southwestern Michigan growers who have been disappointed by planting tart cherry trees in hedgerows might find help from a practice done experimentally around Traverse City.

Summer hedging seems to have a dwarfing effect on trees according to research done by Dr. Charles D. Kesner, Northwestern Michigan district horticulturist.

Grand Traverse County Extension Director George McManus Jr. said that summer hedging might be the procedure that makes high-density hedgerow plantings successful. Berrien growers who have planted hedgerow tarts have found that the trees become so thick that inside branches die from lack of light, Berrien Extension Horticulturist Harvey Belter said.

McManus said that half of the tart cherry orchards planted within the past two years in the Traverse City area are closely spaced hedgerows.

He said that hedgerows contain 50 to 100 per cent more trees per acre than the normal tart cherry orchard. Hoped-for yields of 50 to 100 per cent greater explain the popularity of the idea, according to McManus.

Belter said Berrien growers have been experimenting with hedgerows for 10 years. The idea seems to work better for peaches than for tart cherries, he said. Tart cherries in hedgerows "grow so thick that every other tree has to be taken out," leaving a normally-spaced orchard.

Normal spacing for trees in a tart cherry orchard is 20 feet between rows and 20 feet between trees in each row, McManus said. But Kesner, using summer hedging, is successfully growing trees 12 feet apart with 20 feet between rows.

Hedging is done about two weeks before harvest "after the peak flush of new growth," McManus said. In Traverse City this would be around July 1 and in the Benton Harbor area around June 15, he noted.

McManus said that a modified Fusum tree trimmer can be used for summer hedging. About 50 per cent of the current year's growth (about six inches) is clipped from each tree in the row. The machine goes up and down the rows cutting new wood from the outside edges of the trees.

Kesner, who is experimenting with summer hedging at a farm on the Old Mission peninsula, wants the hedgerows to be eight feet wide at the bottom and about six feet wide at the top.

This season Kesner noted that a thick top was starting to develop on the upper part of the trees, shading the center. The tree trimmer was used to top the trees in August to create a "barn roof" shape, he said.

Summer tipping is unlike winter pruning because it can change the physiology of the tree during its growing season while winter pruning just removes wood from the previous season. Summer hedging, for this reason, tends to dwarf the trees.

McManus said that summer hedging, at least for the six-year-old trees on the peninsula, replaces winter pruning. As his research continues Kesner hopes to keep the orchard "tight enough" to avoid having to do winter pruning, McManus said.

Fewer Farmers In U.S.

Farm population in the Western United States increased five per cent between 1970 and 1975, while declining in other areas of the nation.

The North Central states showed a five per cent drop, while farm population decreased eight per cent in the Northeast and 16 per cent in the South, according to a United States Department of Agriculture survey.

About 200,000 persons left farms between 1970 and 1975, but there were 30,000 more births than deaths during that period for farm families.

U.S. farm population registered 8.9 million in 1975, down nine per cent from 1970. The decrease, however, was considerably less than in previous years.

According to the survey, 4.2 per cent of the nation's 213 million people live on farms. This compares to farm population figures of 30.1 per cent of the nation's population in 1920, 8.7 per cent in 1960 and 4.8 per cent in 1970.

Whites make up the majority of the farm population, the survey showed. The total number of blacks on farms in 1975 was estimated at 611,000, a decrease of 35 per cent since 1960.

Between 1970 and 1975, the number of farm children dropped by 25 per cent. In 1960 those under 14 represented a third of the farm population.

The report also showed that the median income of farm families increased by 21 per cent, while that of non-farm families only increased by two per cent; that few women operate their own farms; that males outnumber females on farms; that black farm families are larger than white families.

Safe-For-Birds Repellent Introduced For Cherries

The Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service researchers have developed a bird repellent for use on sweet cherry crops that allows growers to raise cherries without bird damage and still have birds in their orchards.

If the chemical, methiocarb, is registered with the Environmental Protection Agency, and scientists think it will be, it would be the first time a chemical has been approved for protection of fruit from bird damage. Its use on other crops also looks promising, researchers said.

Methiocarb is a short-lived carbamate that breaks down rapidly in sunlight. When birds eat a few cherries sprayed with the chemical, they get sick and soon learn to associate its taste with its effects. The effect is temporary, however, and birds recover completely. In ten years of testing, no bird deaths or chronic effects have been attributed to the chemical, and from all observations, reproduction in the birds has been normal. The treatment appears to work on every major species of bird that attacks orchards.

Damage in some orchards is presently kept in check by scaring methods — broadcasting recorded distress calls, gas-powered exploders and use of shell crackers. The methods are time consuming and are far from foolproof.

In recent tests, untreated orchards received anywhere from 3.2 to 7.5 times as much damage as those treated with methiocarb.

Biologists think that data from their experiments will lead to a bird repellency label for methiocarb on sweet cherries and probably will be the beginning of a series of registrations for other fruit crops.

The chemical was registered this spring for use as a corn seed protectant against blackbirds and for use as an insecticide on cherry and peach crops.

Data from recent experiments show that methiocarb also looks promising as a bird repellent on blueberries, grapes, grain sorghum and sprouting rice.

awards by Ron Bodtke, president of the association. The certificate of recognition is presented to the "adventurous few who had faith in the infant midwestern blueberry industry."

Along with other MSU agricultural engineers, Hansen pioneered a three-step system to help blueberry growers boost yields on old plantations and extend the life of their plantings.

Nelson was instrumental in the initiation, implementation and the direction of many projects for blueberry growers, nutritional studies, mechanization of packing lines, and research on increased production and control methods to prevent disease.

Kieft was one of the first to establish blueberry acreage in the western Michigan area and was past president and a member of the board of directors of the association. He was commended for paying to have a blueberry crop, which was infested with blueberry maggot, picked and buried to prevent the spread of the disease.

Apples In Storage Decrease

Because of spring freezes and dry growing conditions this year, apples put in storage in 1976 decreased 27 per cent from last year but only 9 per cent from 1973, a year of comparable crop size.

According to a Nov. 1 report from the Michigan Apple Council, there were 5.9 million bushels of apples put in storage in 1976, compared with 8.2 million in 1975 and 6.6 million in 1973.

Because some processors are keeping apples in their yards rather than in cold storage, common storage is higher this year than in the recent past, the report said.

Cold storage holdings are down 38 per cent from last year and 36 per cent from 1973. Controlled atmosphere holdings are down 750,000 (22 per cent) from 1975 but up slightly from 1973.

Apples held for processing total 2 million bushels, or 33 per cent of the total holdings. That figure is down 500,000 bushels from 1975 and 1.5 million from 1973. Last year processing apples were 29 per cent of the total crop and in 1975 were 51 per cent of the total.

Eighty-four per cent of the common storage holdings are held for processing, and 46 per cent of those held in cold storage will be processed.

AMMON

BARTLESVILLE, OKLA. (AP) — One of ammonia's chief uses is as a fertilizer. An estimated 11.6 million tons of ammonia were used to nourish corn, soybeans, wheat and other major crops in the last agricultural year, according to Phillips Chemical.

Summer Hedging Could Help Cherry Growers

Southwestern Michigan growers who have been disappointed by planting tart cherry trees in hedgerows might find help from a practice done experimentally around Traverse City.

Summer hedging seems to have a dwarfing effect on trees according to research done by Dr. Charles D. Kesner, Northwestern Michigan district horticulturist.

Grand Traverse County Extension Director George McManus Jr., said that summer hedging might be the procedure that makes high-density hedgerow plantings successful. Berrien growers who have planted hedgerow tarts have found that the trees become so thick that inside branches die from lack of light, Berrien Extension Horticulturist Harvey Belter said.

McManus said that half of the tart cherry orchards planted within the past two years in the Traverse City area are close-density hedgerows.

He said that hedgerows contain 50 to 100 per cent more trees per acre than the normal tart cherry orchard. Hoped-for yields of 50 to 100 per cent greater explain the popularity of the idea, according to McManus.

Belter said Berrien growers have been experimenting with hedgerows for 10 years. The idea seems to work better for peaches than for tart cherries, he said. Tart cherries in hedgerows "grow so thick that every other tree has to be taken out," leaving a normally-spaced orchard.

Normal spacing for trees in a tart cherry orchard is 20 feet between rows and 20 feet between trees in each row, McManus said. But Kesner, using summer hedging, is successfully growing trees 12 feet apart with 20 feet between rows.

Hedging is done about two weeks before harvest "after the peak flush of new growth," McManus said. In Traverse City this would be around July 1 and in the Benton Harbor area around June 15, he noted.

McManus said that a modified Fossum tree trimmer can be used for summer hedging. About 50 per cent of the current year's growth (about six inches) is clipped from each tree in the row. The machine goes up and down the rows cutting new wood from the outside edges of the trees.

Kesner, who is experimenting with summer hedging at a farm on the Old Mission peninsula, wants the hedgerows to be eight feet wide at the bottom and about six feet wide at the top.

This season Kesner noted that a thick top was starting to develop on the upper part of the trees, shading the center. The tree trimmer was used to top the trees in August to create a "barn roof" shape, he said.

Summer tipping is unlike winter pruning because it can change the physiology of the tree during its growing season while winter pruning just removes wood from the previous season. Summer hedging, for this reason, tends to dwarf the trees.

McManus said that summer hedging, at least for the six-year-old trees on the peninsula, replaces winter pruning. As his research continues Kesner hopes to keep the orchard "tight enough" to avoid having to do winter pruning, McManus said.

The North Central states showed a five per cent drop, while farm population decreased eight per cent in the Northeast and 16 per cent in the South, according to a United States Department of Agriculture survey.

About 200,000 persons left farms between 1970 and 1975, but there were 30,000 more births than deaths during that period for farm families.

U.S. farm population registered 8.9 million in 1975, down nine per cent from 1970. The decrease, however, was considerably less than in previous years.

Whites make up the majority of the farm population, the survey showed. The total number of blacks on farms in 1975 was estimated at 611,000, a decrease of 35 per cent since 1960.

Between 1970 and 1975, the number of farm children dropped by 25 per cent. In 1960 those under 14 represented a third of the farm population.

The report also showed that the medium income of farm families increased by 21 per cent, while that of non-farm families only increased by two per cent; that few women operate their own farms; that males outnumber females on farms; that black farm families are larger than white families.

Safe-For-Birds Repellent Introduced For Cherries

The Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service researchers have developed a bird repellent for use on sweet cherry crops that allows growers to raise cherries without bird damage and still have birds in their orchards.

If the chemical, methiocarb, is registered with the Environmental Protection Agency, and scientists think it will be, it would be the first time a chemical has been approved for protection of fruit from bird damage. Its use on other crops also looks promising, researchers said.

Methiocarb is a short-lived carbamate that breaks down rapidly in sunlight. When birds eat a few cherries sprayed with the chemical, they get sick and soon learn to associate its taste with its effects. The effect is temporary, however, and birds

Biologists think that data from their experiments will lead to a bird repellency label

The chemical was registered this spring for use as a corn seed protectant against blackbirds and for use as an insecticide on cherry and peach crops.

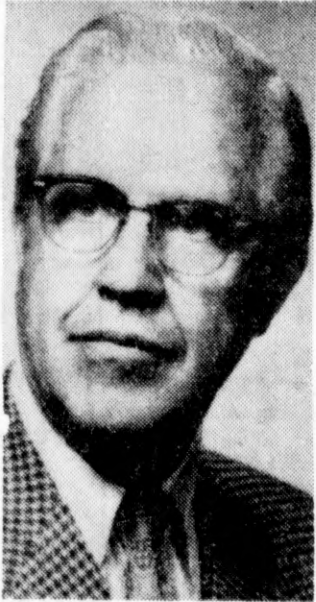

Date from recent experiments show that methiocarb also looks promising as a bird repellent on blueberries, grapes, grain sorghum and sprouting rice.

Union Says GM Offer Is Short

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers, charging that General Motors' initial economic offer falls short of the industry pattern, has countered with new proposals on a three-year contract.

"The GM offer contains many shortfalls and we have made proposals on each of these," UAW Vice President Irving Bluestone said Thursday following a 45-minute maintainable negotiation session.

Bluestone said one of the proposals involved the union's demand for additional paid days off, ultimately to achieve a four-day work week.

A union spokesman said one shortcoming in the company's offer was a failure to make the contract retroactive. The union, which had indefinitely extended the old contract, wants the new pact to take effect Sept. 20, a week after the old accord's original expiration date.

The union, which would not identify any other "shortfalls," has set a deadline of midnight next Thursday for either a settlement on a new accord or a 21-state walkout by 390,000 hourly workers.

Both sides, however, have said there still is sufficient time to reach an agreement without a strike.

The two sides also held sub-committee meetings Thursday on insurance, seniority, preferential hiring and health and safety matters. They also agreed to commission a joint study on the potential hazards of worker exposure to lead at a number of GM plants.

The nation's No. 1 automaker gave the UAW its economic offer Wednesday, calling it "within the framework" of the pattern set last month at Ford Motor Co. following a four-week strike.

Burns-Carter Clash Possible

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

Arthur Burns says he intends to cooperate with the Carter administration and the new Congress, but the Federal Reserve Board chairman also warns against any Democratic efforts to give the economy a quick boost.

Burns told the Senate Banking Committee on Thursday that there is a "clear need" for expansion of the economies of industrial nations. But he said the traditional methods of economic stimulation could be counterproductive.

President-elect Jimmy Carter has said he would consider a tax cut if the economy does not pick up before he takes office in January.

Burns, 72, whose term as Fed chairman does not expire until 1978, said he has cooperated with Congress and the president "in the past, and will do so in the future." But he said the Fed will not forego its responsibility "to bring independent judgment to bear on the questions we are dealing with."

He said it would be "a ruinous policy" for the Fed to suddenly take all restraint off the money supply.

Burns' testimony did little to quell speculation that there could be an early clash between him and Carter on economic policy.

Carter is committed to promoting programs to create jobs, but Burns said past methods of stimulating employment, such as budget deficits and easy credit, "cannot work well in an environment that has become highly sensitive to inflationary fears and expectations."

"Lasting prosperity will not be achieved until our country solves its chronic problem of inflation," he said.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the committee chairman, appeared puzzled over Burns' testimony.

"It seems to me you are saying we ought to have expansion, but don't count on us (the Fed) to help very much," Proxmire said.

When Burns said the Fed's new targets for money growth — down to 6.5 per cent from 7 per cent previously — did not represent a tightening of the money supply, Proxmire again expressed dismay.

"You're a very convincing man, but what you are trying to convince me of is that down is really up... It's hard to adjust to the idea that 6.5 per cent is higher than 7 per cent," Proxmire said.

"The GM offer contains many shortfalls and we have made proposals on each of these," UAW Vice President Irving Bluestone said Thursday following a 45-minute maintainable negotiation session.

Bluestone said one of the proposals involved the union's demand for additional paid days off, ultimately to achieve a four-day work week.

A union spokesman said one shortcoming in the company's offer was a failure to make the contract retroactive. The union, which had indefinitely extended the old contract, wants the new pact to take effect Sept. 20, a week after the old accord's original expiration date.

The union, which would not identify any other "shortfalls," has set a deadline of midnight next Thursday for either a settlement on a new accord or a 21-state walkout by 390,000 hourly workers.

Both sides, however, have said there still is sufficient time to reach an agreement without a strike.

The two sides also held sub-committee meetings Thursday on insurance, seniority, preferential hiring and health and safety matters. They also agreed to commission a joint study on the potential hazards of worker exposure to lead at a number of GM plants.

The nation's No. 1 automaker gave the UAW its economic offer Wednesday, calling it "within the framework" of the pattern set last month at Ford Motor Co. following a four-week strike.

Burns-Carter Clash Possible

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur Burns says he intends to cooperate with the Carter administration and the new Congress, but the Federal Reserve Board chairman also warns against any Democratic efforts to give the economy a quick boost.

Burns told the Senate Banking Committee on Thursday that there is a "clear need" for expansion of the economies of industrial nations. But he said the traditional methods of economic stimulation could be counterproductive.

President-elect Jimmy Carter has said he would consider a tax cut if the economy does not pick up before he takes office in January.

Burns, 72, whose term as Fed chairman does not expire until 1978, said he has cooperated with Congress and the president "in the past, and will do so in the future." But he said the Fed will not forego its responsibility "to bring independent judgment to bear on the questions we are dealing with."

He said it would be "a ruinous policy" for the Fed to suddenly take all restraint off the money supply.

Burns' testimony did little to quell speculation that there could be an early clash between him and Carter on economic policy.

Carter is committed to promoting programs to create jobs, but Burns said past methods of stimulating employment, such as budget deficits and easy credit, "cannot work well in an environment that has become highly sensitive to inflationary fears and expectations."

"Lasting prosperity will not be achieved until our country solves its chronic problem of inflation," he said.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the committee chairman, appeared puzzled over Burns' testimony.

"It seems to me you are saying we ought to have expansion, but don't count on us (the Fed) to help very much," Proxmire said.

When Burns said the Fed's new targets for money growth — down to 6.5 per cent from 7 per cent previously — did not represent a tightening of the money supply, Proxmire again expressed dismay.

"You're a very convincing man, but what you are trying to convince me of is that down is really up ... It's hard to adjust to the idea that 6.5 per cent is higher than 7 per cent," Proxmire said.

One Zoning Change Hit By Stevensville Residents

Only one section of a proposed new zoning ordinance for Stevensville drew objections last night during a public hearing in Stevensville.

The section dealt with the rebuilding or restoration of non-conforming use structures. The provisions drew objections from most of the 15 people attending the hearing held by the village council in the Lincoln township hall.

No alternatives were presented by objectors but the council agreed to make further study of the section and hold another public hearing before acting on the proposed ordinance.

Brian Sodi, of the Berrien county planning commission who has worked with the council to draw up the ordinance, said he would check with other township officials to see if another solution to the problem was feasible.

Those objecting own homes on or near St. Joseph avenue just south of the village's business district in an area now zoned commercial. Most stated they did not want the area rezoned residential, when asked by village Atty. Thomas Adams.

The proposed ordinance reads that any non-conforming structure damaged by fire, wind or an act of God cannot be rebuilt or restored if the cost exceeds one-half the value of the structure unless approved by the zoning board of appeals.

It continues that the zoning board shall act favorably only if: 1. The rebuilding or restoration does not substantially extend the probable duration of such non-conforming use, or 2. The land cannot be advantageously used for a use permitted in the zone.

Adams said the existing ordinance, adopted in 1953, allows rebuilding if it does not exceed 75 per cent of the value, but does not provide the owner an opportunity to appeal as does the proposed ordinance.

Gerald Bass, 5789 St. Joseph avenue, former council trustee, asked who would determine the value of the structure and if it would be determined on the assessed valuation or the market value.

Adams said the section was not clear on this point but it should be the market value and be determined by the building inspector and perhaps someone like a bank assessor.

In reviewing other areas of the proposed ordinance, Adams said it provides more land use districts in addition to the existing residential, commercial and limited industrial zones. Others include multi-family, duplex, mobile home parks and restricted commercial office.

Sodi reported a planned development district is not included on the proposed zoning map but is provided for in the ordinance. Such a district will require a minimum of three acres and approval by the council of preliminary and final plans of the entire development area.

The only major zoning change proposed is from residential to commercial on the east side of Red Arrow highway, south of Johnson road, according to Trustee B. W. Yaslick.

New Buffalo Township Eyes Surplus Tract

NEW BUFFALO - The state highway department has offered to sell to New Buffalo township some 36 acres of state-owned land along the Galien river, south of Union Pier.

In confirming the offer last night, the New Buffalo township board pointed out that the 36-acre parcel for which the state is asking $15,000 is landlocked and the township would have to buy some adjacent land from private property owners for access.

The board voted to approach three private property owners about possible sale of their land. The state-owned land is near 40 acres of township land used for recreational purposes and would be used for park and recreation purposes if acquired, township officials said.

In other areas, the township board heard complaints about disruption of utility services because of sewer construction in the Union Pier area.

Complaints centered around severed telephone lines, water pressure loss and ditches that could block fire and ambulance vehicles from reaching their destinations.

A spokesman for R.W. Petrio Associates, a Benton Harbor engineering firm, admitted this morning that there have been problems, but maintained they are normal problems that accompany sewer line construction.

Michael Smith said contractors have been looping in extra water lines to provide more pressure and maintain water to homes where water wells have gone dry and have been in contact with telephone companies to try to avoid cable cutting.

He added that construction ditches are filled in at night to insure that fire and ambulance vehicles have access to all homes and businesses.

He disputed a claim by Jesse Howard of Union Pier that open ditches block access to the Howard home.

"After the meeting, I drove to the Howard home in my car," Smith said.

Also last night, the board voted to instruct Williams and Works, a Grand Rapids engineering firm, to file an application with the U.S. Department of Interior for a $3,300 grant for construction of basketball and tennis courts and an ice skating rink at the township hall. The township would match the federal grant with a like amount.

The board also voted to pay half of the one-time $85 charge, plus a $4.15 monthly phone charge, for its share of communication equipment for a backup emergency radio dispatch hookup with Chikaming township. The city of New Buffalo is to pay the other half of the fees for the system that will guarantee communication with the sheriff's department which dispatches emergency service for the area.

Alvin Kismann was appointed to a three-year term on the planning commission after the board accepted the resignation of Jerry Glickauf from the commission.

St. Joe School Budget Hearing Slated Monday

The meeting will start at 7 p.m. at the E.P. Clarke elementary school, 515 East Glenford road.

Ship Sinks In Storm; Sailors Cling To Logs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Caught up in the Pacific's "worst weather of the year," crewmen from a sunken lumber ship clung to floating logs from their vessel's scattered cargo and waited for dawn to be rescued.

The pilot of a Coast Guard plane hovering above the scene 1,400 miles northwest of Honolulu said he could count fewer than half the 33 crew members of the sunken Carmanian-1 bobbing among the 20-foot seas Thursday.

Two men were safely aboard the Panamanian-registered ship Hunter, itself in trouble with cargo shifting in its hold. Another crewman was rescued by the freighter Wisteria, which arrived on the scene about midnight Thursday. A Russian ship and a Coast Guard cutter were still en route.

Because of the difficult weather conditions, the Coast Guard said the Wisteria and Hunter probably would await dawn (about 10 a.m. PST) before attempting to rescue any more crewmen.

Eight men were balanced on a logjam from the cargo of the sunken ship, and three more were perched atop an upside down lifeboat from the Carmanian-1.

"A few" others were seen in rubber rafts dropped from planes to the life-jacketed men, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

A second lifeboat from the sunken ship was spotted drifting out of reach.

The spokesman said the Coast Guard plane dropped six 20-man rubber rafts and survival kits containing fresh water, food, lights and flares to the men.

South Haven Hit By Snow And Collisions

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN - State police at South Haven investigated several accidents involving vehicles sliding off snow covered and slippery roads this morning.

The most serious occurred at 4:40 a.m. involving two semi-trucks on I-196 near the Glenn exit, north of here.

Troopers said a semi driven by Ray Waterhouse, 39, Anoka, Minn., was passing another semi when it jackknifed causing both trucks to go into a ditch. The other driver, Michael Coates, 34, Muskegon, was treated and released from South Haven Community hospital for facial cuts.

The accident remains under investigation, and at mid-morning today wreckers were still trying to untangle the trucks.

Another three inches of heavy, wet snow fell on the South Haven area last night, adding to the six inches the area received 24 hours earlier. Roads in the area and north to Holland were reported snow covered and slippery.

Says Milliken Will Run

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) - Gov. William Milliken probably will bow to Republican pressure and seek re-election in 1978, House Minority Leader Dennis Cawthorne predicts. The Manistee Republican said he believes Milliken will be the candidate, despite the governor's refusal so far to commit himself to the race. Cawthorne said he believes Milliken would be the strongest candidate the Republicans could field and will come under increasingly heavy pressure from the party to run and hold the governor's seat in the GOP. Speaking in a televised interview on WKAR-TV in East Lansing, Cawthorne said he believes the Republicans could win the seat even if Milliken chooses not to run, but he said the governor's candidacy would make a victory more likely. Cawthorne said he would seriously consider running for governor himself if Milliken does not run, and said there is a "reasonable prospect" he would not seek another term in the House.

Natural Gas Supply Good In Michigan

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) - Michigan residents will have a good supply of natural gas this winter, says the president of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

But an adequate long-term supply depends on conservation efforts and a strong national energy policy that encourages exploration and development of reserves and alternative energy forms, according to Charles Montgomery.

Montgomery, addressing an energy seminar sponsored by the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, said Thursday he knows of no gas utility in Michigan that is predicting possible cutoffs of gas service to any customers this winter.

"That does not mean that firm customers will receive all the gas they want," Montgomery said. "Some utilities have already placed volume limits on service to large customers."

He said interruptible customers - mainly large manufacturers - will probably continue to have their service interrupted occasionally. Such customers are required to have standby fuel facilities to keep their operations going.

Michigan Consolidated Gas does not plan to curtail service to any of its residential, commercial or industrial customers, Montgomery said. But interruptible customers will probably have their service cut off for about two weeks in January or February, he said.

Although Michigan is in good shape, gas shortages nationwide remain a problem, Montgomery said.

the freeway median strip, but he turned to avoid hitting an overpass and crashed near the access ramp at Van Wagner Road. Police said if the plane had been able to make it another 200 yards, it might have landed safely.

Bill Earley and his wife, Bev, of Spring Lake, were driving on Van Wagner road when the plane came down almost in front of them. "We were right on top of the hill when we saw the plane," Earley said. "We saw it seconds before it crashed. We didn't hear anything. The plane came out of the snow flurries like a big yellow canary."

Earley said it looked as if the pilot was trying to swing the plane around to land on the road.

Police said they believed the three families had been in the Traverse City area, either skiing or looking over some real estate near the Sugar Loaf Ski Lodge. The plane was enroute from Traverse City to Grand Rapids with a brief stopover scheduled at Grand Haven.

A trooper at the Grand Haven State Police post said he had reports of residents of the Fruitport area hearing the plane barking moments before the plane came down.

Welfare Employees Ask Probe

a verbal reprimand, Demsey said.

Meanwhile, at least five law enforcement agencies are continuing a criminal inquiry into Wayne County operations, and are looking into several check-cashing rings allegedly operating out of the county's welfare offices.

The audit report released by Demsey Monday said "hundreds of thousands of dollars" are unaccounted for in the county's general assistance program, which gives primarily to support single men. Wayne County uses about $100 million of the state's $180 million general assistance budget.

Gibson said he first contacted Demsey last July about "gross irregularities" in the general assistance program and that Demsey promised a full investigation.

Gibson charged Thursday that Social Service officials prefer to punish welfare clients rather than improve bureaucratic operations.

The union estimated a new reporting system which requires all clients to complete monthly income reports will knock 25 to 30 per cent of legitimate welfare clients off welfare rolls.

New Buffalo Township Eyes Surplus Tract

NEW BUFFALO — The state highway department has offered to sell to New Buffalo township some 36 acres of state-owned land along the Galien river, south of Union Pier.

In confirming the offer last night, the New Buffalo township board pointed out that the 36-acre parcel for which the state is asking $15,000 is landlocked and the township would have to buy some adjacent land from private property owners for access.

The board voted to approach three private property owners about possible sale of their land. The state-owned land is near 40 acres of township land used for recreational purposes and would be used for park and recreation purposes if acquired, township officials said.

In other areas, the township board heard complaints about disruption of utility services because of sewer construction in the Union Pier area.

Complaints centered around severed telephone lines, water pressure loss and ditches that could block fire and ambulance vehicles from reaching their destinations.

A spokesman for R.W. Petrie Associates, a Benton Harbor engineering firm, admitted this morning that there have been problems, but maintained they are normal problems that accompany sewer line construction.

Michael Smith said contractors have been looping in extra water lines to provide more pressure and maintain water to homes where water wells have gone dry and have been in contact with telephone companies to try to avoid cable cutting.

He added that construction ditches are filled in at night to insure that fire and ambulance vehicles have access to all homes and businesses.

He disputed a claim by Jesse Howard of Union Pier that open ditches block access to the Howard home.

"After the meeting, I drove to the Howard home in my car," Smith said.

Also last night, the board voted to instruct Williams and Works, a Grand Rapids engineering firm, to file an application with the U.S. Department of Interior for a $3,000 grant for construction of basketball and tennis courts and an ice skating rink at the foot seas Thursday. Two men were safely aboard the Panamanian-registered ship Hunter, itself in trouble with cargo shifting in its hold. Another crewman was rescued by the freighter Wisteria, which arrived on the scene about midnight Thursday. A Russian ship and a Coast Guard cutter were still en route.

Because of the difficult weather conditions, the Coast Guard said the Wisteria and Hunter probably would wait ing today wreckers were still trying to untangle the trucks. Another three inches of heavy, wet snow fell on the South Haven area last night, adding to the six inches the area received 24 hours earlier. Roads in the area and north to Holland were reported snow covered and slippery.

The most serious occurred at 4:40 a.m. involving two semi-trucks on I-196 near the Glenn exit, north of here.

Troopers said a semi driven by Ray Waterhouse, 39, Anoka, Minn., was passing another semi when it jackknifed causing both trucks to go into a ditch.

The other driver, Michael Caotes, 34, Muskegon, was treated and released from South Haven Community hospital for facial cuts.

The accident remains under investigation, and at mid-morning today wreckers were still trying to untangle the trucks.

More Than $8,000 Behind, Dad Is Jailed

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A Benton township man owing more than $8,000 in child support for eight children on ADC was sentenced to four months in jail this week in Berrien Circuit court.

Edward Pastrick, special investigator for the Berrien friend of the court's office, reported Calvin Williams was one of eight fathers who were held in contempt of court for arrearages totalling more than $25,000. In cases before Judge William S. White:

Williams, of 639 Blaine avenue, was placed on three years probation and sentenced to concurrent four-month jail terms in separate cases for arrearages of $7,394 for six children on ADC, $308

for one ADC child, and $513 for another child on ADC.

Pastrick said only three support payments have been made on each case, with the last payment on the largest arrearage in January, 1973. The last payments on the other cases came in October and December, 1975, Pastrick said.

John D. Knox, of 135 Church street, Benton Harbor, avoided a 30-day jail sentence by making arrangements to start paying off $515 arrearages for one child on ADC. Knox was also placed on two years probation.

Johnny Chamberlin, of 234 Lake avenue, Benton Harbor, got two years probation for $1,819 arrearages for one child on ADC, and was warned that if two payments are missed he'll be sentenced to 30 days in jail. He was ordered to pay $10 weekly support and $10 per week on the arrearage.

In cases before Judge Julian E. Hughes:

Lennie Johnson, of 2070 Red Arrow highway, Benton township, paid $100 towards an arrearage of $1,254 for three children not on ADC after being placed on three years probation. Hughes ordered Johnson to spend 10 days in jail if one payment is missed, and ordered a wage assignment of $21 weekly support and $10 on the arrearage.

Edwin Stern, of South M-140, Watervliet, was placed on two years probation for $2,141 arrearages for two children not on ADC, and ordered to execute a wage assignment of $24 weekly support and $6 on the arrearage.

Larry La Grow, of 144 Harriet street, Coloma, got three years probation for $3,302 arrearages for two children not on ADC, and was told to pay $25 support and $5 towards the arrearage each week.

Jimnie Corzine, of 650 South Crystal avenue, Benton township, was sentenced to three years probation for $3,199 arrearages for two children not on ADC, and told to sign a wage assignment of $30 weekly support plus $5 on the arrearage.

William L. Griffiths, of Coloma, was placed on two years probation for $431 arrearages for one child not on ADC, and told to pay $42 weekly support and $5 each week on the arrearage.

Rate Hike Looming For South Haven

By TOM RENNEN

South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — The second major rate increase for electric customers of the South Haven board of public utilities (BPU) will probably take effect Dec. 1.

Members of the BPU during a special meeting last night recommended to city council that it take immediate steps to increase the charge for electricity a half-cent per kilowatt for every step in the utility's rate.

City council is expected to take action on the increase Monday night.

The latest increase is needed to reverse a deficit financial situation for the electric utility. In October the utility increased rates 40 per cent across the board in attempt to offset a increase in the cost of buying power wholesale from the Indiana & Michigan Electric company, the city's supplier.

City officials had determined that the 40 per cent increase was needed to offset a 65 per cent hike in the charge by I & M. However, the city did not take into account a change in the way the utility calculates its fuel charge which in effect increased the utility's billings to the city by 110 per cent.

Consequently, the miscalculations put the city into a deficit situation which has caused expenses over income of $60,000 since July 1.

The utility's budget had called for a $20,000 per month surplus.

BPU controller Wilbur Lynam estimated the newest rate increase will result in a surplus of approximately $35,000 per month.

The impact of the rate increase will be greater for large volume users because of the across the board hike.

Lynam said the typical homeowner (a user of 500 kilowatts per month) will find his bill increased $2.50 per month, a hike of approximately 12 per cent.

The average residential bill is now about $19.50 a month.

Palisades In Repair Shutdown

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Consumers Power Co.'s Palisades nuclear plant was taken out of service today for repairs, officials said.

The shutdown is expected to last five days, the company announced.

Officials said they would replace seals in the equipment that operates the unit's control rods and do other maintenance work on the 600,000 kilowatt facility during the shutdown.

She said the written material turned over to board members documents were critical of the Ginn 360 reading system which is used to teach reading in Berrien Springs elementary classes.

Calling Ginn a "space-age horse and buggy," Mrs. Burkhardt said the system is inadequate in every way.

Mrs. Burkhardt, of 32 Range Line road, Berrien Springs, said she is a former teacher who now has children in grades 5 and 7. She said both have been taught reading under the Ginn system.

Mrs. Burkhardt said the "look-say" method used in the Ginn series was developed in the early 1800's to teach hearing-impaired children. She said the method has a "crippling" effect on children with normal hearing.

She said some of the stories in Ginn readers are boring while others are beyond the student's level of comprehension. She said she particularly objected to two stories about the occult and a handbook exercise which requires students to apply for a "witch's license."

She said the course materials neglect to provide students with activities in basic skills such as identifying syllables, using an index, identifying topic sentences and alphabetizing.

She said the written material turned over to board members documented criticisms of the Ginn system by several teachers.

In other areas, the board voted formal approval for a new three-year contract with school district teachers that provides for pay raises totaling about 5.7 per cent including annual step increases.

Under the new contract, teachers with bachelors degrees will be paid salaries ranging from $8,945 to $13,880 in 14 annual steps. Teachers with master's degrees will receive salaries ranging from $9,600 to $15,175 in 15 annual steps.

Last year's salaries for teachers with bachelor's degrees ranged from $8,775 to $13,390 in 14 steps. Master's salaries were $9,275 to $14,565 in 15 steps.

The new contract had been tentatively agreed to Oct. 28 after five months of negotiations between board members and the Berrien Springs Education association.

The board agreed to seek a federal grant of $300,000 to $500,000 under the public works employment act to finance construction of two proposed building additions.

If approved, the grant would finance construction of an extension to the auto body shop at the high school and an extension to the bus garage.

The board voted to hire the consulting firm of Leslie Cripps and Associates, Berrien Springs, to prepare the grant application. The firm's fee was estimated at about $1,500.

Carpp To Lead Lawrence Board

LAWRENCE — Robert Carpp last night was elected president of the Lawrence school board replacing Lester Zoodsma who has resigned from the board. Carpp is vice president of Michigan Quality Frozen Foods and manager of the company's Lawrence plant. Zoodsma is moving to southern Ohio due to a job transfer. He was board president some six years.

Mrs. Betty Judd of Lawrence was appointed to fill Zoodsma's vacancy on the board. She will serve until the term expires in June, 1977. Trustee James Sam-born was elected vice president, an office formerly held by Carpp.

In other areas, the board announced that the public hearing on this year's proposed operating budget will be held at next month's meeting.

A discussion was held on possible cutbacks in athletics but action was tabled until more information can be obtained.

Donna Curtiss, high school principal, was granted permission to attend the National Principals convention in New Orleans, providing she pay half the cost. The board will pay the other half.

It was announced that Lawrence Boy Scouts are going to donate a split rail fence to be erected on the west side of the elementary playground and driveway.

The board approved a ski club at the high school level and that the school be co-sponsor of the

More Than $8,000 Behind, Dad Is Jailed

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A Benton township man owing more than $8,000 in child support for eight children on ADC was sentenced to four months in jail this week in Berrien Circuit court.

Edward Pastrick, special investigator for the Berrien friend of the court's office, reported Calvin Williams was one eight fathers who were held in contempt of court for arrearages totalling more than $25,000. In cases before Judge William S. White:

Williams, of 639 Blaine avenue, was placed on three years probation and sentenced to concurrent four-month jail terms in separate cases for arrearages of $7,394 for six children on ADC, $308

for one ADC child, and $518 for another child on ADC.

Pastrick said only three support payments have been made on each case, with the last payment on the largest arrearage in January, 1973. The last payments on the other cases came in October and December, 1975, Pastrick said.

John D. Knox, of 135 Church street, Benton Harbor, avoided a 30-day jail sentence by making arrangements to start paying off $515 arrearages for one child on ADC. Knox was also placed on two years probation.

Johnny Chamberlin, of 234 Lake avenue, Benton Harbor, got two years probation for $1,819 arrearages for one child on ADC, and was warned that if two payments are missed he'll be sentenced to 30 days in jail. He was ordered to pay $10 weekly support and $10 per week on the arrearage.

In cases before Judge Julian E. Hughes:

Lonnie Johnson, of 2070 Red Arrow highway, Benton township, paid $100 towards an arrearage of $5,253 for three children not on ADC after being placed on three years probation. Hughes ordered Johnson to spend 10 days in jail if one payment is missed, and ordered a wage assignment of $21 weekly support and $10 on the arrearage.

Edwin Stern, of South M-140, Watervliet, was placed on two years probation for $2,141 arrearages for two children not on ADC, and ordered to execute a wage assignment of $24 weekly support and $6

on the arrearage.

Larry La Grow, of 144 Harriet street, Coloma, got three years probation for $3,502 arrearages for two children not on ADC, and was told to pay $25 support and $5 towards the arrearage each week.

Jimmie Corzine, of 650 South Crystal avenue, Benton township, was sentenced to three years probation for $3,199 arrearages for two children not on ADC, and told to sign a wage assignment of $30 weekly support plus $5 on the arrearage.

William L. Griffith, of Coloma, was placed on two years probation for $431 arrearages for one child not on ADC, and told to pay $42 weekly support and $5 each week on the arrearage.

Rate Hike Looming For South Haven

By TOM RENNER

South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — The second major rate increase for electric customers of the South Haven board of public utilities (BPU) will probably take effect Dec. 1.

Members of the BPU during a special meeting last night recommended to city council that it take immediate steps to increase the charge for electricity a half-cent per kilowatt for every step in the utility's rate.

City council is expected to take action on the increase Monday night.

The latest increase is needed to reverse a deficit financial situation for the electric utility. In October the utility increased rates 40 per cent across the board in attempt to offset a increase in the cost of buying power wholesale from the Indiana & Michigan Electric company, the city's supplier.

City officials had determined that the 40 per cent increase was needed to offset a 65 per cent hike in the charge by I & M. However, the city did not take into account a change in the way the utility calculates its fuel charge which in effect increased the utility's billings to the city by 110 per cent.

Consequently, the miscalculations put the city into a deficit situation which has caused expenses over income of $60,000 since July 1.

The utility's budget had called for a $20,000 per month surplus.

BPU controller Wilbur Lynam estimated the newest rate increase will result in a surplus of approximately $25,000 per month.

The impact of the rate increase will be greater for large volume users because of the across the board hike.

Lynam said the typical homeowner (a user of 500 kilowatts per month) will find his bill increased $2.50 per month, a hike of approximately 12 per cent.

The average residential bill is now about $19.50 a month.

BERRIEN SPRINGS BOARD MEETING

Mother Hits 'Look-Say' Reading

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien Springs school board last night heard a mother of two students launch a broad-ranging attack against course materials used to teach reading in grades 1-6.

School board members said they would study a variety of documents submitted by Mrs. Kinley (Anita) Burkhardt. The documents were critical of the Ginn 360 reading system which is used to teach reading in Berrien Springs elementary classes.

Calling Ginn a "space-age horse and buggy," Mrs. Burkhardt said the system is inadequate in every way.

Mrs. Burkhardt, of 32 Range Lane road, Berrien Springs, said she is a former teacher who now has children in grades 5 and 7. She said both have been taught reading under the Ginn system.

Mrs. Burkhardt said the "look-say" method used in the Ginn series was developed in the early 1800's to teach hearing-impaired children. She said the method has a "crippling" effect on children with normal hearing.

She said some of the stories in Ginn readers are boring while others are beyond the student's level of comprehension. She said she particularly objected to two stories about the occult and a handbook exercise which requires students to apply for a "witch's license."

She said the course materials neglect to provide students with activities in basic skills such as identifying syllables, using an index, identifying topic sentences and alphabetizing.

She said the written material turned over to board members documented criticisms of the Ginn system by several teachers.

In other areas, the board voted formal approval for a new three-year contract with school district teachers that provides for pay raises totaling about 5.7 per cent including annual step increases.

Under the new contract, teachers with bachelors degrees will be paid salaries ranging from $8,945 to $13,880 in 14 annual steps. Teachers with master's degrees will receive salaries ranging from $9,600 to $15,175 in 15 annual steps.

Last year's salaries for teachers with bachelor's degrees ranged from $8,775 to $13,390 in 14 steps. Master's salaries were $9,275 to $14,565 in 15 steps.

The new contract had been tentatively agreed to Oct. 28 after five months of negotiations between board members and the Berrien Springs Education association.

The board agreed to seek a federal grant of $300,000 to $500,000 under the public works employment act to finance construction of two proposed building additions.

If approved, the grant would finance construction of an extension to the auto body shop at the high school and an extension to the bus garage.

The board voted to hire the consulting firm of Leslie Cripps and Associates, Berrien Springs, to prepare the grant application. The firm's fee was estimated at about $1,500.

Irish, Alabama Renew Heated Rivalry Saturday

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

There aren't any national championships hanging in the balance this time, but two of the most storied names in college football — Notre Dame and Alabama — are about to clash again.

This is the first-ever regular-season confrontation between the 18th-ranked Fighting Irish of Notre Dame and the 10th-ranked Crimson Tide of Alabama and if it's anytime like their two bowl matchups a winner won't come easy.

Notre Dame won the 1973 national championship over Alabama by upsetting the Tide 24-23 in a Sugar Bowl showdown. The following year, the Irish knocked Alabama and the Bear out of another possible title with a 13-11 upset in the Orange Bowl, an emotional game which ended the Era of Ara Parseghian.

Alabama will be making its first Midwest appearance since a 1968 trek to Wisconsin and the Tide's last venture as far north as chilly South Bend, Ind., came in 1946 against Boston College. For precedent lovers, Bama lost the former 13-0 and the latter 14-7.

Alabama is 7-2, Notre Dame 6-2 and both are still seeking a major bowl bid, if it's not too late. However, the Crimson Tide has won five in a row after a stumbling start — "The greatest turnaround I've ever been connected with," says Bear Bryant.

"Alabama has been coming along quite well in recent weeks," says Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine. "They are particularly dangerous on the ground with some very fine runners. With the excellent backfield depth, they just keep coming at you all day."

Elsewhere, Pitt displays its wares for the first time as the nation's new No. 1 team by entertaining West Virginia in one of those neighborhood rivalries where the record book usually doesn't mean a thing. Meanwhile, deposed Michigan, down to No. 4, hosts Illinois.

With their Pacific-8 shootout one week off, second-ranked UCLA visits Oregon State while third-ranked Southern Cal is at home against Washington.

The rest of the Top Ten finds Southern Methodist at fifth-ranked Texas Tech, the Southwest Conference leader; Clemson at No. 6 Maryland, which is after its third straight Atlantic Coast Conference crown; No. 7 Georgia at Auburn, with the Bulldogs seeking to nail down a Sugar Bowl berth; No. 8 Ohio State — tied with Michigan atop the Big Ten — at Minnesota and No. 9 Nebraska, the Big Eight leader, at Iowa State.

In the Second Ten, it's No. 11 Missouri at No. 14 Oklahoma, No. 16 Texas A&M at No. 13 Arkansas, No. 15 Florida at Kentucky, No. 17 Oklahoma State at Kansas State, Kansas at No. 19 Colorado and Wake Forest at No. 20 South Carolina. Twelfth-ranked Houston is idle.

The only teams with perfect records are Pitt, Texas Tech, Maryland, Colgate and Rutgers. Colgate visits Army while Rutgers is at Tulane for a night contest. Southwestern Louisiana has won them all on the field but had to forfeit two games for using an ineligible player. The Ragin' Cajuns visit Northwestern Louisiana under the lights.

U-M Seeking Rebound Win

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — For the first time since 1969, Michigan's football team is coming off a defeat.

The Wolverines have lost games since then — but they've all been to Ohio State in the season finale. They haven't lost two consecutive regular season games since 1967 when Bump Elliott was coach.

But that's what could happen if Illinois can deal the Wolverines their second straight upset loss Saturday at Michigan Stadium in U-M's final home game of the college football season.

Last week Purdue stunned Michigan with a 16-14 Big Ten triumph to knock the Maize and Blue from first to fourth in national ranking.

"I think Illinois is a better team than Purdue," Michigan

Coach Bo Schembechler said. "Until last week's loss, many — if not most — people would take such comments with a grain of salt. Schembechler has talked about how tough opponents would be all season, then his team has gone out and crushed them — until Purdue."

"The Illini have beaten Missouri and Purdue both on the road," Schembechler said.

"They have a fine young quarterback in Kurt Sneider. I think they have a better passing game than Purdue, while Purdue may have a little better running game."

"Illinois is probably the better overall team because of defense. Illinois has a tough, angle defense that has been hard for us to move on in the past."

Illinois Coach Bob Blackman said Michigan's loss "makes our task doubly tough" because "Michigan realizes they can be beaten and they cannot afford any more losses if they want to win the Big Ten title."

A Wolverines triumph would mean their game next week against Ohio State at Columbus would be for the conference championship and Rose Bowl invitation.

MSU Can't Afford Loss

Wildcats Could Spoil Winning Season

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Nobody would accuse Michigan State of being a powerhouse like its cousin in Ann Arbor, looking for an underdog to upset its apple cart.

But on a reduced scale, the Spartans face the same risk against Northwestern Saturday as Michigan did against Purdue — losing a game they should win and messing up a season getting rosier by the week.

After a horrendous start, Michigan State has gotten its act together and today is on the verge of becoming a winning team and finishing right behind Michigan and Ohio State in the Big Ten.

But Northwestern, winless in nine tries, is better than its record, according to MSU Coach Darryl Rogers. And the Wildcats could snarl the Spartans' plans for a game-hu five straight wins to wrap up third place.

"In college football, from Saturday to Saturday you must be prepared to play your game," Rogers said. "Anyone can beat anyone. This team (Northwestern) has played well enough to win several games, but hasn't."

MSU goes for its fourth straight win Saturday and a chance to up its record to 4-3 in the conference and 5-4 overall. With Minnesota playing Ohio State, that would probably jump the Spartans into at least a tie for third place, although Purdue is likely to be right there with them.

MSU could hardly find a more dismal opponent than Northwestern to continue its climb upward in the Big Ten standings. The Wildcats have been outscored 242-86, lost their best runner — Greg Boykin — early in the season, and have been shut out three times.

The biggest threat Northwestern can muster is quarterback Randy Dean, a big, strong thrower who has hit on 71 of 148 passes — 23 of them to star flanker Scott Yelvington and 23 to tight end Mark Bailey.

"We're playing the best quarterback we've played this year," passing-wise, Rogers said.

The Wildcats' top runner is tailback Pat Beegan, who took over for Boykin and has 392 yards in 112 carries. Fullback Jim Whims has 334 yards.

On defense, the Wildcats have given up about 27 points a game, although only 353 total yards a game — less than the Spartans have allowed.

The Spartans enter the game with several key players still limping from minor injuries suffered in the Indiana contest, and doubtful starters. They include tailback and leading rusher Rich Baes, fullback Levi Jackson, and defensive tackles Mel Land and Larry Bethea.

The main Spartan attack weapon remains quarterback Ed Smith, who is piling up the records with his passing arm. He has now hit on 109 of 267 passes for 1,447 yards and 12 touchdowns — all single-season marks for MSU.

Flanker Kirk Gibson has 32 catches and needs just one more touchdown catch to tie the record of eight in one season. He needs just 19 more yards in catches to top the record of 877 set by Gene Washington in 1966.

Coaches Disagree Over Referee

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coaches Don Cherry of the Boston Bruins and Al Arbour of the New York Islanders agreed their teams had played a good hockey game, but they differed slightly on the work of referee Bruce Hood.

"We're lucky to come out with a tie with him as referee," Cherry said Thursday night after the Bruins and the Islanders battled to a 2-2 deadlock in a meeting of National Hockey League division leaders.

"With an impartial referee,

we would have won the game," Cherry said. "They had four power plays and we had a half one."

"I thought he was very lenient, especially with three or four minutes to go," Arbour said. "I thought there could have been a couple of penalties on them."

In the only other NHL game, Philadelphia outscored Vancouver 6-1.

In the World Hockey Association, San Diego edged Birmingham 3-2, Minnesota and

New England skated to a 3-3 tie and Calgary defeated Winnipeg 7-5.

Gregg Sheppard put Boston in front with his 10th goal at 14:30 of the first period and Denis Paurin tied the score with a 60-foot shot on a power play at 19:12.

Houston's Dave Forbes scored the only second period goal and the Islanders tied it on J.P. Purise's goal at 4:45 of the finale.

Bill Barber and Bob Kelly scored for Philadelphia in the second period after each team recorded three goals in the opening period.

The victory snapped a four-game winless streak for the Flyers, but Coach Fred Shero wasn't satisfied.

Norm Ferguson, Kevin Morrison and Gerry Pender scored for the Mariners with Ferguson getting the winning goal at 15:03 of the final period.

Mike Antonovich scored three goals, the final one with 15 seconds left in regulation play, giving Minnesota its tie with New England and extending to 12 the Whalers' winless streak at the St. Paul Civic Center.

New England is 0-10-2 at St. Paul in the five years of the WHA.

Warren Miller scored with less than three minutes to play breaking a 3-3 deadlock and Danny Lawson added an empty net goal with 17 seconds remaining as Calgary rallied to beat Winnipeg, extending the Cowboys' unbeaten streak to eight.

Winnipeg took the lead after 37 seconds of play on Anders Hedberg's 13th goal of the season and led 3-1 after one period.

EVERT'S BACK: Chris Evert makes a return on the rim to Britain's Virginia Wade in the opening singles match of the 1976 Wightman Cup tourney at the Chrystal Palace Sports Center in London Thursday night. Miss Evert won the match 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. The best-of-seven series was tied 1-1 going into today's action. Britain's Sue Barker overcame Rosie Casals 1-6, 6-3, 6-2 in Thursday's other match. Rangers Add Punch

NEW YORK (AP) — Having completed a deal he says "will make us one step closer to the playoffs," New York Rangers Coach-General Manager John Ferguson continues to discard players that were with the National Hockey League team when he took it over last January.

Ferguson traded veteran right wing Bill Fairbairn and defenseman Nick Beverley to the Minnesota North Stars for right wing Bill Goldsworthy Wednesday. The move added another offensive gun to the potent New York attack, as Goldsworthy has averaged 30 goals per season; but it cost the last-place club two of its few defensive players.

The Rangers have scored 66 goals in 16 games this season, second only to Montreal in the 18-team league, and the firepower should be increased with the acquisition of the veteran Goldsworthy, a 48-goal scorer in 1973-74. The club has surrendered 63 goals, however, better only than Vancouver and Minnesota.

"We didn't particularly want to give up Nick Beverley, but I believe the change will be good for all parties concerned," said Ferguson.

"We've been looking for a defenseman all year, and it's like pulling hen teeth in the NHL," added North Stars Coach Ted Harris. "We feel we accomplished that by getting Beverley. He moves the puck well, skates well, and we really needed someone to get the puck out of our end."

Ferguson expressed similar pleasure with the acquisition of the 32-year-old Goldsworthy, a right wing whom he plans to

Fairbairn and Beverley had seen only spot duty with New York. The 29-year-old Fairbairn, in his eighth season, had played in 394 games consecutively before being benched in the early season. Beverley, also 29, was the odd man out when Ferguson elected to go with a young defense.

Beverley and Fairbairn became the latest ex-Rangers in a housecleaning that has dispatched defensemen Doug Jarrett and Gilles Marotte, forwards Billy Collins and Rick Middleton and goalie Dunc Wilson.

with Michigan atop the Big Ten — at Minnesota and No. Nebraska, the Big Eight leader, at Iowa State.

In the Second Ten, it's No. 11 Missouri at No. 14 Oklahoma; No. 16 Texas A&M at No. 13 Arkansas; No. 15 Florida at Kentucky; No. 17 Oklahoma State at Kansas State; Kansas at No. 1 Colorado and Wake Forest at No. 20 South Carolina. Twelfth-ranked Houston is idle.

The only teams with perfect records are Pitt, Texas Tech, Maryland, Colgate and Rutgers. Colgate visits Army while Rutgers is at Tulane for a night contest. Southwestern Louisiana has won them all on the field but had to forfeit two games for using an ineligible player. The Ragin' Cajuns visit Northwestern Louisiana under the lights.

U-M Seeking Rebound Win

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — For the first time since 1969, Michigan's football team is coming off a defeat.

The Wolverines have lost games since then — but they've all been to Ohio State in the season finale. They haven't lost two consecutive regular season games since 1967 when Bump Elliott was coach.

But that's what could happen if Illinois can deal the Wolverines their second straight upset loss Saturday at Michigan Stadium in U-M's final home game of the college football season.

Last week Purdue stunned Michigan with a 16-14 Big Ten triumph to knock the Maize and Blue from first to fourth in national ranking.

Coach Bo Schembechler said.

Until last week's loss, many — if not most — people would take such comments with a grain of salt. Schembechler has talked about how tough opponents would be all season, then his team has gone out and crushed them — until Purdue.

"The Illini have beaten Missouri and Purdue both on the road," Schembechler said.

"They have a fine young quarterback in Kurt Steger. I think they have a better passing game than Purdue, while Purdue may have a little better running game."

"Illinois is probably the better overall team because of defense. Illinois has a tough, angle defense that has been hard for us to move on in the past."

Illinois Coach Bob Blackman said Michigan's loss "makes our task doubly tough" because "Michigan realizes they can be beaten and they cannot afford any more losses if they want to win the Big Ten title."

A Wolverines triumph would mean their game next week against Ohio State at Columbus would be for the conference championship and Rose Bowl invitation.

SAINT THAT AIN'T: Minnesota Fighting Saint Pat Westrum (left) grimaces as he and New England Whaler Rosaire Paiement exchange punches in a first period fight in WHA action Thursday night at St. Paul. MSU Can't Afford Loss

Wildcats Could Spoil Winning Season

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Nobody would accuse Michigan State of being a powerhouse like its cousin in Ann Arbor, looking for an underdog to upset its apple cart.

But on a reduced scale, the Spartans face the same risk against Northwestern Saturday as Michigan did against Purdue — losing a game they should win and messing up a season getting rosier by the week.

After a horrendous start, Michigan State has gotten its act together and today is on the verge of becoming a winning team and finishing right behind Michigan and Ohio State in the Big Ten.

But Northwestern, winless in nine tries, is better than its record, according to MSU Coach Darrell Rogers. The Wildcats could snarl the Spartans' plans for a gung-ho five straight wins to wrap up third place.

"In college football, from Saturday to Saturday you must be prepared to play your game," Rogers said. "Anyone can beat anyone. This team (Northwestern) has played well enough to win several games, but hasn't."

MSU goes for its fourth straight win Saturday and a chance to up its record to 4-3 in the conference and 5-4-1 overall. With Minnesota playing Ohio State, that would probably jump the Spartans into at least a tie for third place, although Purdue is likely to be right there with them.

MSU could hardly find a more dismal opponent than Northwestern to continue its climb upward in the Big Ten standings. The Wildcats have been outscored 242-86, lost their best runner — Greg Boykin — early in the season, and have been shut out three times.

The biggest threat Northwestern can muster is quarterback Randy Dean, a big, strong thrower who has hit on 71 of 148 passes — 28 of them to star flanker Scott Yelvington and 23 to tight end Mark Bailey.

"We're playing the best quarterback we've played this year, passing-wise," Rogers said.

The Wildcats' top runner is tailback Pat Beegan, who took over for Boykin and has 392 yards in 112 carries. Fullback Jim Whims has 334 yards.

On defense, the Wildcats have given up about 27 points a game, although only 353 total yards a game — less than the Spartans have allowed.

The Spartans enter the game with several key players still limping from minor injuries suffered in the Indiana contest and doubtful starters. They include tailback and lead rusher Rich Baes, fullback Le Jackson, and defensive tackle Mel Land and Larry Bethea.

The main Spartan attack weapon remains quarterback Ed Smith, who is piling up records with his passing arm. He has now hit on 109 of 203 passes for 1,447 yards and 10 touchdowns — all single-season marks for MSU.

Flanker Kirk Gibson has 10 catches and needs just one more touchdown catch to tie the record of eight in one season. He needs just 19 more yards to catch to top the record of 6 set by Gene Washington in 1966.

Coaches Disagree Over Referee

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coaches Don Cherry of the Boston Bruins and Al Arbour of the New York Islanders agreed their teams had played a good hockey game, but they differed slightly on the work of referee Bruce Hood.

"We're lucky to come out with a tie with him as referee," Cherry said Thursday night after the Bruins and the Islanders battled to a 2-2 deadlock in a meeting of National Hockey League division leaders.

"With an impartial referee,

we would have won the game," Cherry said. "They had four power plays and we had a half one."

"I thought he was very lenient, especially with three or four minutes to go," Arbour said. "I thought there could have been a couple of penalties on them."

In the only other NHL game, Philadelphia outscored Vancouver 6-4.

In the World Hockey Association, San Diego edged Birmingham 3-2, Minnesota and

New England skated to a 3-3 tie and Calgary defeated Winnipeg 7-5.

Gregg Sheppard put Boston in front with his 10th goal at 14:30 of the first period and Denis Potvin tied the score with a 60-foot shot on a power play at 19:12.

Boston's Dave Forbes scored the only second period goal and the Islanders tied it on J.P. Parise's goal at 4:45 of the finale.

Bill Barber and Bob Kelly scored for Philadelphia in the second period after each team recorded three goals in the opening period.

The victory snapped a four-game winless streak for the Flyers, but Coach Fred Shero wasn't satisfied.

Ferguson getting the winning goal at 15:03 of the final period.

Mike Antonovich scored three goals, the final one with 15 seconds left in regulation play, giving Minnesota its tie with New England and extending to 12 the Whalers' winless streak at the St. Paul Civic Center.

New England is 0-10-2 at St. Paul in the five years of the WHA.

Warren Miller scored with less than three minutes to play breaking a 5-5 deadlock and Danny Lawson added an empty net goal with 17 seconds remaining as Calgary rallied to beat Winnipeg, extending the Cowboys' unbeaten streak to eight.

Winnipeg took the lead after 57 seconds of play on Anders Hedberg's 13th goal of the season and led 3-1 after one period.

Rangers Add Punch

NEW YORK (AP) — Having completed a deal he says "will make us one step closer to the playoffs," New York Rangers Coach-General Manager John Ferguson continues to discard players that were with the National Hockey League team when he took it over last January.

Ferguson traded veteran right wing Bill Fairbairn and defenseman Nick Beverley to the Minnesota North Stars for right wing Bill Goldsworthy Wednesday. The move added another offensive gun to the potent New York attack, as Goldsworthy has averaged 30 goals per season; but it cost the last-place club two of its few defensive players.

The Rangers have scored 66 goals in 16 games this season, second only to Montreal in the 18-team league, and the firepower should be increased with the acquisition of the veteran Goldsworthy, a 48-goal scorer in 1973-74. The club has surrendered 63 goals, however, better only than Vancouver and Minnesota.

"We didn't particularly want to give up Nick Beverley, but I believe the change will be good for all parties concerned," said Ferguson.

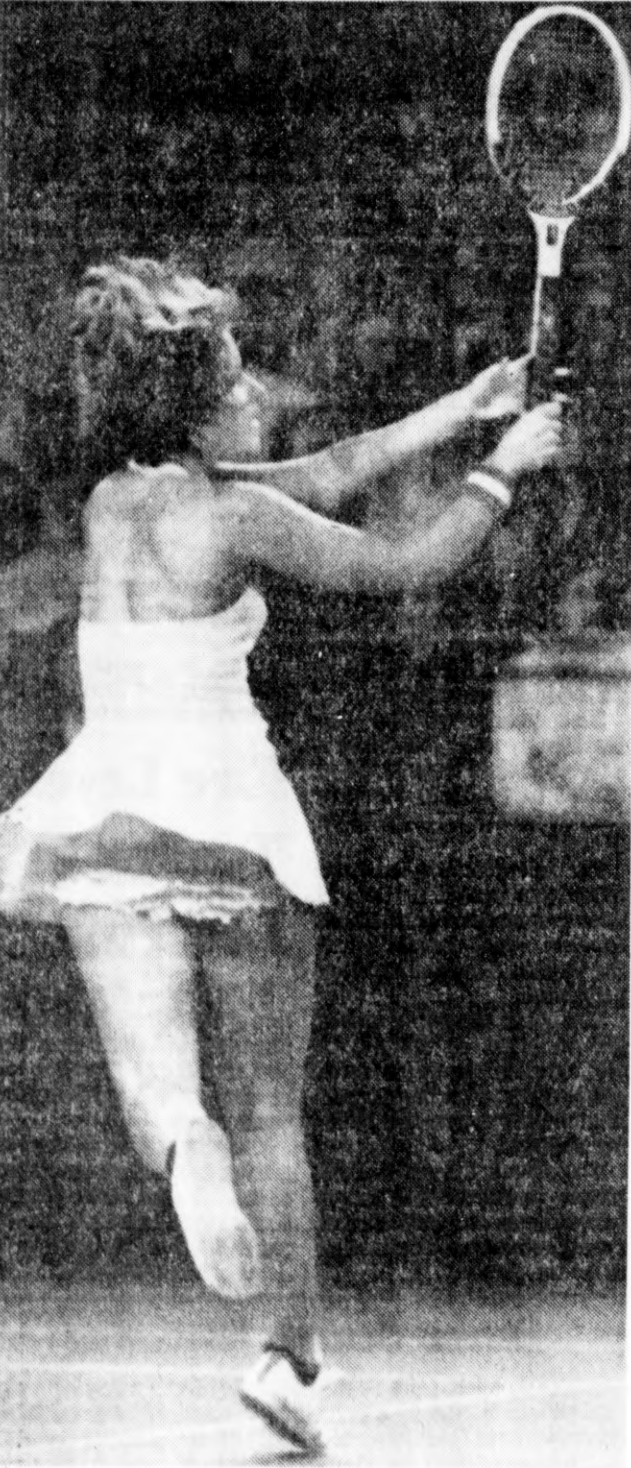

"We've been looking for a defenseman all year, and it's like pulling hen teeth in the NHL," added North Stars Coach Ted Harris. "We feel we accomplished that by getting Beverley. He moves the puck well, skates well, and we really needed someone to get the puck out of our end."

Ferguson expressed similar pleasure with the acquisition of the 32-year-old Goldsworthy, a right wing whom he plans to

Fairbairn and Beverley had seen only spot duty with New York. The 29-year-old Fairbairn, in his eighth season, had played in 394 games consecutively before being benched in the early season. Beverley, also 29, was the odd man out when Ferguson elected to go with a young defense.

Beverley and Fairbairn became the latest ex-Rangers in a housecleaning that has dispatched defensemen Doug Jarrett and Gilles Marotte, forwards Billy Collins and Rick Middleton and goalie Dunc Wilson.

EVERT'S BACK: Chris Evert makes a return on the run to Britain's Virginia Wade in the opening singles match of the 1976 Wightman Cup tourney at the Chrystal Palace Sports Center in London Thursday night. Miss Evert won the match 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. The best-of-seven series was tied 1-1 going into today's action. Britain's Sue Barker overcame Rosie Casals 1-6, 6-3, 6-2 in Thursday's other match. More Woes For Cajuns LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Southwestern Louisiana is undefeated, untied and unfortunate.

Just about the time Southwestern was recovering from the stiff penalties ever imposed on a school by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, another blow fell. The Ragin' Cajuns had to forfeit two games and were made ineligible for the Southland Conference championship.

In 1973, Southwestern got caught paying basketball players. The NCAA cancelled its basketball program for two years and put the school on probation for four years in all sports.

This year came the second jolt, despite a new athletic director, new coaches in basketball and football and a special faculty committee to oversee recruiting, scholarships and eligibility.

The Southland Conference found two ineligible players on the school's football roster. Both were transfer students.

Mustangs Earn Perfect Season Patience First At 1,000

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Basketball is fun for Buchanan's Patience Vanderbush.

And the 6-1 junior center has helped to give Buck fans an enjoyable time this season.

Vanderbush became the first southwestern Michigan girl ever to top the 1,000-point mark for her career Thursday night in helping Buchanan beat Brandywine 49-37 in a Blossomland conference game at Buchanan.

While tossing in 20 points, Vanderbush boosted her three-year total to 1,002.

In other Blossomland action Thursday, River Valley ended a perfect regular season by dumping Cassopolis 51-32, Edwardsburg took Lakeshore 73-50 and Dowagiac edged Coloma 37-32.

Buchanan coach Ray Berry never is short of words in his praise of Vanderbush.

"Patience has two big assets," he said. "One, I think she has excellent coordination for someone her size. And secondly, she has what I think is basketball savvy. When I speak of savvy, I mean that she is knowledgeable about basketball and knows what the moves are."

Vanderbush hit 10 of 21 from the floor and also added 13 rebounds, while dishing out five assists. Rebounding is also one of Vanderbush's strongest suits according to Berry.

"When Patience makes up her mind to rebound, she can rebound with anybody," he said. "She boxes out real well and doesn't let the opponent take her too deep under the basket. She does a good job of going up and into the ball, which I feel is important."

Vanderbush has been playing basketball since she was old enough to bounce a ball. And it doesn't hurt that she comes from an athletic family. She got her first encounter with the game when she went to the gym with her father, Dr. Walt Vanderbush, while he coached at Hilton, N.Y. Her brothers, Walt and Kevin, were the starting guards on Buchanan's Class C state champion boys basketball team last winter.

This past summer Vanderbush attended the Cathy Rush Camp and made the All-Star team there. She also won the one-on-one competition there and has been invited back next summer to be a counselor.

Vanderbush is modest when talking of herself, but prefers instead to speak of her love for the game and of the friends she plays with.

"I enjoy basketball because the group of girls I play with are fun," she said. "They're my best friends. We all really like Mr. Berry as a coach and even came up with the nickname 'Berry's Beauties' to show how we felt about him."

Berry is quite lavish in his praise of Vanderbush as a person.

"Patience is a fine girl to work with," he explained. "She works hard and cooperates with me to the fullest. The only problem I have with her is that sometimes she's her own worst enemy. She gets down on herself. Once in a while you have to give her a pat on the back."

"She definitely is deserving of the 1,000-point mark. She not only scores for us, but also does a good job of looking for the open man."

Sharon Rottman added 10 points for Buchanan, now 15-4 on the year overall. The Bucks finished with an 11-3 Blossomland record and are 43-15 during Vanderbush's three-year career.

Cathy Simmons and Teresa Duncann each tallied 11 for Brandywine.

Blossomland champ River Valley ended at 14-0 in the league and 17-0 overall with its win.

"We have a lot of talent here but the kids really worked hard too...gave them a lot of credit," expressed Valley coach Fred Knut of the perfect record.

Wendy Schwark hit 17 points, Deb Lundin 14 and Ruth Simmons eight for the winners with Peggy De Morrow getting 11 rebounds. Guards Linda Mitchell had eight recoveries and Simmons seven assists.

Cass got 20 points from Billy Goins. The Rangers end at 4-0 in the league.

The Eddie's tied Buchanan for second place in the final standings at 11-3 with its easy win. Tammy Herremans hit 21, Sue Catto 18 and Kathy Rea 10 as the Eddie's jumped out to a big 26-6 first-quarter margin.

Lakeshore, which ends at 6-8 in the league, got 19 from Marlene Peldys and 12 from Kim Foster.

Dowagiac finished at 4-10 with its victory over Coloma, which was 0-14 in the league. Deb Schonbok scored 14 and Vickie Williams eight for the Eddie's while Nancy Capizzo swished 10 for the losers. Coloma led 7-5 and 17-16 after the first two quarters but the Chiefs took a 23-21 edge going into the final period.

REBOUND REACH: Buchanan's Patience Vanderbush (25) and an unidentified Brandywine player reach for a rebound in Blossomland girls basketball action Thursday night in the Buchanan gym. Lakers Retain Slight Arrow Lead

Lake Michigan Catholic's girls basketball team remained in first place by half a game in the Red Arrow conference with a 35-10 win over Galien at home Thursday night.

Berrien Springs still has a chance to tie the Lakers for the title at 13-1 if the Shamrocks win their game with Eau Claire next Tuesday. Berrien kept pace by beating Hartford 58-21 on the road.

In other league games, Bridgman squeaked by Watervliet 23-22 and Eau Claire stopped New Buffalo 47-24 on the road.

Galien went into a semi-stall in the first half and the Lakers only held a 4-0 lead after one quarter, and a 14-4 halftime lead.

But Catholic outscored the Gaels 13-1 in the third quarter to put the game away.

Kim Altic led the winners, who end the regular season at 17-2, with eight points. Sue Heller was high for Galien with six.

The Gaels end the conference season at 2-11.

Berrien Springs, now 15-3 overall, had a balanced scoring attack as the Shamrocks downed the Indians. Denise Schug led the winners with 10 points while Jackie Backus, Cathy Doeppker and Tami Shafer all netted eight.

Lori Shindeldecker had eight points to lead Hartford, now 8-6 in the Red Arrow.

Berrien only led 18-10 at the half but Backus, Shafer and Judy Bowser all came off the bench to spark a second half scoring spree, according to coach Carolyn Crawford.

The junior varsity posted a 66-7 win with Diana Simko and Bev Christl each netting 12 points for the Shamrocks.

Watervliet had a frustrating game at home against Bridgman. The Panthers went out to a 12-8 first quarter lead, only to see it dissolve into a 14-12 Bee lead at the half.

"In the first quarter, we fast broke, set up the offense and moved the ball good," commented coach Andy Saetre. "In the second quarter, we only got six shots off and quit running the offense."

Elayne Walsh had eight points for Bridgman while Julie Baers netted 10 and Kim Philippi eight for the Panthers.

Bridgman ends the conference season at 5-8 and Watervliet falls to 5-9.

Kathy Rodell netted 17, Tammy Vladic 14 and Felicia Murphy eight for Eau Claire, now 9-4 in the league.

Marie Trainor had 13 and Cindy Kail seven for the Bisons, who end the regular season winless in 14 games.

The Beavers won the junior varsity game 25-21. Melody Flowers had 10 points for the winners.

Michigan 'Snaps' Back This Week

By MAJOR AMOS D. HOOPLE
Staff Catastrophe

Holy Upsets, football faithful! Can all you Michigan rinters believe what happened in West Lafayette last week?

I know a couple of people who were about ready to cash in their cookies after the Wolverines lost and proved they weren't as invincible as everyone thought.

But, as the old saying goes...a good football team is like a soggy bowl of Rice Crispies. As it sits around with nothing to do, it just loses its snap, crackle and scoring punch.

As you might remember, Hoople said last week that Michigan and Ohio State ought to make their own conference. Now that upset never would have happened if Bo would have taken the Ole Mags' advice.

Besides, Scott Dierking looked a lot like Norm Bulich, and I could have sworn that was Jan Stenerud who kicked that last Purdue field goal. But,

St. Joseph Girls Lose To Holland

HOLLAND — Patty Ebels scored 17 points as Holland defeated St. Joseph 28-23 here Thursday in girls basketball.

Ebels, averaging 25 points in the Big Seven conference, hit 11 free throws, including seven in the third quarter to spark a Holland comeback.

Ann Ryan hit six and Jill Ziebart five points for St. Joe. Ziebart also had 15 rebounds and played a fine ball game.

St. Joseph, which could only can one of 10 from the charity stripes, held a 7-6 first-period edge and extended it to 11-8 at the half. But Holland led 21-15 going into the last period.

St. Joe finished second in the league at 9-3 and is 19-7 overall. St. Joe plays Lakeshore Monday at the Bear gym.

The Bear jayvees won 26-16 to up their record to 17-0 overall and win the conference at 12-0. Jan Yeske earned 11 points.

St. Joseph's junior varsity football team ended its season on a winning note by downing Benton Harbor's 24-6 at Dickinson Stadium Thursday night.

The game started off with a bang. The Bears kicked off to Jim Anderson, who ran the ball back to the 50-yard line for the Tigers. He then was hit and fumbled the ball away, but teammate Jackie McIntosh picked up the ball and ran it in for a Benton Harbor score.

Steve Southland then provided some excitement for St. Joe. He took the ensuing kickoff and ran it back to the Tigers' 32-yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, Don Fedor went around end for a touchdown. Fedor also ran in the extra points and the Bears held an 8-6 lead.

The Bears sealed the win with 16 points in the second quarter. Mike Jackson went 23-yards for a score, with Eric Wolff running the PAT, and quarterback Jeff Zick ramblled three-yards for the other score.

Zick's touchdown was set up by a 30-yard run by Fedor. Fedor ended the night rushing for 107 yards on 14 carries.

Benton Harbor scored in the third quarter, but the 30-yard touchdown pass was called back because of a holding penalty.

Defensive standouts cited by coach Bart Kruse were linebacker Rick Blake, middle guard Tom Johnson, safety Jeff Kiessel and end Mark Crist.

St. Joe ends the year at 2-7.

Career Clips

Bob North (River Valley) was named the outstanding offensive player of the week by the Michigan Tech coaching staff last week after Tech beat St. Cloud 16-13. The sophomore quarterback got into action in the second quarter when starter Jim Trombley sustained a broken collar bone. North ran for one two-point conversion and passed for another. He rushed 11 times for 28 yards and completed two of five passes for 23 yards. He will start Saturday's game against Minnesota Duluth.

Vanderbush has been playing basketball since she was old enough to bounce a ball. And it doesn't hurt that she comes from an athletic family. She got her first encounter with the game when she went to the gym with her father, Dr. Walt Vanderbush, while he coached at Hilton, N.Y. Her brothers, Walt and Kevin, were the starting guards on Buchanan's Class C state champion boys basketball team last winter.

This past summer Vanderbush attended the Cathy Rush Camp and made the All-Star team there. She also won the one-on-one competition there and has been invited back next summer to be a counselor.

Vanderbush is modest when talking of herself, but prefers instead to speak of her love for the game and of the friends she plays with.

"I enjoy basketball because the group of girls I play with are fun," she said. "They're my best friends. We all really like Mr. Berry as a coach and even came up with the nickname 'Berry's Beauties' to show how we felt about him."

Berry is quite lavish in his praise of Vanderbush as a person.

"Patience is a fine girl to work with," he explained. "She works hard and cooperates with me to the fullest. The only problem I have with her is that sometimes she's her own worst enemy. She gets down on herself. Once in a while you have to give her a pat on the back."

"She definitely is deserving of the 1,000-point mark. She not only scores for us, but also does a good job of looking for the open man."

Sharon Rottman added 10 points for Buchanan, now 15-4 on the year overall. The Bucks finished with an 11-3 Blossomland record and are 43-15 during Vanderbush's three-year career.

Cathy Simmons and Teresa Duncan each tallied 11 for Brandywine.

Blossomland champ River Valley ended at 14-0 in the league and 17-0 overall with its win.

"We have a lot of talent here but the kids really worked hard too...give them a lot of credit," expressed Valley coach Fred Knut of the perfect record.

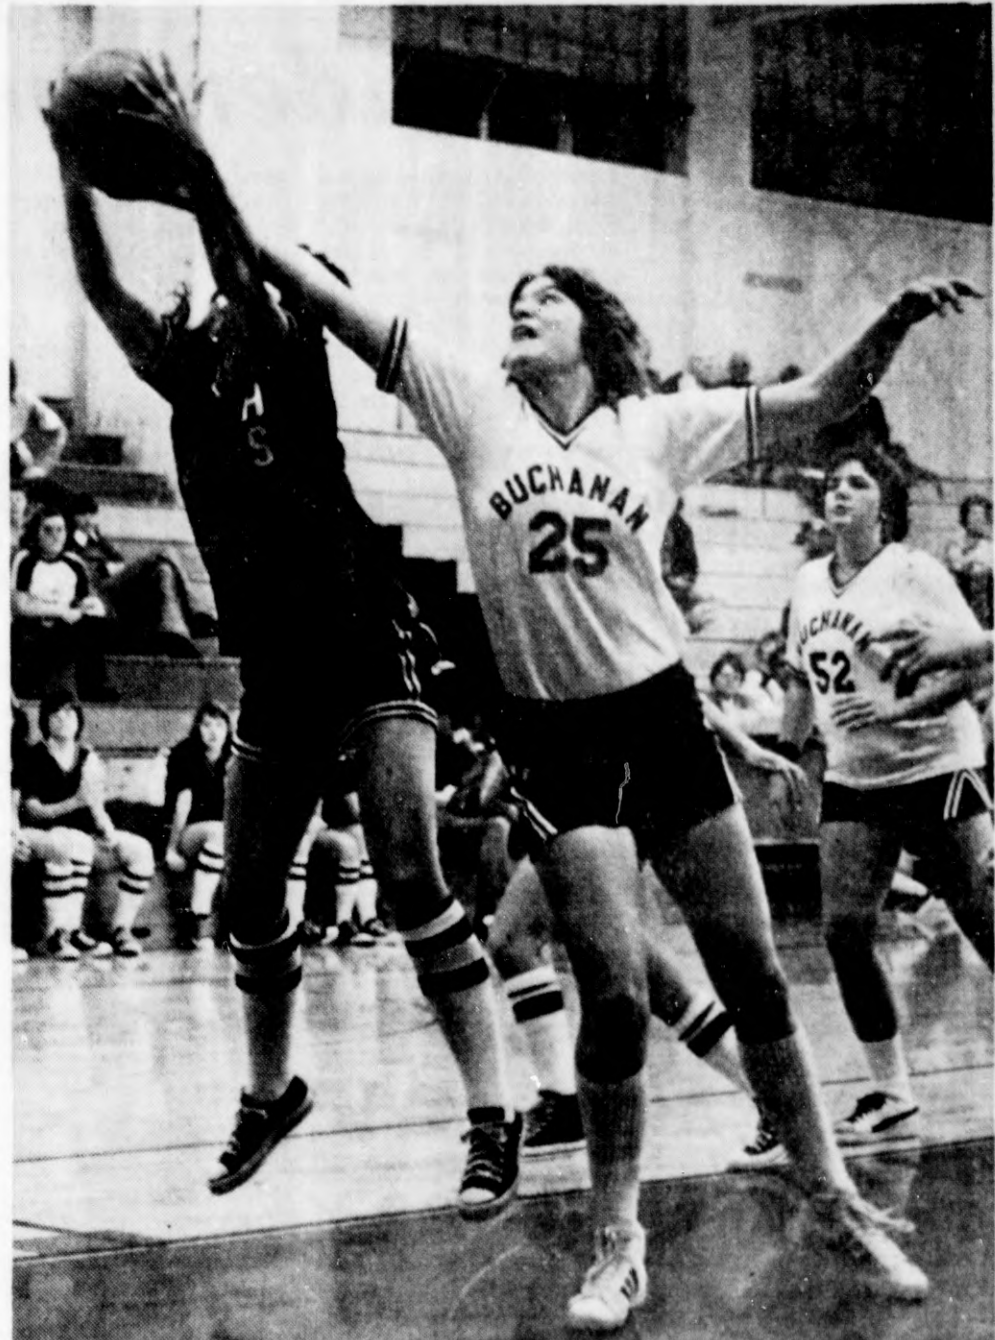

Wendy Schwark hit 17 points, Deb Lundin 14 and Ruth Simmons eight for the winners with Peggy De Morrow getting 11 rebounds. Guards Linda Mitchell had eight recoveries and Simmons seven assists.

Cass got 20 points from Billy Goins. The Rangers end at 4-10 in the league.

The Eddie's tied Buchanan for second place in the final standings at 11-3 with its easy win. Tammy Herremans hit 21, Sue Catto 19 and Kathy Rea 10 as the Eddie's jumped out to a big 26-6 first-quarter margin.

Lakeshore, which ends at 6-8 in the league, got 19 from Marlene Peldys and 12 from Kim Foster.

Dowagiac finished at 4-10 with its victory over Coloma, which was 9-14 in the league. Deb Schonbok scored 14 and Vickie Williams eight for the Eddie's while Nancy Capizzo swished 10 for the losers. Coloma led 7-5 and 17-16 after the first two quarters but the Chiefs took a 23-21 edge going into the final period.

Lakers Retain Slight Arrow Lead

Lake Michigan Catholic's girls basketball team remained in first place by half a game in the Red Arrow conference with a 35-10 win over Galien at home Thursday night.

Berrien Springs still has a chance to tie the Lakers for the title at 13-1 if the Shamrocks win their game with Eau Claire next Tuesday. Berrien kept pace by beating Hartford 58-21 on the road.

In other league games, Bridgman squeaked by Watervliet 23-22 and Eau Claire stopped New Buffalo 47-24 on the road.

Galien went into a semi-stall in the first half and the Lakers only held a 4-0 lead after one quarter, and a 14-4 halftime lead.

But Catholic outscored the Gaels 13-4 in the third quarter to put the game away.

Kim Altic led the winners, who end the regular season at 17-2, with eight points. Sue Heller was high for Galien with six.

The Gaels end the conference season at 2-11.

Berrien Springs, now 15-3 overall, had a balanced scoring attack as the Shamrocks downed the Indians. Denise Schug led the winners with 10 points while Jackie Backus, Cathy Doecker and Tami Shafer all netted eight.

Lori Shindeldecker had eight points to lead Hartford, now 8-6

in the Red Arrow.

Berrien only led 16-10 at the half but Backus, Shafer and Jody Bowser all came off the bench to spark a second half scoring spree, according to coach Carolyn Crawford.

The junior varsity posted a 66-7 win with Diana Simko and Bev Christl each netting 12 points for the Shamrocks.

Watervliet had a frustrating game at home against Bridgman. The Panthers went out to a 12-8 first quarter lead, only to see it dissolve into a 14-12 Bee lead at the half.

"In the first quarter, we fast broke, set up the offense and moved the ball good," commented coach Andy Saetre. "In the second quarter, we only got six shots off and quit running the offense."

Elayne Walsh had eight points for Bridgman while Julie Baiera netted 10 and Kim Philippi eight for the Panthers.

Bridgman ends the conference season at 5-8 and Watervliet falls to 5-9.

Kathy Rodell netted 17, Tammy Vladic 14 and Felicia Murphy eight for Eau Claire, now 9-4 in the league.

Marie Trainor had 13 and Cindy Kail seven for the Bisons, who end the regular season winless in 14 games.

The Beavers won the junior varsity game 25-21. Melody Flowers had 10 points for the winners.

Michigan 'Snaps' Back This Week

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Staff Catastrophe

Holy Upsets, football faithful! Can all you Michigan rosters believe what happened in West Lafayette last week?

I know a couple of people who were about ready to cash in their cookies after the Wolverines lost and proved they weren't as invincible as everyone thought.

But, as the old saying goes...a good football team is like a soggy bowl of Rice Crispies. As it sits around with nothing to do, it just loses its snap, crackle and scoring punch.

As you might remember, Hoople said last week that Michigan and Ohio State ought to make their own conference. Now that upset never would have happened if Bo would have taken the Ole Major's advice.

Besides, Scott Dieking looked a lot like Norm Bulch, and I could have sworn that was Jan Stenerud who kicked that last Purdue field goal. But,

St. Joseph Girls Lose To Holland

HOLLAND — Patty Ebels scored 17 points as Holland defeated St. Joseph 28-23 here Thursday in girls basketball.

Ebels, averaging 25 points in the Big Seven conference, hit 11 free throws, including seven in the third quarter to spark a Holland comeback.

Ann Ryan hit six and Jill Ziebart five points for St. Joe. Ziebart also had 15 rebounds and played a fine ball game.

St. Joseph, which could only can one of 10 from the charity stripes, held a 7-6 first-period edge and extended it to 11-8 at the half. But Holland led 21-15 going into the last period.

St. Joe finished second in the league at 9-3 and is 19-7 overall. St. Joe plays Lakeshore Monday at the Bear gym.

The Bear jayvees won 26-16 to up their record to 17-0 overall and win the conference at 12-0. Jan Yeske canned 11 points.

LONG STREAK

Harry Chosen hit safely in 49 straight games for Mobile, Ala., of the Southern Association in 1945.

Hoople is no stoolie, so the NCAA will have to find out about Purdue the same way it did Michigan State.

Enough of looking back, as losing coaches are apt to say (they also say things like "I really like the program here and am sorry I have to resign after going 0-42"). Let's take a look at what's in store Saturday.

Illinois travels to the home of Bo, and if the Wolverines lose this one...I'm turning in my Rose Bowl press pass.

Eddie Smith ought to have a field day with Northwestern. The football ought to be in the air so much it will cause interference on O'Hare Airport's radar.

Of course, the pride of the state is now Northern Michigan. Hoople predicts the Wildcats will humble poor Grand Valley and roll on to another national championship.

Speaking of things to be proud of...on with the forecast!!

Hoople's high school predictions are now at 73 per cent (115-158). In college games, he has picked 242 out of 338 for 72 per cent.

SJ Jayvees Top Tigers

St. Joseph's junior varsity football team ended its season on a winning note by downing Benton Harbor's 24-6 at Dickinson Stadium Thursday night.

The game started off with a bang. The Bears kicked off to Jim Anderson, who ran the ball back to the 50-yard line for the Tigers. He then was hit and fumbled the ball away, but teammate Jackie McIntosh picked up the ball and ran it in for a Benton Harbor score.

Steve Southland then provided some excitement for St. Joe. He took the ensuing kickoff and ran it back to the Tigers' 32-yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, Don Feder went around end for a touchdown. Feder also ran in the extra points and the Bears held an 8-6 lead.

The Bears sealed the win with 16 points in the second quarter. Mike Jackson went 23-yards for a score, with Eric Wolff running the PAT, and quarterback Jeff Zick rambled three-yards for the other score.

Zick's touchdown was set up by a 30-yard run by Feder. Feder ended the night rushing for 107 yards on 14 carries.

Benton Harbor scored in the third quarter, but the 30-yard touchdown pass was called back because of a holding penalty.

Defensive standouts cited by coach Bart Kruse were linebacker Rick Blake, middle guard Tom Johnston, safety Jeff Kiessel and end Mark Crist.

St. Joe ends the year at 2-7.

with a 48-17 win over Bloomingdale. Gobles topped Lawrence 65-25 and Lawton beat Michigan Lutheran 47-19 in a non-league game.

Denise Brown scored 13 and Linda Ringo 10 for the Wildcats, who are now 18-1 overall. Kathy Oetman led Martin, 4-8 in the league, with 17 points.

A balanced scoring attack did the job for the Raiders, who end the regular season at 6-10. Judy Davis led all scorers with 12 points, while Sherri Mroczek and Rhonda Rouse each had 10. Mel Dittlinger scored five points for the Cardinals.

Sue Robarge and Pam Markus each notched 20 points to lead Gobles past Lawrence. Lois Sill led the losers with eight points.

Gobles winds up the SAC season in second place at 9-2.

Jo Stewart had 11 points, Kim Burke 10 and Jody Reid nine for the Blue Devils. Jean and Denise Masse each had four points for the Titans.

Career Clips

Bob North (River Valley) was named the outstanding offensive player of the week by the Michigan Tech coaching staff last week after Tech beat St. Cloud 16-13. The sophomore quarterback got into action in the second quarter when starter Jim Trombley sustained a broken collar bone. North ran for one two-point conversion and passed for another. He rushed 11 times for 28 yards and completed two of five passes for 23 yards. He will start Saturday's game against Minnesota Duluth.

Aiming For Fourth Straight 600 Series Carol Fender On Hot Streak

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

Carol Fender is on a 600 "kick."

The New Buffalo kogler has streaked to three consecutive 600 series and she'll try to make it four in a row this weekend.

Carol started her November drive with a 620 Nov. 2 in the Tuesday Night Ladies league at Theo's Lanes. She added her second 600 with a 644 Sunday in the Sunday Night Mixed Doubles league and then came back this week Tuesday night with a 617.

The 644 is the top women's series so far this season in southwestern Michigan. Her 258 game, notched in her 817 series, also is good for third place in the high games rankings.

Carol, who didn't have a 600 last year, can't explain her run of 600's.

"I haven't been doing anything different...no changes at all. I guess I'm just on a hot streak. But I don't know if I can keep it up."

Carol, who supports averages of 174 and 176, socked games of 204-208-232 for her area-leading 644 series. She flung six straight strikes in her big 258 game.

Marian Archer also got into the 600 picture this week with a 210-169-215-600 in the Tuesday Twilights league at Blossom

Carl Eichman picked up the 7-10 this week while Curran Johnson hit an 128 tripplicate and Lynn Hall an 155 tripplicate.

The $100,000 Brunswick World Open will start Sunday in the Chicago suburb of Glendale Heights. The finals will be telecast nationally by CBS on Saturday, Nov. 20, from 4:30 to 6 p.m. About 182 top bowlers from all over the world will compete in the tourney, which gives $14,000 to the winner. Dave Davis is defending champ. A Pro-Am event will kick off the event Sunday.

Pat Sjoggerud of Kenosha, Wis., became the first WIBC member to bowl a sanctioned perfect game during the 1976-77 season on Sept. 30. After opening with games of 227 and 223, the 168-average bowler produced her 300 for a fine 750 series, which ranks as the fourth highest bowled so far this season.

TIME OUT!

"That's while we're winning... we'll say we're a little bit ahead and THEN say we're a very gentle person."

Ball State Can Clinch Crown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ball State can wrap up the Mid-American Conference football championship Saturday if the Cardinals can manage their first-ever victory over Western Michigan.

If they beat the visiting Broncos, Ball State would become the first squad outside of Ohio to win the undisputed MAC football crown. The Cardinals would have a 4-0 league record and only one game left. All other contenders have at least two conference setbacks.

Elsewhere in the MAC Saturday, Kent State (3-2) visits Miami (2-3) and Central Michigan (3-2) is at Northern Illinois (0-3).

Non-conference games have Southern Illinois at Bowling Green, Eastern Michigan at Illinois State, Ohio University at Cincinnati and Marshall at Toledo, the long night contest.

Three teams cling to slim mathematical hopes of overhauling Ball State in the stretch. However, the Cardinals would have to lose both of their remaining league games for Ohio, Central Michigan or Kent

State to have a chance.

If Ball State wins Saturday and also at Eastern Michigan next week, the Cardinals believe they have a shot at a bowl bid, probably the new Independence Bowl in Louisiana.

Ball State has dropped all three of its previous decisions to the Broncos, the last being 30-13 in 1973.

The game shapes up as a duel between Ball State quarterback Art Yaroch and Jerome Persell, Western Michigan's exceptional running back.

Yaroch, the Cardinals' all-time career total offense leader with 4,194 yards, paces the MAC in that department this season. He's averaging 181.6 yards.

Persell, fifth in the nation in scoring, has accounted for 1,146 yards and ranks first in the conference in rushing.

Rams Edged

SOUTH HAVEN — Cornstock defeated South Haven 12-6 here Thursday in a freshmen football game. The Rams scored on a 20-yard pass from Joe Ricca to Marvin McKenzie. South Haven finishes the year at 7-2.

Wayne Athlete Aids Elderly Blind Man

DETROIT (AP) — Other college athletes may spend their free time hanging around the campus. Morris Blackwell spends his in a dilapidated southwest Detroit apartment, caring for an elderly blind man.

For the last four years Blackwell, a senior wide receiver on the Wayne State University football team, has been visiting the 78-year-old man, known only as Leo, twice every day.

Blackwell heard about Leo four years ago, and began visiting the aged man to take care of his two dogs.

"He used to have some people living with him but they were all alcoholics and they died," Blackwell said. "Leo said he got lonely at nights, so I got conned into stopping over every night."

Leo lies on a sofa he hasn't left for three years. As he grew more helpless, Blackwell took over more duties, cleaning, dressing and feeding him.

"He has to have eaten more submarine sandwiches than anybody else in the world," Blackwell said. "I go to the bar down the street and get him two every day. Sometimes my mom will fix a roast and I'll bring him some roast beef sandwiches. But the next day he's back eating those subs. He really wolfs 'em down."

well does all his banking, and Social Security pays Blackwell $1.25 a day.

"He asked me if I wanted a raise last year," Blackwell said. "but what the hell, if I ever needed any money he would lend it to me."

Leo says he once worked as a bell captain at several downtown hotels, where he met sports and theatre celebrities. He tells stories about them: Fannie Brice, Mae West, Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth.

Blackwell, who also plays baseball and basketball at Wayne, gets his degree in the spring and hopes to find a high school teaching job by next fall. He said he has been breaking in his two younger brothers to help take care of Leo.

"It's pretty depressing to go in there and see him like that day after day, but the guy has got to laugh sometimes and I try and clown around with him," Blackwell said.

Lying on his shabby couch, Leo spoke up. "You can't beat Morris. He's really a good boy. He takes good care of me ... He's always here when I need him."

Blackwell said a doctor told him surgery could give Leo back his sight.

"Three years ago he was all set to go to Ann Arbor and have an operation on his eyes. He had a friend who was going to drive him and he was just waiting for another lady to come over and watch the house until I got out of school."

"She never showed up, and he never went to Ann Arbor."

Leo gets about $275 a month in government assistance. Black-

ITA Is Going Out Of Business

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What Mike O'Hara calls his Noble Experiment — the International Track Association — has succumbed to the financial pressures of competition and supply and demand.

Ball State Can Clinch Crown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ball State can wrap up the Mid-American Conference football championship Saturday if the Cardinals can manage their first-ever victory over Western Michigan.

If they beat the visiting Broncos, Ball State would become the first squad outside of Ohio to win the undisputed MAC football crown. The Cardinals would have a 4-0 league record and only one game left. All other contenders have at least two conference setbacks.

Elsewhere in the MAC Saturday, Kent State (3-2) visits Miami (2-3) and Central Michigan (3-2) is at Northern Illinois (0-3).

Non-conference games have Southern Illinois at Bowling Green, Eastern Michigan at Illinois State, Ohio University at Cincinnati and Marshall at Toledo, the long night contest.

Three teams cling to slim mathematical hopes of overhauling Ball State in the stretch. However, the Cardinals would have to lose both of their remaining league games for Ohio, Central Michigan or Kent

State to have a chance.

If Ball State wins Saturday and also at Eastern Michigan next week, the Cardinals believe they have a shot at a bowl bid probably the new Independence Bowl in Louisiana.

Ball State has dropped a three of its previous decisions the Broncos, the last being 30-13 in 1973.

The game shapes up as a du between Ball State quarterback Art Yaroch and Jerome Persel, Western Michigan's exception running back.

Yaroch, the Cardinals' all time career total offense leader with 4,194 yards, paces the MA in that department this season. He's averaging 181.6 yards.

Persell, fifth in the nation in scoring, has accounted for 1,143 yards and ranks first in the conference in rushing.

Rams Edged

SOUTH HAVEN — Comstock defeated South Haven 12-6 Thursday in a freshmen football game. The Rams scored on 20-yard pass from Joe Ricca to Marvin McKenzie. South Haven finishes the year at 7-2.

Wayne Athlete Aids Elderly Blind Man

DETROIT (AP) — Other college athletes may spend their free time hanging around the campus. Morris Blackwell spends his in a dilapidated southwest Detroit apartment, caring for an elderly blind man.

For the last four years Blackwell, a senior wide receiver on the Wayne State University football team, has been visiting the 78-year-old man, known only as Leo, twice every day.

Blackwell heard about Leo four years ago, and began visiting the aged man to take care of his two dogs.

"He used to have some people living with him but they were all alcoholics and they died," Blackwell said. "Leo said he got lonely at nights, so I got conned into stopping over every night."

Leo lies on a sofa he hasn't left for three years. As he grew more helpless, Blackwell took over more duties, cleaning, dressing and feeding him.

"He has to have eaten more submarine sandwiches than anybody else in the world," Blackwell said. "I go to the bar down the street and get him two every day. Sometimes my mom will fix a roast and I'll bring him some roast beef sandwiches. But the next day he's back eating those subs. He really wolfs 'em down."

Leo has glaucoma. "I had a doctor that wasn't really qualified as an eye doctor," the frail old man said, "and I lost my sight."

Blackwell said a doctor told him surgery could give Leo back his sight.

"Three years ago he was all set to go to Ann Arbor and have an operation on his eyes. He had a friend who was going to drive him and he was just waiting for another lady to come over and watch the house until I got out of school."

"She never showed up, and he never went to Ann Arbor."

Leo gets about $275 a month in government assistance. Blackwell does all his banking, and Social Security pays Blackwell $1.25 a day.

"He asked me if I wanted a raise last year," Blackwell said, "but what the hell, if I ever needed any money he would lend it to me."

Leo says he once worked as a bell captain at several downtown hotels, where he met sports and theatre celebrities. He tells stories about them: Fannie Brice, Mae West, Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth.

Blackwell, who also plays baseball and basketball at Wayne, gets his degree in the spring and hopes to find a high school teaching job by next fall. He said he has been breaking in his two younger brothers to help take care of Leo.

"It's pretty depressing to go in there and see him like that day after day, but the guy has got to laugh sometimes and I try and clown around with him," Blackwell said.

Lying on his shabby couch, Leo spoke up. "You can't beat Morris. He's really a good boy. He takes good care of me... He's always here when I need him."

SMC Returning Only 2 Lettermen

DOWAGIAC — Coach Jim Tansey has a tough task ahead of him at Southwestern Michigan College.

The veteran cage coach must replace the bulk of last season's squad which won the Western Collegiate conference title and went 24-3 with a 22-game winning streak.

For his efforts, Tansey was elected District Coach of the Year, also.

But this year's team will have a completely new look as only two lettermen return. Biggest loss for the Roadrunners is hot-shooting guard Jim Powers. He led the team in scoring with a 23.3 average and gained all-conference and all-state honors. Also gone are Bill Carson, the team's top rebounder and a 17.1 scorer, and Wayne Battcast, a 14.7 point man.

Tansey does have a talented group of freshmen to go with returning starter Bill Benko and forward Jeff Miller.

Benko was Powers' running mate last year, averaging 14 points per game. Miller, a forward, saw limited action and averaged about three points per game.

"I think Bill Benko gives us the maturity we need," Tansey states.

If SMC was lacking anything last season, it might have been height. That will not be a problem this year, with the addition of Paul Daniels and Dave Barnes.

Daniels (6-7) is from South Bend Adams where he played backup center to T-I Glen Sudhop, now at North Carolina State. At Adams, Daniels hit the 15 points-per-game mark.

Barnes is a sophomore from Niles who played his freshman ball at the Naval Academy. During the 1973-74 season at Niles, he averaged 11.6 points per game on a team which went 22-2, losing the championship game of the Class A regional to Battle Creek Central.

"Our rebounding looks better this year," Tansey states. "Barnes impresses me and Daniels. I know is good."

Joel Skibbe, a 6-2 guard from Laporte, is slated to see action. He averaged 22 points and also played on the Indiana West All-Star team.

Another good guard prospect is Roger Hackworth. The 6-0 freshman averaged 18 points a halfgame at Elkhart Memorial.

Top forward candidates include 6-3 Jerry Thomas from Valparaiso, 6-4 Dave Shellito from Mishawaka Penn, 6-3 Melvin Carpenter from South Bend Washington and 6-1 Charles Willis from Elkhart Memorial.

"I think this season we're going to have to rely on speed more than we have before," Tansey says. "We have good speed and good shooting on the club."

"Some of the other schools in the conference are really loaded," he comments. "Jackson got Dick Versace from MSU as its new coach and he recruited some good people."

"Most coaches are conceding it to them, but I don't think so."

Denver Handed First Setback

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Denver met one of the National Basketball Association's top stars for the first time Thursday night and its honeymoon in its new surroundings ended.

Bob McAdoo, the league's scoring leader each of the past three seasons, scored 22 points and pulled down 25 rebounds for Buffalo as the Braves handed Denver its first loss in nine NBA starts, 103-94. It was the fourth straight victory for Buffalo, 6-4, which got off to a slow start when McAdoo missed the first four games with back problems.

In other games, Atlanta edged Portland 107-105, San Antonio topped the New York Nets 108-104, Phoenix outscored Indiana 108-88, and Kansas City stopped Golden State 94-88.

NBA fans are seeing McAdoo, who had 19 defensive rebounds, and the Braves perform differently this season in their bid to dethrone Boston as Atlantic Conference champion. "McAdoo is passing more," said Buffalo Coach Tates Locke. "And we are depending on contributions from the bench. Each of our reserves has to understand he might be a big hero one night and not play much the next night. If they can accept that we can win."

David Thompson, who was 14-for-25, led all scorers with 36 points for Denver. He hit his first six shots in the final quarter as the Nuggets cut a 15-point deficit to four.

And Thompson, who averaged 26 points per game as an American Basketball Association rookie last season, still is adjusting to his new role as a guard after performing at forward in college and last season.

"It's a little different," Thompson said. "You have to handle the ball more and try to set up other players too. At forward I was mainly trying to get myself open. I drove more to the basket and used my quickness to get there before the defense set up. Now I've got to pull up for a jumper and use a pick."

John Drew fired a 24-foot jump shot with three seconds left to snap Portland's five-game winning streak. The off-balance shot gave Drew 25 points, but veteran Lou Hudson led Atlanta with 33 points.

"He (Drew) took a very difficult shot and made it," said Portland Coach Jack Ramsay.

George Gervin scored 30 points and former Nets player Larry Kennon 29 as San Antonio won the battle of former ABA clubs. New York's John Williamson led all scorers with 31.

A tight Phoenix defense forced Indiana to take many of its shots from 15 feet and beyond.

Six Phoenix players finished in double figures with Ricky Sobers and Paul Westphal leading the attack with 18 each. Westphal scored his points before leaving the game in the third period with a sore knee, but a team doctor said he would be available for the team's next game. Indiana's Billy Knight led all scorers with 24 points.

"I can't go out and put the ball in the basket for them," said Warriors Coach Al Attles after his club dropped its fifth straight game and made only two of 17 shots in the last quarter.

"We had plenty of good shots. I can remember five layups. The ball just wouldn't go in," moaned Attles.

Ron Boone paced the Kings with 22 points. Phil Smith, who had Golden State's only two field goals in the final 13½ minutes of play, led all scorers with 25 points.

"Our rebounding looks better this year," Tansey states. "Barnes impresses me and Daniels, I know is good."

Joel Skibbe, a 6-2 guard from Laporte, is slated to see action. He averaged 22 points and also played on the Indiana West All-Star team.

Another good guard prospect is Roger Hackworth. The 6-0 freshman averaged 18 points a ballgame at Elkhart Memorial.

Top forward candidates include 6-3 Jerry Thomas from Valparaiso, 6-4 Dave Shellito from Mishawaka Penn., 6-3 Melvin Carpenter from South Bend Washington and 6-1 Charles Willis from Elkhart Memorial.

"I think this season we're going to have to rely on speed more than we have before," Tansey says. "We have good speed and good shooting on the club."

"Some of the other schools in the conference are really loaded," he comments. "Jackson got Dick Versace from MSU as its new coach and he recruited some good people."

"Most coaches are conceding it to them, but I don't think so."

Denver Handed First Setback

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Denver met one of the National Basketball Association's top stars for the first time Thursday night and its honeymoon in its new surroundings ended.

Bob McAdoo, the league's scoring leader each of the past three seasons, scored 22 points and pulled down 25 rebounds for Buffalo as the Braves handed Denver its first loss in nine NBA starts, 105-94. It was the fourth straight victory for Buffalo, 6-4, which got off to a slow start when McAdoo missed the first four games with back problems.

In other games, Atlanta edged Portland 107-105, San Antonio topped the New York Nets 108-104, Phoenix outscored Indiana 108-98, and Kansas City stopped Golden State 94-86.

NBA fans are seeing McAdoo, who had 19 defensive rebounds, and the Braves perform differently this season in their bid to dethrone Boston as Atlantic Conference champion.

"McAdoo is passing more," said Buffalo Coach Bates Locke. "And we are depending on contributions from the bench. Each of our reserves has to understand he might be a big hero one night and not play much the next night. If they can accept that we can win."

David Thompson, who was 14-for-25, led all scorers with 36 points for Denver. He hit his first six shots in the final quarter as the Nuggets cut a 15-point deficit to four.

And Thompson, who averaged 26 points per game as an American Basketball Association rookie last season, still is adjusting to his new role as a guard after performing at forward in college and last season.

"It's a little different," Thompson said. "You have to handle the ball more and try to set up other players too. At forward I was mainly trying to get myself open. I drove more to the basket and used my quickness to get there before the defense set up. Now I've got to pull up for a jumper and use a pick."

John Drew fired a 24-foot jump shot with three seconds left to snap Portland's five-game winning streak. The off-balance shot gave Drew 25 points, but veteran Lou Hudson led Atlanta with 33 points.

"He (Drew) took a very difficult shot and made it," said Portland Coach Jack Ramsay.

George Gervin scored 30 points and former Nets player Larry Kenon 29 as San Antonio won the battle of former ABA clubs. New York's John Williamson led all scorers with 31.

A tight Phoenix defense forced Indiana to take many of its shots from 15 feet and beyond.

Six Phoenix players finished in double figures with Ricky Sobers and Paul Westphal leading the attack with 18 each. Westphal scored his points before leaving the game in the third period with a sore knee, but a team doctor said he would be available for the team's next game, Indiana's Billy Knight led all scorers with 24 points.

"I can't go out and put the ball in the basket for them," said Warriors Coach Al Attles after his club dropped its fifth straight game and made only two of 17 shots in the last quarter.

"We had plenty of good shots. I can remember five layups. The ball just wouldn't go in," moaned Attles.

OIL ROYALTIES TO PAY FOR MOVE

Alaskan Capital Now Wilderness

By W. ROBERT WELLS
Associated Press Writer
WILLOW SOUTH, Alaska (AP) — "It's been kind of slow around Willow this summer," says Perlia Strassburg, who headed the recent successful campaign to move Alaska's capital here from Juneau.

Flying over the snow-covered area Wednesday, there were no signs of the construction fever prevalent in much of Alaska for the last few years. But there may be soon.

About 100 square miles of undeveloped state-owned land five miles southeast of Willow have been chosen for the new capital, which is within sight of Mt. McKinley, North America's tallest peak.

The site is covered with birch and spruce trees, and at present its only tenants are moose, black bear and migrating and feeding birds.

Mean winter temperature is 10 degrees, and in summer the mean reading is in the mid-50s. Just a few miles away is the most productive agricultural region in Alaska.

SCULPTOR DIES: Alexander Calder, one of the most influential sculptors of 20th Century, died in New York Thursday. He is shown in 1975 in Dallas, where he was working on his tribute to nation's Bicentennial celebration. Using exterior of Braniff jet as his "canvas," Calder created abstract painting of U.S. flag flying through the air. (AP Wirephoto)

Going Back Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Friday, Nov. 12, the 317th day of 1976. There are 49 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1941, during World War II, the Soviets halted German invaders at the outskirts of Moscow.
On this date:
In 1603, Sir Walter Raleigh was put on trial for treason in Winchester, England.
In 1812, Napoleon Bonaparte's army reached the Russian city of Smolensk in its retreat from Moscow.
In 1927, Joseph Stalin became dictator of the Soviet Union as Leon Trotsky was expelled from the Communist Party.

In 1937, the Japanese captured and occupied the Chinese city of Shanghai.
In 1948, a war crimes court in Japan sentenced former Japanese Premier Hideki Tojo and six other Japanese war leaders to death.
Ten years ago: A 16-year-old youth forced seven women and girls to lie on the floor of a beauty school in Mesa, Ariz. and shot them in the head, killing five.
Five years ago: U.S. Army helicopter gunships accidentally killed eight South Vietnamese northeast of Saigon.
One year ago: William O. Douglas retired from the U.S. Supreme Court because of failing health after setting a record of 36½ years on the Court.

Today's birthdays: Princess Grace of Monaco is 47. U.S. Supreme Court Justice Harry Blackmun is 88. Actress Kim Hunter is 54.
Thought for today: It is the malady of our age that the young are so busy teaching us that they have no time left to learn. — Eric Hoffer, American writer, born 1902.
Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, a North Carolina state constitution was adopted by the Provisional Congress in a tumultuous session in Halifax.

But to Southeast Alaskans, and especially residents of Juneau, the vote was a bitter defeat. Some said Southeast Alaska would have more in common with Canada than the United States if the capital moved.
Juneau, more than 600 miles from most of Alaska's population, is considered too remote. It is reachable from the rest of the state only by boat or air.
Willow South is only 70 road miles from Anchorage, home of more than half the state's population.
Much work remains to be done before the move gets under way. The legislature has to create a planning commission. Then a bond issue has to be written to pay for the move and passed by voters.
The projected cost to the state is $320 million, paid out of massive oil royalties from development of Prudhoe Bay.
Gov. Jay Hammond says the capital will move by the deadline of 1980, even if it means "somebody's up there in a tent."
One state official has estimated that about 2,000 of 2,700 state workers in Juneau will be moved — at state expense — from Juneau to Willow South. The entire cost of the move, including costs to private industry and the federal government, could bring the total bill to more than $2 billion. That includes money to indemnify Juneau residents against financial hardship from the move.
The state may be able to redeem a portion of its costs through leasing or selling land to private developers and businesses that want to open up in the new capital, according to the site selection committee. All land within the capital site is state-owned, and that may discourage a mad scramble by land speculators.
Mrs. Strassburg believes the state could raise enough money this way to pay for the whole project. Her optimism is typical of the 1,500 or so residents who live within the area adjacent to the site. They voted 3-1 in favor of moving the site here.

Museum Pledge
NEW YORK (AP) — Walter H. Annenberg, president of Triangle Publications and a former ambassador to Great Britain, has pledged $20 million for a new visual arts center at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The center is to make the world's art more available.

Mean winter temperature is 10 degrees, and in summer the mean reading is in the mid-50s. Just a few miles away is the most productive agricultural region in Alaska.

For many residents of Palmer, Willow, Wasilla, Big Lake and Houston — all towns within 25 miles of the proposed site — it was the victorious end of an eight-year, personal struggle when voters picked Willow South over two other potential sites in the Nov. 2 election.

But to Southeast Alaskans, and especially residents of Juneau, the vote was a bitter defeat. Some said Southeast Alaska would have more in common with Canada than the United States if the capital moved.

Israel Eyes Dropout Of Soviet Jews

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - Controversy is raging here over Soviet Jews who get exit visas for Israel but go to live in the United States or other countries. About half the Jews who have left the Soviet Union with Israeli visas this year have become "noshrim" - dropouts who settle elsewhere.

It is a serious problem for Israel, a state built on immigration which seven years ago launched a worldwide campaign for the right of Soviet Jews to come to Israel.

The dropout phenomenon strikes at the ideological roots of the Jewish nation, whose declaration of independence lists "the ingathering of the exiles" as Israel's first aim.

MANISTEE, Mich. (AP) - A countywide levy of 3.5 mills actually won the approval of Manistee County voters, a recount shows.

Unofficials returns from the Nov. 2 election showed the millage for a countywide bus transportation system lost by 103 votes.

But canvassers found this week that Manistee township failed to count its absentee ballots. There were enough such ballots for the measure to pass by 19 votes.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Turns Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned mixed today after its brief turnaround on Thursday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down more than two points after opening trades.

But advancing issues led those declining by an almost 3-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts attributed Thursday's moderate gain—after four straight days of decline—largely to technical forces triggered by the market's fall to a 10-month low.

And brokers said investors are still apprehensive over the continuing sluggishness of the economy, as well as uncertainty over how President-elect Jimmy Carter would do when in office.

Early prices today included General Motors, down 1/4 to 68 3/4; Tandy Corp., up 1/4 to 35 1/4; and Xerox Corp., down 1/2 to 57 3/4.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average rose 7.39 to 931.43, trimming its loss since the election to 34.66 points.

Advancing issues led those declining by about a 7-5 margin on the NYSE.

Volume on the Big Board slumped to 13.23 million shares, the lowest it has been in 5 1/2 weeks.

Gas Firm's Net Income $3.1 Million

MONROE — Michigan Consolidated Gas Utilities Co. has reported net income of $3,126,200 or $1.82 a share for the 12 months ended Sept. 30 based on 1,713,690 shares outstanding.

This compares to a net of $3,049,600, or $1.96 per share based on 1,558,363 shares for the 12 months ended Sept. 30, 1975.

The company reported consolidated earnings after preferred dividends for the first nine months of 1976 of $1,687,400, or 96 cents per share based on 1,759,844 shares outstanding.

The firm also reported a loss of $616,500 for the three-month period ended Sept. 30, or 35 cents a share, but noted losses are normally experienced during summer months when less gas is used.

Furnance Blamed In Home Fire

Benton Harbor firemen said a faulty oil furnace in a basement caused a fire that damaged floor joists at the Rosie Gorman residence, 784 Superior street, shortly before 1 a.m. today. Firemen said a table and clothing near the furnace also were damaged and smoke was ejected from throughout the home.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

It's Current Market Price That Counts

By SAM SHULSKY
Q. I acquired 436 shares of American Tel. & Tel. over a 25-year period. I have always figured my rate of return by using an average cost per share. But now I have decided I am getting too low a return on the higher cost shares. My buying prices range from $21.16 to $59.24 — adjusted for splits. So I plan to sell the higher cost shares and buy some Bell Telephone bonds. However, in a recent column you told someone to reckon the cost of a portion of his shares by using an average price for capital gain and income tax purposes. I don't understand. I was going to use my actual cost. I am 67 and want more income.

A. I suggest you are confusing two separate and distinct matters: Return on your investment and the computing of capital gains.

From the yield point of view, all your Telephone shares are returning the same income. At a price of 60 (on the day your letter arrived) the $3.80 dividend worked out to a yield of 6.33 per cent.

If you took the total dividend for the 436 shares and divided it by the total present market value of your shares you would get the same 6.33 per cent. If you reduce your holdings by selling shares which cost you $59.24, your yield on the remaining investment would still be 6.33 per cent. And the same is true if you sold the lower cost stock. A share of Telephone is a share of Telephone, and the original cost has no bearing on the current yield.

Now as to arriving at cost for capital gains purposes: If you wanted to sell all your Telephone, your cost, for tax purposes, would be all the money you laid out to acquire all the shares.

If you want to sell only part of your Telephone, and pay the smallest possible gains tax, you would naturally sell only the shares which cost you $59.24 — thus, in effect, wiping out any taxable gain (assuming a selling price at 60).

If you wanted to take a profit (because you already have losses to offset) you would sell the lowest cost shares. You would thus be taking a profit which didn't cost you anything in taxes and at the same time retain high cost shares which would minimize any future capital gains taxes.

Your broker can help you to select shares to be sold which would best suit your current or future tax needs.

But keep firmly in mind that computing current income and capital gains liabilities are two entirely separate matters. All Telephone shares, at a current market price of 60, yield 6.33 per cent — all of yours and everyone else's.

Your dilemma is another example of the problems which arise when one takes original cost as the basis for figuring the current yield on investment. It's current market price that counts — and nothing else.

Shulsky welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column. For information on retirement, and pre-retirement planning, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your requests to Sam Shulsky, care of this newspaper.

Contractor Backs Out Of Gym Job

COLOMA — A Detroit firm has forfeited a $595 bid bond with the Coloma school district in a disagreement over contracts for replacing the high school's gym floor.

Ronald Clark, assistant superintendent of the district said the J. Bauer Corp. forfeited the bond after refusing to honor contracts for two phases of the work.

According to Clark, the firm declined to remove the old floor or install a new concrete sub-floor. It had been awarded contracts for the two phases on its low bids, he said. The bids were $4,500 for floor removal and $7,400 for sub-flooring.

Clark said the firm declined to perform the work because it did not receive the contract for the third phase, installing the new floor.

The contract for the new floor went to another firm because its bid was lower than Bauer's by $1,180.

The contract for the new floor was awarded to Foster Flooring Co., Wixom, on its bid of $27,820. Replacement of the gym floor was undertaken because it had been damaged by storm water which seeped under the gymnasium's outer doors during a storm July 20.

Pearson Construction Co., Benton Harbor, was subsequently contracted with to remove the old floor for $4,990, and install the sub-flooring for $9,800.

AU Study Of Berrien Is Ready

BERRIEN SPRINGS — A study of Berrien county's population, including statistics on race, marital and family status, occupations and incomes, has been compiled at Andrews university here.

A university spokesman said Dr. Rudolf E. Klimes, director of the Center for Studies and Services in Education (CSSE) and LeVerne Bissell, a doctoral student in educational administration at Andrews, compiled the study.

The spokesman said the study was originally developed to help Lake Michigan college formulate goals and objectives, but is now available to the public at $4 per copy.

The 36 tables in the study show population breakdowns according to race, sex, marital and family status, occupations, origins, income, poverty level, years of schooling, school enrollments, population forecasts, general social and economic characteristics and selected educational characteristics.

The study was compiled from information from the U.S. Census bureau and the Berrien county planning commission, the spokesman said.

The statistical outlines might be of value to business, educational, governmental and planning organizations and can be obtained from the CSSE at Andrews, the spokesman added.

1-Family Homes Are Hot Sellers

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The amazing strength of existing single-family home sales continues to defy the economic slowdown and even long-established seasonal marketing trends that usually show a slowdown as winter approaches.

"New monthly sales record were established in every region of the country," said the National Association of Realtors. Resale activity in September, it reported, was 25.7 per cent ahead of the year-earlier rate.

In all, 266,000 homes were sold during September, which the Realtors said worked out to a seasonally adjusted annual pace of 3.33 million sales. Because of a lower rate earlier this year, actual sales for 1976 are expected to be more than 2.7 million, a record.

The vigorous pace of activity in the resale market has gone relatively unnoticed by some of the public and even by professional economists because of the highly visible depression in the new-home market.

But, while the economy was in the midst of the recession, millions of Americans exercised their own individual judgments that used homes were good buys.

The existing home market is unique in some respects. It is all but unorganized. Rather than reflecting the concerted activity of volume sellers and buyers, or the effectiveness of sales promotion, it represents many private decisions.

Real estate people repeatedly hear customers refer to existing homes as being better built and more commodious, and often that the neighborhoods in which such houses exist are mature and stable, and better supplied with services and conveniences.

The breakdown by the Realtors does not include sales figures on urban versus suburban home sales, but some of the activity is likely to represent a renewed interest in core-city living.

The survey shows that the market was particularly brisk in the West, where on a seasonally adjusted basis sales rose an unprecedented 15.3 per cent over the August pace.

The next strongest performance was the 10.2 per cent gain posted in the Northeast, but sales also were above expectations in the Southern and north-central regions, with monthly gains of 8 per cent and 3.5 per cent, respectively.

Again contrary to patterns existing in the economy as a whole, the median sale price of an existing single-family home fell in September to $38,700 or $700 below the August level.

More significantly, the Realtors report, prices in September were just 8.1 per cent above the level of a year ago, and well below the 10.8 per cent rise in 1974 and the 10.4 per cent climb in 1975.

The West was an exception to the price trend, with sales tags rising sharply. Reports from that region show prices have risen 16.9 per cent over the past 12 months.

The median price in the West was $47,800 in September, compared with $28,600 in September 1972. The median Northeast price was $43,100 compared with $30,800 in 1970.

The least expensive area consisted of the north-central states, where September prices were $33,400 or $11,400 more than five years ago. In the Southern region the median price was $36,200 versus $26,700 five years earlier.

While some of the activity is believed to reflect the lessening of options because of a low rate of new-home construction, there is a good deal of persistence to the upturn.

In only one year since 1968 has there been a decline from the previous year. That was in 1974, when sales dipped to 2,272,000 from 2,334,000 a year earlier.

Consumers Increasing N-Power

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Within five years, more than one-fifth the electricity used by Consumers Power Co. customers will be generated by nuclear energy, according to the utility's president.

John Selby said Thursday about 22 per cent of the electric power the company will provide in 1981 will be nuclear generated. He said Consumers currently generates about 12 per cent of its electricity from uranium.

Selby, addressing an "energy alert seminar" at Michigan State University, said 10 states currently get at least 25 per cent of their electricity through nuclear power.

The leading nuclear state is Connecticut, which gets 50 per cent of its electric energy from nuclear power plants. Illinois gets 30 per cent and Wisconsin 29 per cent from nuclear plants.

From January through June this year, Selby said, nuclear power provided 8.3 per cent of all electricity generated in the United States.

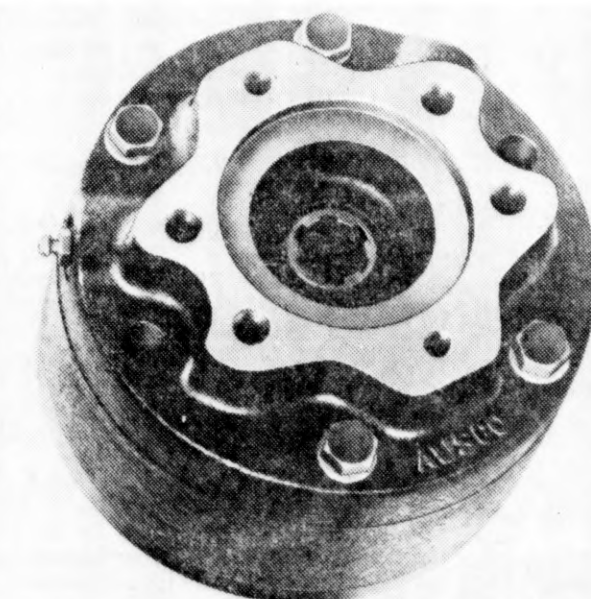

Selby said the growing use of nuclear power is due to its low relative cost compared to oil or coal.

NILES — Hugh Biggs thinks it's a shame the way "regular church" ministers refuse to marry some people, so he's doing something about it. He'll marry anybody who has a license.
In fact Biggs even makes house calls.
"The church ministers flatly refuse to marry the pregnant girls and so people like me do it," says the tall, soft-spoken Biggs. "I suppose there's some religious aspect of it. But I think every person needs someone. I think someone should marry them."
Biggs, who looks appropriately reverential with his blond, fortyish good looks, is a roofer by trade.

POLICE ROUNDUP Bridge Worker Fight Is Probed

St. Joseph police reported two men were injured Thursday in what officers described as a fight resulting from an argument among construction workers employed on the new bridges between Benton Harbor and St. Joseph.

Police said the fight occurred about 9 p.m. near a warehouse where workers had gathered after finishing the workday. According to information gathered by four patrolmen, the fight was over the pros and cons of union membership.

Released after treatment for facial cuts at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, was Steve Cunningham, 23, of 3388 Valley View drive, St. Joseph township. Frederick Carl Ryznar, 25, of 3810 Southfield drive, Lincoln township, sought his own treatment. Police said no arrests have been made pending signing of complaints.

Benton township police reported two men were arrested Thursday night on charges of breaking and entering a motor vehicle — a refrigerated van at McDonald's Dairy, 1330 East Empire avenue.

Booked at Berrien county jail were Mark Anthony McDaniel, 20, of Benton township, and Michael Gary Russell, 22, of 1953 Union street, Fairplain.

Police said 25 half-gallons of milk allegedly taken from the Coloma — Mrs. Larry VanAvery, 1988 Cherry.

Three Oaks — Mrs. Carl H. Anderson, Box 132.

"The marriages are mostly a side thing," he says. "I also do some hauling for hire."

He became a minister by writing to the Universal Life Church in Modesto, Calif., and requesting credentials.

Biggs performs marriages — legal ones — both in Niles and across the Indiana state line in tiny Roseland, population 895.

He has already performed nearly 300 marriages this year, most of them in a two-room "marriage house" he maintains in Roseland. The house has his telephone number painted on the outside.

"The thing that really did it was when they got rid of the JP's (Justices of the Peace)," Biggs says. "There suddenly wasn't anyone to do those weddings anymore."

For a while, Biggs says, he was marrying people on a half hour's notice. But that became too hectic and cut into his roofing business.

"Now I try to keep the marriages to after-work hours or weekends," he says. "I was cutting myself too thin the other way."

Biggs does have to turn away a few who want to exchange vows. Once in a while, he says, he gets calls from women who want to marry other women.

"Even if I did it, it wouldn't be legal," Biggs explains. "There's no way they can get a license unless one of them dresses up like a man and fools the clerk."

If they have a license, however, Biggs feels they are entitled to his full 10-minute service and a white embossed marriage certificate.

"I try to make it nice without being too gaudy," he says.

Marriage is the only service Biggs performs in his ministerial capacity. For his own religious needs, he attends the Church of Christ in Niles.

But he says he'd take on other tasks if somebody asked. "I've got my book," he says. "It has funerals, baptisms, weddings. I can do anything any minister can do."

Biggs says he considers what he does to be a service.

"I'm not in this for the money. Right now, with all the expenses, I'm not even breaking even," he says. But "in a few years, I should be showing some profit."

HOMOSEXUAL FILMS PRODUCED Boys Farm Director Arrested

WINCHESTER, Tenn. (AP) — Police in East Lansing, Mich., provided information leading to the indictment of an Episcopal priest on 16 charges of using teen-aged boys in his care in the production of obscene films and four misdemeanor counts of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

The Rev. Claudius Ira "Bud" Vermilye Jr., 47, was arrested Thursday for the second time in two days and released on $10,000 bond.

Dist. Atty. William Pope said East Lansing, Mich., police had arrested a man on charges of engaging in homosexual relations with teen-aged boys and found photos and letters Pope said were traced to the Rev. Mr. Vermilye's nonprofit rehabilitative home, Boys Farm.

The Rev. Mr. Vermilye was indicted on three charges of committing crimes against nature and eight charges of aiding and abetting crimes against nature by filming them, all felonies. He also was indicted on one misdemeanor count of using juveniles in the production of obscene films and four misdemeanor counts of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Smiling for photographers after his release, the Rev. Mr. Vermilye said, "I guess we've put Alito on the map." Boys Farm is near Alto, about 25 miles from this southeast Tennessee town.

He refused to answer reporters' questions.

Prior to the arrest, the Franklin County Grand Jury heard nearly four hours of testimony from six witnesses, including four residents of Boys Farm, which the Rev. Mr. Vermilye chartered as a nonprofit Tennessee corporation in 1971. The alleged offenses occurred between December 1973 and October 1976.

The 12-member grand jury, which included three women, also saw evidence seized a week ago in a raid at Boys Farm.

The Rev. Mr. Vermilye had been arrested Wednesday on charges of a 1974 crime against nature and was released on $10,000 bond. He surrendered at the county jail following his indictment Thursday.

Pope said the priest was first arrested because it was feared he might try to leave the country before the grand jury could meet. The arrest followed a raid last week at the farm in which pornographic photographs and movies were allegedly seized.

Pope said the raid followed information supplied by police departments in Waterbury, Conn. and New Orleans, La. as well as East Lansing. He did not detail the information from Connecticut.

He said East Lansing police had arrested a man on charges of engaging in homosexual relations with teen-aged boys and found photos and letters which Pope said were traced to Boys Farm.

New Orleans police, who arrested a 31-year-old former scoutmaster and 12 other men on charges of conspiring to commit crimes against nature on teen-aged boys, said some evidence led to Boys Farm.

INDICTED: The Rev. Mr. Claudius Ira Vermilye is shown after his indictment Thursday on 16 state charges that he produced pornographic, homosexual films from a home for teenage boys in Alto, Tenn. He is an Episcopal priest. (AP Wirephoto)

Medicare Ruling Favors Elderly

DETROIT (AP) — Medicare patients cannot be denied nursing home care without first giving them a hearing to determine their eligibility, a federal judge has ruled.

U.S. District Court Judge Lawrence Gubow's decision was announced Thursday by Citizens For Better Care, a state organization involved with protecting the rights of the elderly.

"There are 31 million Americans on Medicare," said Chuck Chomet, executive director of the organization. "This is a landmark decision which could affect any one of them should they enter a nursing home."

The judge's October decision came on a class action suit filed in 1972 by Anna Himmler, 58, formerly of Detroit, and the late Carl Fidorra of Inkster. Fidorra died in 1974.

Mrs. Himmler entered a Detroit hospital in June 1972 after she suffered a stroke that left her partially paralyzed. One week later, she was transferred to a Detroit nursing home that was certified by Medicare.

The suit contended her doctors at that time certified Mrs. Himmler needed skilled nursing care.

Under federal law, Medicare pays up to 100 days of skilled nursing care if a patient is considered to need it. The determination of need is made by the patient's attending physician and by the nursing home's review committee.

But in October 1972, Mrs. Himmler was notified by Michigan Blue Cross that only the first eight days of her nursing home care would be covered. She was told she owed the nursing home $1,000 for her treatment.

Mrs. Himmler contended in the suit that she was not given a pre-termination hearing by either Blue Cross or the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which supervises Medicare.

Judge Gubow said in his decision that federal officials denied Mrs. Himmler and Fidorra due process by not granting them "reasonable notice and a hearing before denying payments."

"The hardship this imposes upon an elderly person no longer drawing a working income is quite substantial ... and could result in the deprivation of essential health care," the judge said in his ruling.

Gubow's order does not specify who must pay the $3,000 Mrs. Himmler was billed, according to Ken Lewis, an attorney for Michigan Legal Services.

Chomet of Citizens for Better Care hailed the ruling as a victory for the elderly "over the arbitrary bureaucracy of the federal government."

Medicare Ruling Favors Elderly

DETROIT (AP) — Medicare patients cannot be denied nursing home care without first giving them a hearing to determine their eligibility, a federal judge has ruled.

U.S. District Court Judge Lawrence Gubow's decision was announced Thursday by Citizens For Better Care, a state organization involved with protecting the rights of the elderly.

"There are 31 million Americans on Medicare," said Chuck Chomet, executive director of the organization. "This is a landmark decision which could affect any one of them should they enter a nursing home."

The judge's October decision came on a class action suit filed in 1972 by Anna Himmler, 58, formerly of Detroit, and the late Carl Fidorra of Inkster. Fidorra died in 1974.

Mrs. Himmler entered a Detroit hospital in June 1972 after she suffered a stroke that left her partially paralyzed. One week later, she was transferred to a Detroit nursing home that was certified by Medicare.

The suit contended her doctors at that time certified Mrs. Himmler needed skilled nursing care.

Under federal law, Medicare pays up to 100 days of skilled nursing care if a patient is considered to need it. The determination of need is made by the patient's attending physician and by the nursing home's review committee.

But in October 1972, Mrs. Himmler was notified by Michigan Blue Cross that only the first eight days of her nursing home care would be covered. She was told she owed the nursing home $3,000 for her treatment.

Mrs. Himmler contended in the suit that she was not given a pre-termination hearing by either Blue Cross or the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which supervises Medicare.

Judge Gubow said in his decision that federal officials denied Mrs. Himmler and Fidorra due process by not granting them "reasonable notice and a hearing before denying payments."

"The hardship this imposes upon an elderly person no longer drawing a working income is quite substantial ... and could result in the deprivation of essential health care," the judge said in his ruling.

Gubow's order does not specify who must pay the $3,000 Mrs. Himmler was billed, according to Ken Lewis, an attorney for Michigan Legal Services.

Chomet of Citizens for Better Care hailed the ruling as a victory for the elderly "over the arithmetic bureaucracy of the federal government."

Fire Under Car Snuffed In St. Joe

St. Joseph firemen extinguished burning leaves and grass under a parked car owned by Leroy Janz, 816 Lions Park drive, yesterday at about 6:15 p.m.

The fire was apparently caused by a spark when Janz attempted to start the engine, according to firemen.

Firemen reported no damage to the car, which was parked on the lawn next to Janz's house.

WHEN ALASKA PIPELINE OPENS NEXT YEAR Major Oil Glut Looming In California

By STEPHEN FOX
AP Business Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Californians who remember the long lines, short tempers and nippy nights caused by the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo may be surprised to learn that a new problem is looming: too much oil.

It's not that there have been any major new finds. The difficulty, according to oilmen, government planners and private analysts, is that West Coast refineries will be unable to handle up to half of the 1.2 million barrels of crude oil per day expected from the Alaska pipeline when it opens late next year.

Ironically, it was the reactions of the public, business and the government to the five-month embargo that led in part to the anticipated oil glut. Oilmen say consumption declined after the embargo because of higher prices and conservation measures. They say this in turn discouraged them from investing in new refineries.

"You only build refineries because you have demand for the products they produce," says Robert Schaudt, vice president of Standard Oil Co. of Ohio (Sohio), which owns 54 per cent of the reserves in Alaska's rich Prudhoe Bay field.

"We felt some basic shifts had occurred after the embargo," he said. "Instead of having large rates of increase in demand, the rates were whittled down to perhaps two or three per cent, instead of the six per cent or so we had been expecting."

Governmental reaction to the embargo came in the form of Project Independence, designed to reduce this country's dependence on imported oil. One part of the project was the opening of the Elk Hills Naval Petroleum Reserve near Taft to commercial production for the first time, a move which added 200,000 barrels a day to the West Coast's supply.

The Midwest and East Coast could use the Alaskan crude, but the oil companies haven't figured out exactly how to get it there. Although there are several proposed connector pipelines, none exists now. Tankers are another possibility, but oilmen say there aren't enough to handle the surplus.

Another option is an exchange with Japan whereby the Japanese would get some of the Alaskan crude in return for diverting some of their Middle Eastern oil shipments to the U.S. However, Congress prohibited such a swap when it approved construction of the Alaska pipeline in 1973, and oilmen say privately that such an exchange would face severe political opposition.

Atlantic Richfield (ARCO), which owns 20 per cent of the Prudhoe Bay reserves (EXXON also owns 20 per cent, with the remaining six per cent split among a number of companies), says it doesn't anticipate problems in refining its share of the Alaskan crude.

"We feel we can handle all our oil," says ARCO Vice Chairman Louis Davis. "We have a refinery in Washington, which we designed for Alaskan crude, that will handle 100,000 barrels a day, and another in Southern California. So we feel we're pretty well equipped to take care of our approximately 20 per cent."

However, Sohio, with the lion's share of the oil, is seeking approval to ship its crude by tanker to Long Beach, where it would be shipped east to Midland, Texas, via a proposed 1,000-mile pipeline. From Midland, the oil would go through existing pipelines to the Midwest.

The project would require converting about 800 miles of existing natural gas pipeline for use as a crude oil carrier and constructing 200 miles of new lines. Sohio says the project could handle almost all of the surplus oil and could be ready in less than 18 months. However, it has come under attack from the state Air Resources Board, which says the tankers and tanks needed for the oil shipments would add some 40 tons of hydrocarbons a day to the air.

Sohio disputes the ARB figures and points to a recent study done by the Port of Long Beach in conjunction with the state Public Utilities Commission which says the increased hydrocarbon emissions would come to about 1.5 tons per day.

Don Bright, director of environmental affairs for the port, says the ARB figures assume that tankers will "purge," or clean, their oil tanks while still in the harbor. Bright says a common practice is to purge tanks at sea. Sohio also says it is willing to pay for pollution controls on other emission sources in the Long Beach area in order to offset the tanker emissions and ensure that there is no overall deterioration in air quality.

Whatever means of getting rid of the oil are found, analysts say the problem of a West Coast surplus isn't going to go away soon. They point out that the flow from the Prudhoe Bay is expected to reach 1.8 million barrels a day in 1981. One study by James D. Hickey, oil and oil services analyst with the stock brokerage firm of Stern, Frank, Meyer & Fox, projects a 714,000 barrel a day surplus on the West Coast in 1981.

In addition, a number of oil companies are drilling off the coasts of California and Alaska, areas generally considered to be among the richest potential oil fields in the world. If there is a major strike, that production would come on top of the currently projected surplus.

All these factors make it impossible to determine "the amount or duration of the surplus," says Robert Wycoff, ARCO vice president for corporate planning.

"You have to guess if we'll be successful in the Gulf of Alaska or offshore California," says Wycoff. "You have to guess, on the consumption side, if nuclear power is going to be acceptable, or if we'll have to build oil-fired plants to replace nuclear plants."

Despite the surplus on the West Coast, oil executives point out that the United States is, and will remain, an oil-importing nation. And they claim they're having a little difficulty in persuading the public of the potential problems of an oil glut.

"After the embargo," says Schaudt, "I think it was very difficult for people to believe we could ever have a surplus anywhere."

Honda Bumps Volkswagen

DETROIT (AP) — Honda, the minicar specialist, shoved one-time leader Volkswagen into fourth place in U.S. foreign car sales during October to give Japanese automakers an unprecedented 1-2-3 sweep of the American import market. Honda reported record sales of 16,814 cars for the month, an 85 per cent gain from a year ago, to finish third in import sales. VW was fourth with 13,170, an 11 per cent decline from the year before. Toyota remained solidly entrenched in the No. 1 spot with sales of 31,737 cars in October, up 51 per cent from a year ago. Datsun stayed in second place with sales of 27,842, up 36 per cent from 1975.

Toyota remained solidly entrenched in the No. 1 spot with sales of 33,737 cars in October, up 51 per cent from a year ago. Datsun stayed in second place with sales of 27,842, up 36 per cent from 1975.
